Publisher's Notes

By Timothy J. Pade • pade@dgnt.com

Happy Holidays and New Year!

We are happy to be back in business and working to bring you this edition. Having been off, like many of you, due to COVID 19, we are blessed to be in the golf and tennis business and so fortunate to do what we love. Golf rounds are up more than 28% over last season and the courses and facilities are eager to welcome you and see you on the courts and courses!

With this issue, we are delighted to again promote the American Express at PGA West, the Waste Management Phoenix Open PGA events and the ANA Championship LPGA tournament. Although the tournaments are gallery free this year, we hope this issue and the tournaments held at our amazing facilities will bring some "normality" to your life. We are all ready to get back to whatever our new "normal" will be and trust that our publication can provide you as much golf and tennis information as possible without even leaving your home!

We wish we could promote and feature all the bars and restaurants in this publication, but ask you to support your favorites throughout the valley. We are so fortunate to have such amazing dining options in the desert! Take out and patio dining will still be a best option for us all now that the temperatures have cooled and most of the area restaurants will welcome you and sincerely appreciate your support!

Golf in the valley is booming, the golf courses are in excellent shape and memberships are way up in the valley. The BNP Paribas is on schedule for this March and moving forward to host the tournament and even have ticket holders in the stands.

The weather is amazing and season is here! We pray that the new vaccine will end COVID 19 and we can all resume our amazing lives and the great opportunities we all enjoy in this paradise wonderland!

We hope you enjoy this issue as much as we enjoy putting it together and hope you will all stay healthy and safe in the New Year!

The American Express

The Desert Classic is scheduled for January 2021
but little else is known

By Christine Loomis

This will be just the second year of American Express as title sponsor for the beloved Desert Classic. While the kickoff 2020 tournament was a solid reboot for the PGA Tour's only stop in the Coachella Valley, 2021 is less certain.

Like every other PGA Tour event coming up in 2021, The American Express is facing unprecedented challenges thanks to COVID-19. Given that it's a January event, it's even more fluid than tournaments coming later in the year. In fact, organizers have few details as we go to print.

Here's what we know. The 2021 American Express will be played Jan. 20-24 at PGA West and La Quinta Country Club in La Quinta, California. As has been true for the past several years, the courses will include PGA West's Stadium Course, PGA West's Nicklaus Tournament Course, and La Quinta Country Club's course.

For the second year Phil Mickelson will serve as Tournament Host, and there's every reason to believe he's as enthusiastic this year as he was when his new role was announced just two months after American Express signed on as sponsor. Mickelson had been the event's ambassador for several years, but the role of host puts him more front and center at the tournament. Additionally, The Mickelson Foundation became the host organization starting with the 2020 tournament.

Mickelson's move to host was announced at a special event at the Madison Club in La Quinta in Dec. 2019. "The PGA Tour asked that I, along with my foundation, take on a bigger role, and my wife Amy and I decided that it would be the right fit," Mickelson said. "We want to have more direct involvement in the charitable support and contributions here in the valley.

About partnering with American Express he said, "To partner with American Express, a brand involved with many other world-class sporting and entertainment events around the world, and to have them see our vision is important. What makes me so excited is that in all of sports there is no greater value than we have here with The American Express. From a terrific golf tournament, to hosting two of the greatest music artists in the world [in 2020], we will make The American Express the place to be in January."

The two great artists were, of course, Stevie Nicks and Luke Bryan, who headlined the entertainment at last year's event.

Whether there will be entertainment in 2021 remains up in the air but seems unlikely. Other PGA tournaments early in the year that typically include big-name entertainment, such as the Waste Management Phoenix Open, are scaling down, eliminating entertainment and other hospitality options that draw crowds. The focus instead is on the tournaments themselves and the charities they support.

The history and importance to the community of this tournament cannot be overstated. It came to prominence in the 1960s when Bob Hope championed it and invited his celebrity friends to participate in a pro-am prior to the main event. Celebrity participation was a huge part of its draw over many years. But as new sponsors came on, the celebrity angle was played down (to the dismay of many fans) while the golf and charities were emphasized.

Mickelson, who won the Desert Classic in 2002 and 2004 and came in as runner-up in 2019, appears to be in sync with that focus. All of this is positive. After some uncertain years without a sponsor, the tournament appears to be on solid ground with Mickelson and American Express.

2020 Champion Andrew Landry

Stephen J. Squeri, chairman and CEO of American Express has been enthusiastically behind the tournament. "American Express' new multiyear partnership with this historic event on the PGA Tour is a perfect match," he said at the announcement of the company's sponsorship. "Golf consistently ranks as one of the top passions of our card members, and provides some of the most exciting experiences at some of the best venues the game offers. We're looking forward to making The American Express a 'must-see' event for fans and card members alike."

Perhaps no group was happier to get this longtime tournament back on solid ground than the PGA Tour itself, as was noted by Tyler Dennis in 2019, chief of operations for the PGA Tour. "We're extremely pleased to welcome American Express as the new title sponsor for what will be known as The American Express. With its historic connection to the great Bob Hope, the tournament has been a popular fixture in the Palm Springs area since 1960 and holds the distinction of being one of two PGA TOUR tournaments where amateurs actually play during tournament competition. Through this new relationship, The American Express will continue as an important part of the West Coast Swing."

Tournament Host Phil Mickelson, 2020 Champion Andrew Landry and American Express CEO Steve Squeri

With a pandemic still in play, pros are committing to tournaments later than in the past so there's no word as of this writing as to who's playing. But the participation of 2020 champion Andrew Landry seems likely, and perhaps Adam Long who won in 2019 and Jon Rahm, the 2018 winner who recently played well in the November Masters, tying for 7th.

A Look Back at the 2020 US Open

By Chris Lewis • Photos by Luigi Serra

Dominic Thiem defeated Alexander Zverev in a five-set comeback. Playing in his fourth major final, the 27-year-old ultimately won 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6,

Dominic Thiem

Although Djokovic and Williams weren't in the finals, the US Open was still an incredible championship.

When Thomas Muster won the French Open in 1995, he became the first Austrian to win a Grand Slam title. For 25 years, he remained the only Austrian to achieve the highest levels of success in tennis—until Sunday, September 13, when Dominic Thiem defeated Alexander Zverev in a five-set comeback.

Playing in his fourth major final, the 27-year-old ultimately won 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6, as Zverev claimed a 6-2, 5-1 lead in less than an hour, despite the fact that Thiem was the No. 2 seed and the favorite to win.

"It was tough to stay there and still believe, but I did," Thiem said. "It's a Slam final. The belief was always there."

Although Zverev was only four games away from the title, Thiem was able to shift the match's momentum, as he ultimately became the first player in the Open era to win from two sets down in a US Open final.

When all was said and done, four breaks of serve occurred during the last five games of the match, leading to 15 breaks of serve in all. While battling cramps, Thiem won rallies of 13 and 11 balls during the breaker and roped a forehand winner at 6-all, leading to his third—and final—match point. In turn, he won the first-ever fifth-set tiebreak in a US Open championship match.

"Obviously, it was huge pressure in the match, huge emotions," Thiem stated. "Physically, it was super tough. It was a lot coming through the mind, coming through the body."

He added, "When I made that match point, when he missed that backhand, it was such a big relief. This is a major title. It's just the highest thing that you can achieve in tennis."

A Shocking Default

Meanwhile, the original favorite to win the 2020 US Open—three-time champion Novak Djokovic—was defaulted from his round of 16 match against Pablo Carreño Busta.

Tied 5-5 during the first set, Djokovic fell over after changing directions in response to a Carreño Busta ball. Receiving a medical timeout for his left shoulder, Djokovic then lost the game. Angry about the loss, he hit a ball to the back of the court, which happened to strike a line umpire, leading to the default.

As a result, Djokovic lost all of the ranking points he earned at the US Open and was fined the prize money he won, along with any other fines that will be levied, due to the incident.

While apologizing to the line umpire, Djokovic also released a statement on his Instagram page: "This whole situation has left me really sad and empty. I checked on the lines person and the tournament told me, thank God, she is feeling okay."

"I was in shock," Carreño Busta said. "I hope the best for her, [and] that she will be okay as soon as possible."

Novak Djokovic

Naomi Osaka, claimed her third Grand Slam singles title.

Osaka Continues to Shine

The tournament's other favorite to win—Serena Williams—also didn't participate in the finals, but for entirely different reasons, as she was defeated by two-time major champion Victoria Azarenka during the semifinals.

Seeking an Open-era best seventh US Open title and a record 24th Grand Slam singles title, Williams lost 1-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Defeating Williams for just the fifth time in 23 career head-to-head matches (and the first time in a major), Azarenka, in the midst of a career comeback, was very satisfied with the victory.

"I'm so grateful to be able to play such a champion in the semifinals," Azarenka said. "On the road to the final, you have to beat the best players, and definitely today was that day."

The momentum did not continue for Azarenka though, as she lost the finals 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 to Naomi Osaka, who claimed her third Grand Slam singles title.

"I feel like two years ago, I maybe would have folded, being down a set and a break," Osaka said. "But I think all the matches I played in between that time forced me to mature more."

Although Azarenka didn't win her first Grand Slam singles title since 2013, the former world No. 1 was still pleased with her results, knowing that Osaka is one of the game's rising stars.

"I did everything I could, [and] I left everything on the court," she stressed. "She won the match. All the credit to Naomi. She's a champion."

2020 ANA Inspiration: Chipping for Victory!

2020 ANA Inspiration Champion Mirim Lee

"My plan for 18 was just to have a birdie and do what I have to do to keep up," Lee said. "And when the shot went in, I was really surprised."

During the final round, Mirim Lee's three chip-ins resulted in an exciting and incredible victory.

Originally scheduled for April, the 2020 ANA Inspiration—one of the LPGA Tour's five major championships—was rescheduled to September 10-13, as a result of COVID-19.

Held at Mission Hills Country Club, the championship was contested without any spectators, a decision that was finalized after close collaboration among the ANA, the LPGA Tour, the City of Rancho Mirage and the country club itself, along with consultation with the Riverside County Health Department, which followed the State of California Public Health Department guidelines.

"The champion's walk at 18 and the jump into Poppie's Pond are two of the greatest traditions on the LPGA Tour," said Mike Whan, LPGA Tour commissioner. "While we wish we could have fans with us in person to celebrate these exciting moments, ensuring the health and safety of everyone inside and outside the ropes is of the utmost importance."

"This was such a tough decision to make, given the hugely important role our fans play in making the ANA Inspiration, but their health and safety was front of mind as we reluctantly reached this conclusion," added Alyssa Randolph, tournament manager at the 2020 ANA Inspiration. "It is very comforting that we will be back at Mission Hills Country Club soon to celebrate the tournament's very special 50th anniversary next March—by which time we might hope to be in a position to be able to welcome back all our loyal fans."

The Shot of a Lifetime

Despite the challenges of COVID-19, the 2020 ANA Inspiration proved to be a success, as four of the world's top five golfers, 17 of the top 25 and seven past champions participated. Defending champion (and world No. 1) Jin Young Ko did not play though, due to her concerns with COVID-19.

Nonetheless, the championship was extremely exciting, as South Korea's Mirim Lee defeated Brooke Henderson and Nelly Korda in a playoff after birdieing the first hole.

All three finished the championship with a 273 (15-under-par) total. Lee shot a final round of 67, while Henderson and Korda both shot 69. Lee's round included three remarkable chip-ins: for birdie on holes 6 and 16 and for eagle on hole 18.

The eagle chip-in, of course, is the most memorable, as it was associated with a big, blue wall placed directly behind the 18th green. Serving as a billboard for ANA, the wall offered players a backstop, so that their balls wouldn't roll into the water behind the island green if they hit them too long.

Arriving at the 18th tee two shots behind Korda, Lee hit a terrific drive, which left her 215 yards to the green. She could either hit a 4-iron short of the green, or a 5-wood long of it.

"Our play was to hit it into the middle of the green, let it run into the blue thing and get a free drop," said Lee's caddie, Matt Glczis. "Without that being there, we probably have to lay up because none of your long clubs are going to hold the green. It's too firm."

The decision to go long certainly played off, as Lee's shot hit the wall, enabling her to take a free drop and then hole her chip for eagle—the shot of her life.

2020 ANA Inspiration Champion Mirim Lee

shot through the green, chipped to five feet and made a birdie. Korda and Henderson failed to make birdies though, thereby handing Lee her fourth LPGA Tour victory (and first since the Kia Classic in 2017).

“You’re playing against the best in the world out there, and it’s tough to lose that way,” Henderson stated. “Mirim and Nelly played great.”

“I’m just going to continue working hard and see where that takes me,” Korda added.

Lee and her caddy, meanwhile, jumped into Poppie’s Pond (a concrete-lined pool that’s part of Champions Lake, which surrounds the 18th hole, and is named after longtime tournament director Terry Wilcox) in celebration, a tradition that has occurred regularly since 1988.

When asked if chipping is the best part of her game, Lee responded by saying, “No, just today.”

“I can’t really believe it right now,” she continued. “To be honest, I feel like I must be a little crazy for having won this.”

showcases the cream of the crop and its amenities and world-class facilities are top notch. Despite having a nearly two-year break as a result of the cancellation, there are no signs this will change either. In fact, the tournament will likely come back better—and more popular—than ever, as it continues to benefit the sport as a whole, as well as the Indian Wells community.

“Not only does our tournament stimulate valuable economic impact for Indian Wells and the wider Coachella Valley, but the sport has also become deeply rooted throughout the local community,” Dore stresses. “As one of the fastest growing sports in the world, pickleball’s rising popularity will continue to create new financial opportunities for our tournament, as we prepare for next November.”

look forward to welcoming the pickleball community back to Indian Wells in November 2021 though.”

Pickleball National Championships, which will occur from November 6-13, staff members have already begun planning for what representatives have described as the “sport’s greatest tournament yet.” In particular, representatives are excited about the tournament’s on-court action, numerous retail and dining options, and wide array of event sponsors. Additionally, the Indian Wells Tennis Garden utilizes an impressive championship pickleball court for the tournament’s most important matches, alongside its 48 other courts.

“We could not be more excited about the future of the tournament, and we are incredibly grateful to the global community of fans, players and sponsors who continue to support it,” Dore adds. “While the COVID-19 pandemic left us no choice but to cancel this year’s event, we are confident in our ability to attract the ever-growing audience of pickleball enthusiasts to our tournament moving forward.”

There is no question about it. The Margaritaville USA Pickleball National Championships has, as Dore mentioned,

Due to COVID-19 concerns, the 2020 Margaritaville USA Pickleball National Championships has been cancelled.

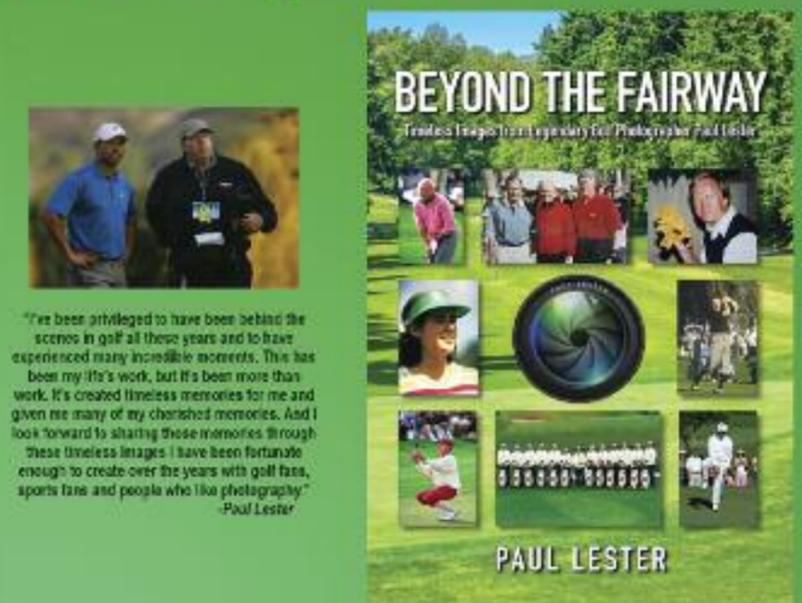

In late July, the 2020 Margaritaville USA Pickleball National Championships, originally scheduled for October 31-November 8, was cancelled, as a result of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

Closely monitoring the guidelines of expert health advisors locally and nationally, representatives of the tournament also worked alongside the USA Pickleball Association, as they focused on their main priority: the health and safety of fans, players, sponsors and staff members.

“As pickleball’s premier annual event, we are disappointed that the National Championships can’t be held this year,” says Philippe Dore, a member of the National Championships Committee and marketing director for the BNP Paribas Open. “Over the past two years, more than 4,000 players and thousands of pickleball enthusiasts have enjoyed the world-class amenities, facilities and matches that are unique to the Indian Wells Tennis Garden. Waste Management Phoenix Open

It will look different, but commitment to community and charity remains unchanged

Rickie Fowler

“Nothing is guaranteed in our world any longer. But it’s definitely happening. As far as we and the PGA are concerned, yes, there will be a 2021 tournament.”

Scott Jenkins, tournament chairman of the 2021 Waste Management Phoenix Open, is unequivocal on that point. The tournament will run Feb. 1-7 at TPC Scottsdale.

What’s also certain is that it will not be the same event as in previous years. “We can’t think of this year’s event in comparison to the past,” Jenkins says. “It won’t be the same. But what we can guarantee is that we’re still going to put on a world-class event. We think we have a good plan to move forward, we’re executing that plan and we believe people are going to support the event.”

Webb Simpson

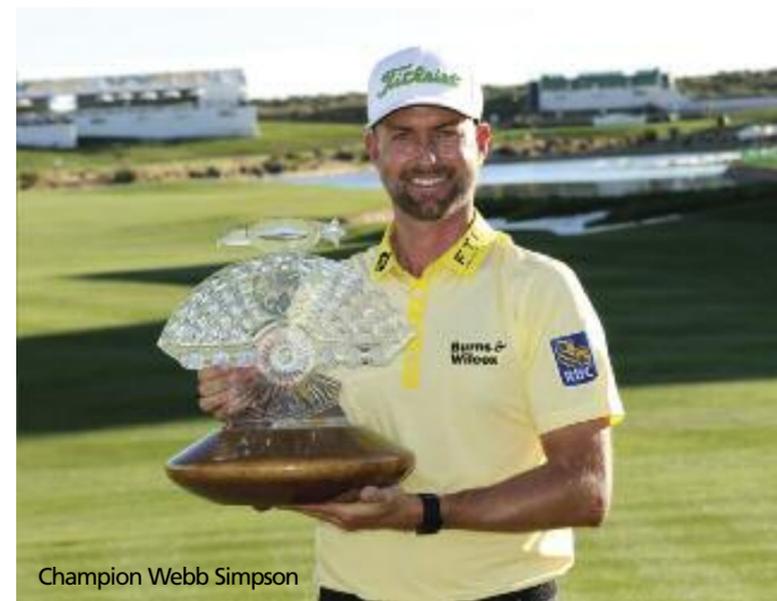

One obvious difference is that the throngs of enthusiastically vocal fans who have made this the “People’s Open” won’t be crowding the course, and there will not be the buildout of a veritable city of hospitality venues. What won’t change? “At the end of the day the reason we do this is for our community and our charity partners,” Jenkins says.

Last year’s tournament brought in more than $14 million for charities, a number that may be hard to reach this year with changes required by COVID-19. Jenkins and the Thunderbirds know that revenue will depend on what they can build and how many fans can ultimately attend the event. As of this writing, no pandemic-era PGA Tour event has included fans.

“We’re moving forward with a plan for limited fan attendance. It’s a fluid state and we’re in constant contact with the PGA, the state of Arizona and the city of Scottsdale to come up with a solid plan,” Jenkins says. “We don’t yet know the number of fans we’ll be able to have. It will depend on what happens over the holidays and the state of things as we move forward.”

All that uncertainty makes organizing this tournament a challenge. “The most important thing about our tournament is the legacy of the ‘People’s Open,’” Jenkins says. “We got to where we are because of our fans and that’s not lost on us. Even in the darkest times of the summer our goal was to get fans on property for the 2021 event. We’ve worked hard, maybe not as much out in public as in previous years but we’ve worked incredibly hard to put together a game plan that everyone is comfortable with to proceed with limited fans at the event.”

In terms of health and safety Jenkins notes that masks will be required throughout the entire property except during active eating and drinking. And though there won’t be the same number of hospitality facilities as in the past, there will be hospitality. “Our goal is to build one single-deck structure on the 16th hole that will encompass the whole hole,” he says.

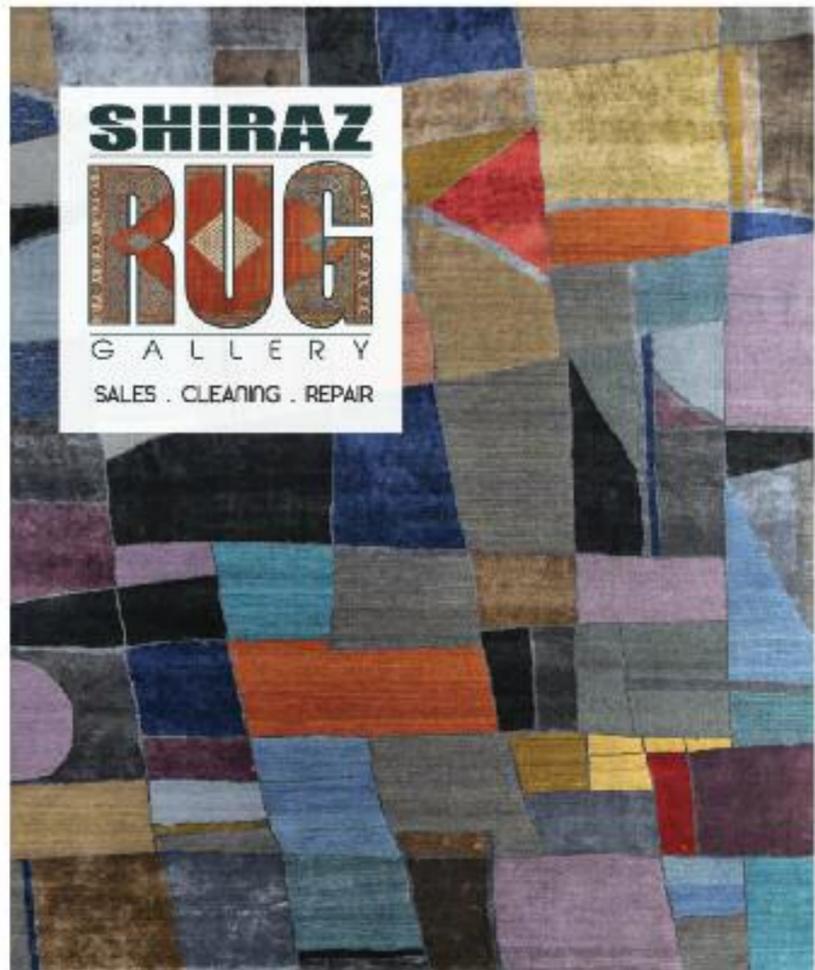

Champion Webb Simpson

As for tickets and packages, they’re on track. Jenkins points out that in 2020 there were 585 suite holders across the entire property. “We gave them the option of donating their deposit to charity or rolling it over to 2022, and with a remarkable 90 percent of them amenable to that, we know the tournament is on solid ground going forward. Packages for 2021 are happening and if for some reason the tournament can’t move forward, refunds will be offered. But,” he states, “we do not believe that will be the case.”

Perhaps the most glaring absence at the 2021 event will be the raucously popular Birds Nest. “Nobody loves the Birds Nest more than I do,” Jenkins says. “But that is not our focus this year.”

Although we happen to throw a fantastic concert, we're a golf organization and our focus is on getting our resources into the golf tournament. We know that it will be disappointing to some fans but I don't think it will have a significant negative impact. The Birds Nest has really turned into its own thing. The fact is that many of the fans who attend the Birds Nest concerts don't even know that it's part of a golf tournament next door. Our goal for 2021 is making the tournament the world-class PGA event it has always been. We hope to have a normal Phoenix Open next year, including the Birds Nest," he adds. "But I've stopped trying to do predictions."

Jenkins says tournament organizers have had preliminary conversations with players' agents but real work on that doesn't happen until sometime in December and final commitments usually don't come in until January. He believes, though, that players will commit and will want to be part of the 2021 event, no matter how different it is from previous years.

No one has a crystal ball and the only certainty is that things will continue to evolve. Regardless of how exactly they evolve, the message the Thunderbirds want to get out to fans is this: "We understand that the energy and socialness of our tournament is important; we want that, too. But our focus has to be on executing the event in the safest possible way. We do that by staying in constant contact with the PGA, the state and the city of Scottsdale and moving forward according to all of the required health and safety protocols. We think our fans understand that."

Bottom line, Jenkins says, "No, it won't be the same in scope and size as in previous years. But it will be a fantastic world-class event, just on a smaller scale."

The First Annual Grant Fuhr Celebrity Invitational

This charity event has one major difference from many others

There are a lot of celebrity tournaments out there to choose from, all raising funds for worthy causes. But Grant Fuhr would like you to know this: If you play in the first annual Grant Fuhr Celebrity Invitational, your money will stay right here in the Coachella Valley.

Fuhr, who had his name etched on the Stanley Cup five times during his 10 years as a goaltender with the Edmonton Oilers, knows there are a lot of charity tournament choices because he participates in his share of them annually. He has a lot of experience when it comes to being a celebrity at a celebrity golf fundraiser, and he knows what participants want and enjoy when they throw their money down.

So it stands to reason his event, re-scheduled due to COVID 19, will now be held December 11 & 12, at Desert Hot Springs' Desert Dunes Golf Club, and Fuhr promises to generate the best of times with the best of celebrities in a relaxed, intimate and most of all, safe atmosphere.

"It's going to be a little more laid back," says Fuhr, who is also the director of golf at the tournament's host site, Desert Dunes. "There's not going to be a whole lot of heavy lifting for the celebrities; we want them to have a good time and we want them to entertain the people who are going to play in the tournament. We want everyone to have fun and have a good time. It's very casual so that the people who pay to play in the tournament actually get some time to spend with the celebrities."

The charity will be "The (Hazelden) Betty Ford Foundation," Fuhr says. "It's an opportunity for me to give back to the community. If we can give back a couple of hundred thousand dollars the first year, I think that'd be a huge win."

Fuhr notes he probably plays in 20 to 25 charity tournaments each year. "And it always seems to be for somewhere else, never for where I'm living," he says. "Some of the tournaments I play here, but the money always goes out of Palm Springs; it doesn't stay here. So this is a chance to give back to where I'm actually living."

And who will the lucky participants get to play and socialize with? The current list of celebrity golfers includes such greats as; Wayne Gretzky, Jim McMahon, Ken Griffey, Jr., Seth Joyner, John O'Hurley, Sterling Sharpe and Reggie Smith to name a few.

"The biggest thing that's obvious about this event is to ensure that everyone remains safe and healthy. We expect to have a safe tournament so that everybody has a good time and everyone has fun. If everyone does that, we'll raise a lot of money for charity and have a great event!"

Highlights of the tournament include a pairings party with live auction on Friday, December 11, and on Saturday, December 12, Fuhr will host a celebrity/am at Desert Dunes with an awards dinner and silent auction following the round of golf.

Foursomes and individuals are eligible to compete; teams will consist of four amateurs and one celebrity. The tournament also offers six levels of sponsorship. For more sign-up or sponsorship information, visit desertdunesgc.com.

Golf Instruction

Chip vs Pitch Shots

Becky Fossum, LPGA (SilverRock Resort, LaQuinta, CA)

Chip shot: (some golfers call it a “bump & run”) is a “low running shot” (used by a less lofted club examples: 8 iron, 9 iron or PW). Think a “bowling ball throw” & how the golf ball feels the “release” after it hits the earth. (1/3 in the air & 2/3 “release”).

Pitch Shot: is a “higher trajectory shot” (used by a more lofted club, examples: SW (56* loft) or Lob (60*). Think “under hand toss HIGH up in the air” & the golf ball lands soft. (90% in the air & 10% release).

Before we “pick a golf club & set up” ask yourself: “what do you want the ball to do? Feel? HIGH vs Low? If you want the ball to feel HIGH up in the air “pitch shot” (you will choose a like a SW/Lob wedge).

If you want the ball to feel a ROLLING/RELEASING to the flag “chip” (you might choose a less lofted club like a 8 iron, 9 iron, PW).

Why would I choose a PITCH vs CHIP? It all depends on the following: lie (is the ball sitting up or down?), situation/how much green do you have to work with? (around a green or over a bunker), percentage of success, if you feel comfortable with that shot in that situation, flag? (tight pin behind a bunker, or over a bunker) or back flag with a lot of green to work with. A golfer normally does these quick decisions as you approach the green. PRO TIP: bring 1-2 different clubs up to the green & your putter (so you don't have to run back to your golf bag).

Every week I get a lot of questions about “chipping vs pitching”. First lets go over some basics. What is the definitions? What do I want the golf ball to do? Where would I use one shot vs the other? The Golf Club of choice? Set up? Execution?

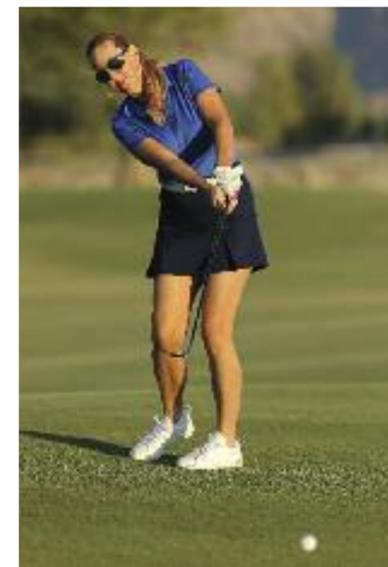

I feel like we need to clarify the definitions first:

Now we are on to “SET UP” (assuming you're a right handed golfer)

Pitch: Ball feels more in the “middle to front” of the stance (LEFT FOOT: is the “loft foot”) stance is wider & open (swing front foot back) weight is 10-20% more on the LEFT foot golf club can be “open or square” depending on your desired trajectory.

Swing: matching desired distance & strength (1/2-3/4 feeling swing).

Swing: matching desired distance & strength (keeping the club around the 1, 2, 3 o'clock).

Here are a few of my favorite golf drills:

Under Hand Ball Toss Drills (get the feel for the shot, length of arc, speed, energy) 5 balls chipping (around the collar of a green) vs 5 balls pitching (over a bunker) 3 Ball Drills (1st ball: small, chipping, 2nd ball: medium (pitch), 3rd ball: fuller swing) this drill creates a “memory or feel of the 3 balls / distances” (use the same club for all 3 golf balls).

High vs Low: 1 shot low (chip), 1 shot high (pitch) mix up clubs for this.

I hope this clarifies the feel for Chip vs Pitch. I invite you out to SilverRock & come join me on my Short Game clinics this winter. Come book a tee time, have breakfast or lunch & golf lessons available all season long. I look forward to seeing you on the driving range. Lets work on your golf game today. I look forward to helping you with your chipping & pitching this season.

Real Estate Insider

By Sandi Phillips

It's a Seller's Market in the Coachella Valley

With spring upon us and warmer weather on the horizon, Coachella Valley is already experiencing a hot real-estate market. There are many factors contributing to the strong market, as well as a few variables that could affect the direction it takes over the course of 2020. Let's look at the certainties first.

Inventory is low and demand is up. This makes for a genuine sellers' market that's expected to continue into the future. A low unemployment rate, interest rates that experts anticipate to remain low and an overall healthy economy are bringing more and more buyers out from Indio to Palm Springs and all across the valley. When buyer demand far outpaces the number of homes for sale in any given market, prices will rise. But sellers need to keep in mind that homes going under contract in our hot market are the ones that are priced at fair-market value—not overpriced.

The Coachella Valley's booming market is a benefit for buyers, too. Low mortgage rates have improved affordability and allow buyers to stretch their purchasing power further than they could have even just a few months ago. That said, buyers need to be prepared, preferably pre-qualified, noncontingent and ready to make an offer that can beat the competition.

Just like home prices, area rents are rising as well. Current interest rates mean this could be the ideal time for renters to become owners. First-time buyers will discover a variety of homes available in all price levels. If they're pre-qualified and can make a healthy down payment, buyers may find that owning is more affordable than renting, especially when tax advantages are factored in.

Wall Street is always a factor in the market, changing from day to day. Recent history shows a strong and consistent stock market. In an election year, however, predicting the future can be difficult. Stockbrokers can see stability or chaos in their crystal balls, depending upon which candidate they think will win. Of course, predicting the outcome of an election, especially for the office of president, is difficult to say the least. Fortunately, any turmoil caused heading up to and following an election usually calms down quickly after the election, no matter who wins.

Local Resorts offer the ultimate in luxury escapes

By Alison Elsner

Take advantage of fine food, jaw-dropping views and sublime decor

Renaissance Esmeralda Resort & Spa

At this point, a trip to the drugstore seems like an adventure. But, we can all do much better than that. Our physical, mental and spiritual well-being depends on it. With the onset of cool evening breezes and star-lit skies in the desert, it's way past time to schedule a getaway. There are numerous luxury options in the Coachella Valley which eliminate the stress and time involved with travel. There's a lot to be said for first class simplicity. Have faith 2020 is looking up.

Renaissance Esmeralda Resort & Spa

Often the hub of desert social events, the Renaissance Esmeralda makes for a great staycation venue, too. Elegant and relaxed at the same time, the property takes advantage of panoramic mountain views and the leisure lifestyle. Recently remodeled, the most breathtaking feature remains the enormous center courtyard with heated swimming pool, jacuzzi, cascading water features and lounge areas, The Pool Bar and even an authentic sandy beach. And they're all accessible by the grand, semi-circular staircase in the atrium. The Place cocktail lounge at the bottom of said staircase is an ideal hub in which to socialize (in a carefully distant way of course) and order up craft cocktails and light bites during lunch, dinner and happy hour, without even venturing off the premises.

A major highlight includes 36 holes of golf on two glorious courses at the adjacent Indian Wells Golf Resort (be sure to grab lunch at the scenic 53,000 square foot clubhouse). Room options include discoveries such as the pool view with a large balcony, one-bedroom studio suite, ambassador and one-bedroom executive suite. For the ultimate immersion into luxury, book the governor's suite which features a private bedroom, fireplace and balcony with a stunning view of the Santa Rosa mountain range or the presidential suite which offers close to 3,000 square feet of mid-century modern décor and vaulted ceilings, living room and dining room, a study, a walk-in closet and three glorious balconies with breathtaking views of the mountains and surrounding valley.

Virtually every room boasts a panorama of lush greens or an oasis of palm trees, making it clear why even a night or two here is the best way we can think of to restore your soul. Ritz Carlton Rancho Mirage Bearing the perennial imprimatur of top quality and good taste, the Ritz Carlton's clifftop setting translates into transcendent views overlooking Palm Springs and Rancho Mirage. Whether reclining around the fire pit watching the kaleidoscopic sunset, enjoying locally sourced cuisine from State Fare Bar & Kitchen or The Edge Steakhouse or being pampered in the glamorous spa nestled into the majestic mountain, the experience here is unparalleled. The exciting news in this case is that the spa is up and running Fridays through Mondays for a select variety of pampering body treatments. The spa menu incorporates indigenous botanicals into massages, facials and wellness remedies. With 16 treatment rooms, many featuring private terraces with breathtaking vantage points, the space is conducive to calm, with plunge pools and areas for yoga and meditation. Popular treatments include Desert Wildflower Poultrice Massage for 80 minutes and the Sec-he Rock Ritual for 100 minutes, both of which will release tension and induce a deep state of relaxation.

Hotel décor features sleek lines, natural stone and dark wood, and guest rooms showcase the area's natural beauty combining contemporary desert style with a tribute to the aesthetic history of Palm Springs and the region. For a special weekend getaway, book one of the terrace firepit rooms or the Ritz Carlton suite with a king bed, one and a half bathrooms, living and dining rooms, complimentary cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, and a private balcony with an expansive visual tableau of the valley below. Bottom line: there's really no reason to leave the property! (68900 Frank Sinatra Drive, Rancho Mirage; 760.321.8282; ritzcarlton.com/en/hotels/california/rancho-mirage)

Two Bunch Palms Resort

Long recognized as the secret escape for Hollywood starlets and business titans, this respite set in the midst of natural bubbling hot springs is somewhat off the usual beaten path leading to Palm Springs. As the story goes, in 1857, a settler discovered the site as a place to rest and find water, marked by two palm groves. Flowing for 600 years under the surface, these magical waters, low in sulfur and rich in lithium, see their first light of day as they gush into the pools. Here, wellness is how you define it, without pretense. Having made numerous safety adjustments due to COVID-19, the resort allows guests to focus on the healing properties of the outdoors.

One of the joys of a visit to Two Bunch is the chance to fully delight in local fare, artisanal cocktails and farm fresh produce in Twine outdoor café, serving both brunch and dinner. One of the favorite activities is to text the hotel staff at Twine to set up a picnic blanket to dine al fresco around the property.

Numerous mood-enhancing pools around the resort are available, and guests will find ample nature hikes and plenty of hammocks. Rooms and suites are located in clusters across the retreat's acreage. Springs rooms are closest to the grotto, the Capone suite offers a private retreat experience with teak concrete soaking tubs, and the villa suites are comprised of a secluded compound of four spacious suites, located next to the olive grove. Directly off a communal courtyard, they feature a more traditional layout with large living and dining room, master bedroom, spa-suite bathroom and private outdoor soaking area.

A stay at Two Bunch Palms is a nice way to reconnect with the environment, fine food, décor and maybe even ourselves. (67425 Two Bunch Palms Trail, Desert Hot Springs; 760.676.5000; twobunchpalms.com)

Desert Golf & Tennis Dining Guide

Where dining out is a Celebration, especially now

By Alison Elsner

Jillian's

Whether toggling between tiers or rotating between interior, patio and streetside seating, our local restaurants have been through a lot in 2020. Dining out is synonymous with socializing, so most of us are ready for a return to the cuisine scene. Even with modified indoor capacity, Coachella Valley restaurants have still found a way to elevate the experience to that of a celebration. Several high energy eateries, below, have adapted dexterously and can now showcase the best of what the desert has to offer, combining outstanding tastes, exceptional wines, creative cocktails and inspired ambiance. Bon appétit!

Jillian's

Upon arrival, guests enter through magnificent wrought-iron gates and find themselves in an enchanting garden. The eclectic cuisine complements the fairy-tale atmosphere in front of a fireplace under the stars and against a backdrop of live music. The four intimate dining rooms are decorated with fine antiques, fresh flowers and a superb art collection, surrounded by charming courtyards. All pastas, breads and desserts are made in-house daily. An enjoyable way to start the evening is with an appetizer of tower of fresh crab or charred chili with four cheeses. Entrées feature unique presentations such as rack of lamb, grilled swordfish, prime New York steak and liver Veneziana. Desserts here are anything but expected, with selections including strawberry rhubarb crumble, decadent date, raspberry crème brûlée and double chocolate layer cake. Dinner at Jillian's is well worth taking a night off from the diet. (74155 El Paseo, Palm Desert; 760.776.8242; jilliansfinedining.com)

Antigua Kitchen + Bar

About as city-chic as you can get in downtown Palm Springs, Antigua brings us American dishes with a multi-cultural influence. Ingredients are locally sourced, and beverages include more than 30 different wines by the glass, verticals of high quality rosés and "2 X 1" margaritas. Starters like ahi mango tartare, shrimp scampi and krispy ravioli, salads like bleu wedge and Caesar, artisanal pizzas like margherita and spicy buffalo, meats like Kobe flat iron steak and beef fajitas, and fish like salmon and Cajun ahi tuna will test your decision-making skills. Antigua has carefully adhered to public health standards including creative dining room and expanded patio seating. For a romantic celebration, be sure to request the dimly lit table next to the outdoor fireplace. (105 S. Palm Canyon Drive, Palm Springs; 760.656.7875; antiguapalmsprings.com)

La Spiga Ristorante Italiano

La Spiga Ristorante Italiano

This magnificent Tuscan-style villa is surrounded by rose gardens, herb beds and fruit trees, with a patio that wraps around the entire oasis, offering a sublime view of the mountains. Chef Vince Cultraro's life in the kitchen began at 12 years old in the seaside resort of Marzamemi, Sicily, where he apprenticed under a under a Florentine chef at a small luxury hotel. The chef here grinds his own meats, makes his own sausages, flavor infuses his own oils and has the fish flown in daily. Antipasti including insalata di burrata and Italiano are a flavorful start to an entrée of rigatoni al manzo (with shaved beef tenderloin) and pollo alla melanzana (chicken breast topped with eggplant). A wide selection of

Italian and American wines are available as well as selections from Chile, Argentina, France, South Africa and Australia, any of which can be enjoyed in the quaint bar with a fireplace, one of the dining rooms or on the scenic patio. Mitch's on El Paseo Prime Seafood

Mitch's on El Paseo Prime Seafood

The standard bearer for all things sushi and seafood, Mitch's is known for its flair and finesse in every category of alimentary exploration. Inviting diners into its double doors in the heart of El Paseo, the restaurant sets an exquisite scene with a multitude of windows showcasing the spectacular mountain views and pristine desert skyline. Daily chef specials include taste treats that feature bone-in pork chop, Spanish seafood paella and roasted maple leaf duck as well as diverse wine, sake, martini and cocktail selections. Popular items from the sea cover everything from sesame crusted ahi to Dover sole Veronique to Canadian lobster tail duet. Guests can relax on the expansive patios with fire pits or on one of the distinctive, contemporary bars with flat screen TVs and eye-catching works of art adorning the uplit, colorful walls. Aston Martin

Releases Limited Edition 007 Models

There's no one cooler than James Bond. Not only because he can conquer any super villain the world throws at him, but also because he drives the best cars. His iconic connection to Aston Martin is good for both brands and this month Aston Martin is releasing limited edition 007 models to celebrate the 25th James Bond Film No Time to Die.

Both the DBS Superleggera and the Vantage will get Bond upgrades by the Aston Martin super designers who the company appropriately call Q. The DBS will see only 25 produced and the Vantage a whopping 100. Can you say, "Exclusive"? I'm sure Sean Connery is looking down with envy.

The DBS runs on a 715-horsepower V12 platform built like the space ship in Bond's Moonraker film. The supercar replaced the much-loved Vanquish in the company lineup but doesn't disappoint. A 0-60 mph time of 3.4 seconds is a license to thrill. Weighing in at 3,700 pounds, the DBS isn't spry, but it can hold its own with nearly anything on the road.

The DBS Superleggera 007 Edition comes in ceramic gray exterior paint with the roof, mirror caps, splitter, diffuser and rear spoiler featured in black tinted carbon fiber. Also unique to the 007 Edition are visually striking gloss black diamond-turned Y-Spoke 21" wheels. This special edition also features a 007 fender badge and 007 foil applied to the rear spoiler blade.

The interior of the DBS is fitting of the world's most interesting secret agent. The dark leather with red accents, 007 branding and a sill plaque noting the limited-edition number will make this a standout in any collection. Of course, this gem comes at a price. Retail starts at $365,500 if you can even get it. You'll need to cash in those diamonds that are forever.

The Vantage 007 Edition is no ho-hum machine. Though the price tag is just $211,000, the features will stun even the most veteran enthusiast. This positively shocking car is the perfect ride for any Bond lover.

The 503-hp, 4.0-liter twin-turbo V8 is a head turner. The Vantage will be delivered in authentic Cumberland Grey exterior paint color, with obsidian black leather interior. Add 007 branding to the center console of cars equipped with a manual gearbox for a special touch.

Perhaps the guys behind the desks went a bit overboard in their allusions to the film. They decided that the sun visors of all the cars will carry another subtle film reference in the shape of an embroidered radio station frequency — 96.60 (FM) — which 007 super fans will know was the Russian police frequency Bond used to aid his escape in The Living Daylights.

The seats themselves feature unique heritage fluting reminiscent of that seen in the V8, along with carbon fiber seat backs and, in a particularly detailed nod to the 1980s film, the outline of cello 'f holes' inspired by the memorable cello chase scene featuring James Bond (Timothy Dalton) and Kara Milovy (Maryam D'Abo).

You can choose to take things up another level with a laser-etched plaque that references the various weapons and devices seen on the original film car. These included a rocket motor, missiles, lasers, a targeting display and ski outriggers. Cross hairs etched onto the car's paddle shift gear levers allude to the missile guidance system seen in the film, too. Available as a manual or automatic, the Vantage 007 Edition also boasts a side strake Vantage badge.

The performance is shocking. Lighter than the DBS, the Vantage will race 0-60 mph in 3.5 seconds. This little V8 punches above its weight and does it with style. The body lines are all bond girl with a touch of smoking gun. The exhaust note screams danger and intrigue.

The 007 Vantage is straight out of the movies and a car to die for.

Either of these special edition Aston Martins is a prize to possess. Maybe you should get both, you only live twice.

Evening gowns coming on strong for year's end

By Alison Elsner

Sexy styles emphasize puffy sleeves, feathers and a menswear vibe

Fall and winter 2020 fashion is doing its best to show us signs of life as we reemerge from quarantines like style deprived bears waking from hibernation. Evening gowns are coming on strong for year-end, as are trends like red and gold, a nod to menswear with a dash of “The Matrix” thrown in, feathers and fringe, and volumes of fabric, especially large puffy sleeves and draped styles. Think big and bountiful.

For those of you planning to burst forth defiantly from your cocoons like the well-dressed butterflies that you are, we've curated some designer looks that will keep you on your game. The best part? These looks are equally chic for in-person holiday soirées requiring face masks as well as for virtual Zoom gatherings without. Being well dressed is never a trend.

Valentino, still a force and forever known as the designer to first lady Nancy Reagan, has created the Embellished Tulle Open-Back Dress just in time for the social season. This frothy, voluminous dress is a true evening gown, a purple fantasy if you will, featuring a crew neckline, long blouson sleeves, an A-line silhouette and an open back. The skirt is see-through, and the entire surface is adorned with sparkly sequins. $25,000.

The Andrew Gn Brocade Ballroom Sleeve Gown embraces the high volume, gold trend while keeping it classy. The detailing and intricate pattern reflect the designer's creative balance of Oriental and Occidental styles, in that he was born in Singapore and always presents a global statement. The three-quarter balloon sleeves add just the right amount of flourish, with a stunning jeweled yoke detail and crew neckline. The A-line silhouette features a back zip, and the fabric is a blend of polyester, polymetallic, nylon and tin alloy. $4,375.

Count on Saint Laurent to bring us looks that are synonymous with youth and freedom, having been the first couture house to introduce the concept of luxury prêt-à-porter in 1966. The Saint Laurent Mini Feather Dress is a minimalist white number in crepe with a bit of fluff at the off-the-shoulder neckline by way of tonal marabou ostrich feather trim. An internal mesh bustier features back hook and eye closures. The sleeveless, sheath silhouette hits above the knee and is fully lined in 100% silk. $5,490.

Setting the standard for feathers and femininity, Ralph and Russo's Embellished Feather Hem Midi Dress is both sexy and sublime. Delicate butterfly embellishments are woven throughout in shades of rose, pink and white while a tiered feather hem and cuffs add playful movement to the mockneck silhouette. A true midi, the dress measures around 50 inches from shoulder to hemline. Showcasing three-quarter length sleeves, a concealed back zip and an ornamented finish, the dress is fully lined in stretch silk. $12,300.

The Zuhair Murad Azdorado Metallic Plissé Gown combines the delicacy of pleats with the boldness of gold metallic. An elegant bodice with an alluring deep V-neckline and flattering banded waist is highlighted with fluttering cape sleeves. With a shimmering metallic patina, this dress showcases a striking plissé design to enhance the volume of the skirt. The A-line silhouette in silk and polyester measures 60 inches from shoulder to hem, elegantly skimming the floor. $6,800. neimanmarcus.com

Always au courant, Burberry embraces the trendy gold vibe contrasted with a high neck in this Embellished Mesh Sequin Cocktail Dress. This dignified frock with an exciting edge features long sleeves layered atop a silk slip with a deep V-neck, creating a glimmering party piece that's effortlessly modern yet inherently feminine. The sequin mesh finish features fine workmanship in the concealed back zip, the nipped waist with darted seams, and the back vented hem. Both the mesh overlay and the silk slip underneath consist of polyester. $6,500.

Taking the menswear theme seriously, Alexander McQueen's Leather Tiered-Lace Dress features a plunging, sweetheart neckline and a fit and flare silhouette. The sleeveless bodice is designed with thin shoulder straps and a fitted waistline. The tiered, cascading skirt is accented throughout with bold bands of white lace. Ankle length with a high-low hem, this dress is ideal for cocktails or any formal event. $11,600.

From the Icon collection, the Carolina Herrera Two-Tone Taffeta Trench Gown borrows from the boys but is clearly compatible with the female form. The designer's signature silhouette that defines the brand shows off a voluminous trench gown cinched at the waist with a self-tie sash, constructed of 100% silk. This sophisticated ballgown features a shirtdress design that takes black tie to the next level with its tuxedo-inspired buttons and two-tone contrast. The button half-placket, spread collar and three-quarter sleeves exclaim classic and collectable. $4,290.

Roberto Coin's Cento Collection unveils new pieces for the 2020-21 holiday season

Inventive shapes defy physics and emphasize freedom of movement

By Alison Elsner

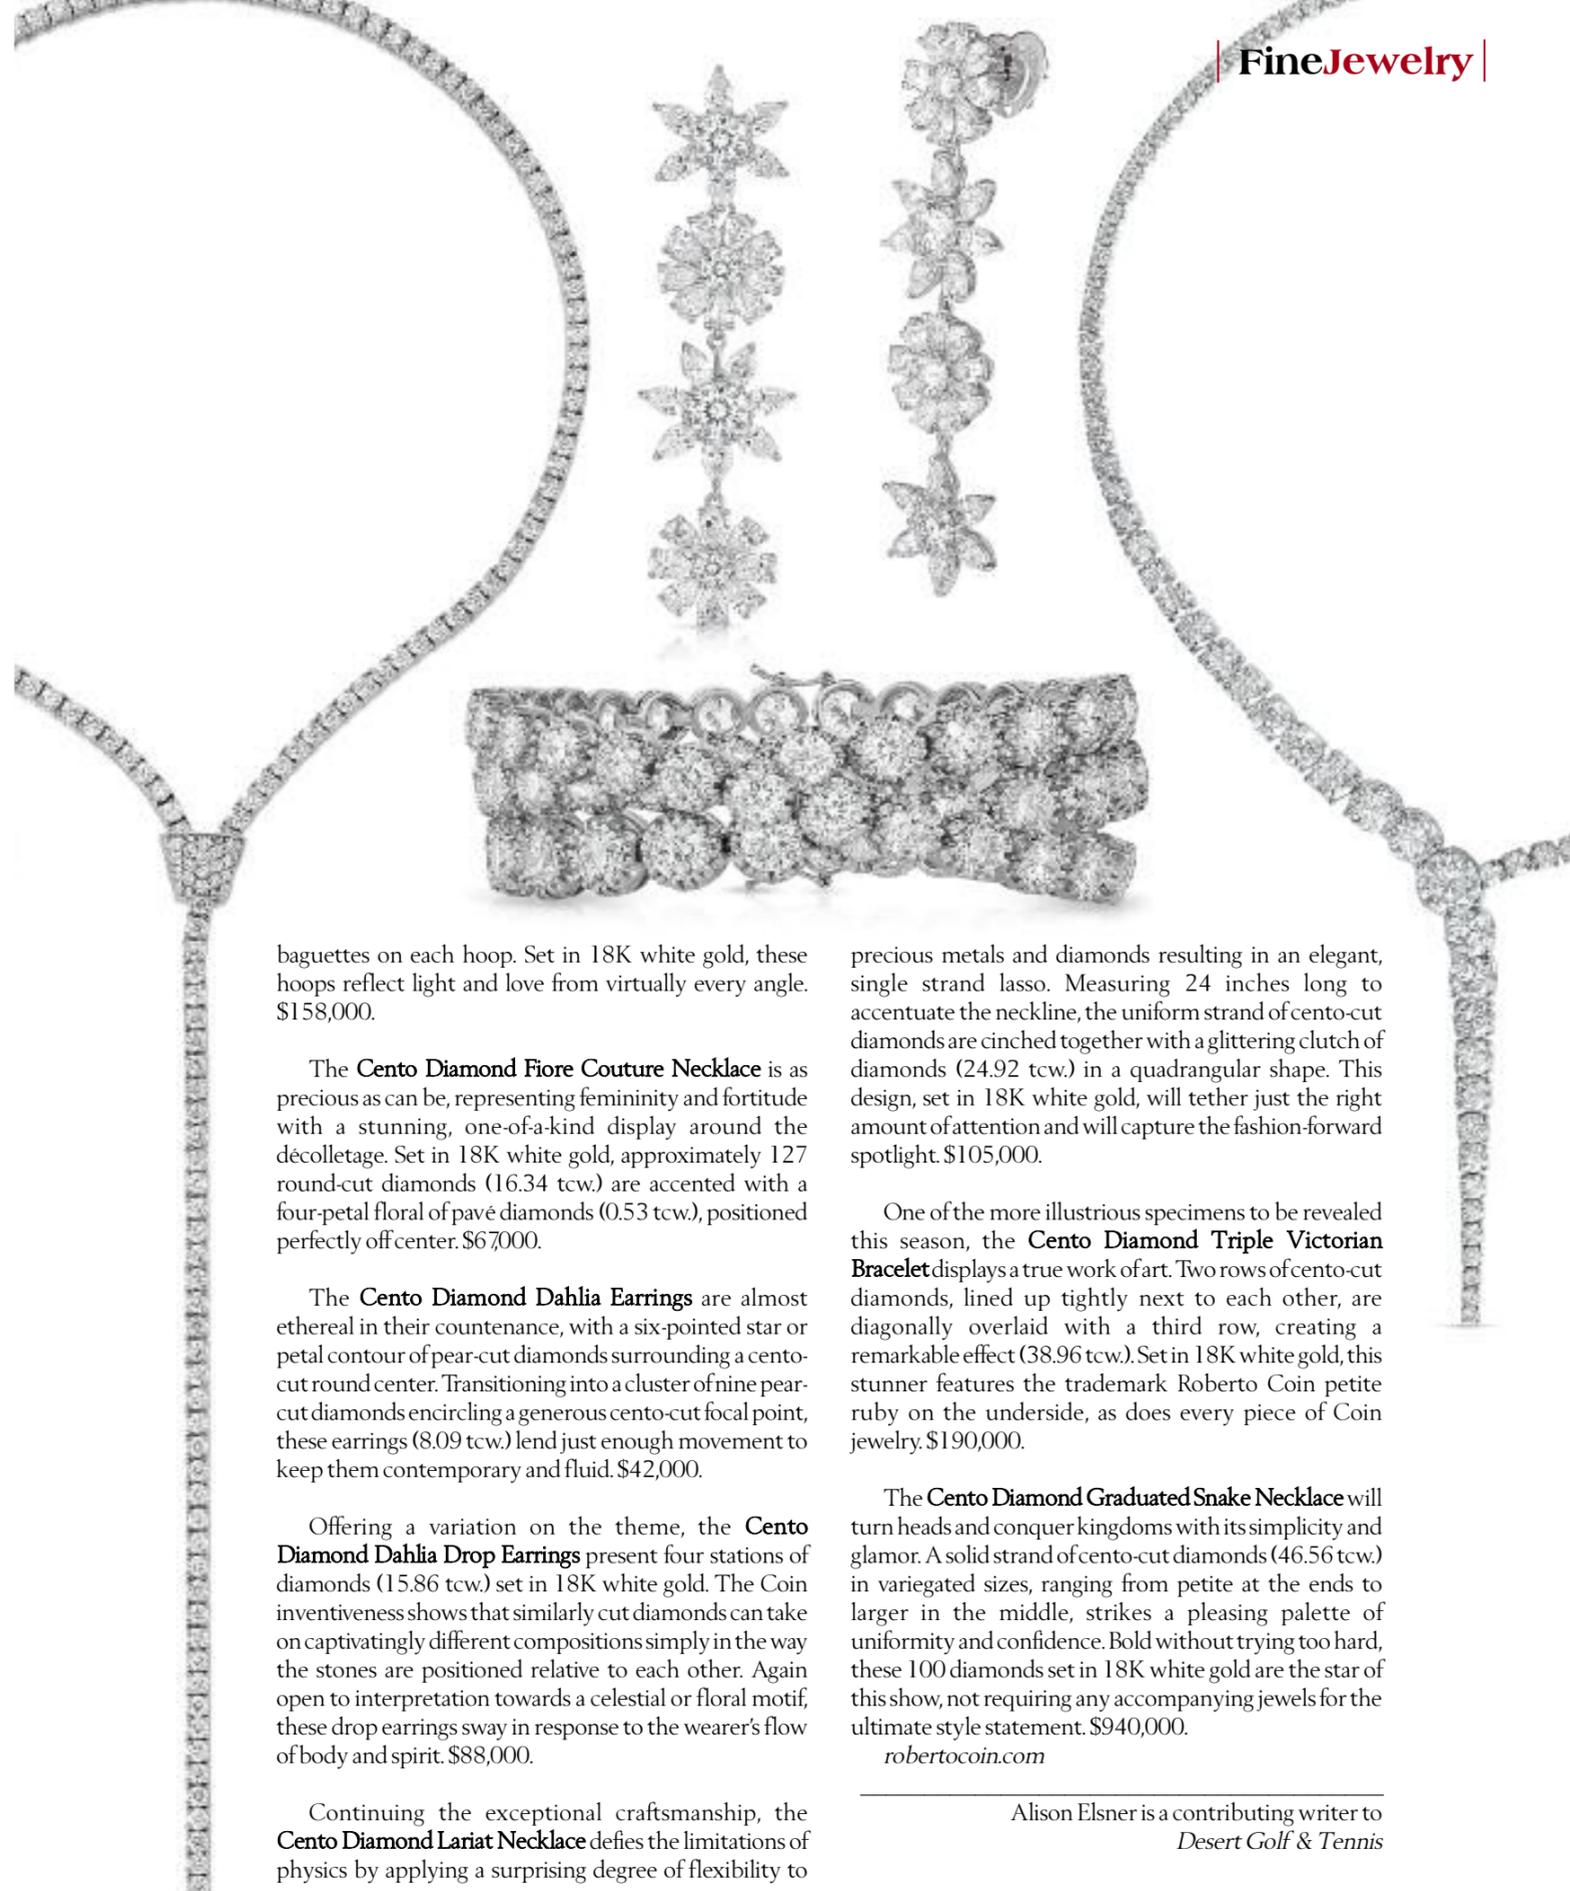

This year in particular demands a dose of classic drama, and Italian jeweler Roberto Coin is prepared to deliver. In 2008, Coin launched the Cento Collection after years of research and experimentation with experts worldwide. For the designer and head of the jewelry house, 100 is the number that symbolizes perfection and completion, and the collection pays homage to this well-rounded number. For the first time in history, a diamond was cut with 100 facets instead of the usual 57. Cento is of course, the Italian word for 100.

The Cento Collection emerges this year with several brand-new pieces that exclaim renewed sophistication, modernity and tradition, somehow magnifying the beauty and personality of everyone who wears one of these spectacular expressions. Cento diamonds create light reflections that bring more than the usual degree of brilliance, especially as we head into the holidays and a new year ahead. And heaven knows we're ready.

The Cento Diamond Pharaoh Bracelet will have you doing a double-take at its sheer beauty. Three substantial rows of white diamonds, fashioned in both round and pear cuts (58.46 tcw.), are interspersed with delicate rows of sparkling baguettes. The entire composition is set in pure 18K white gold. As its name suggests, it's definitely befitting of royalty. $580,000.

The Cento Diamond Graduated Pharaoh's Hoop Earrings coordinate agreeably with the bracelet, featuring a sensually curved line of cento cut diamonds (15.66 tcw.) in graduated sizes from small to large and small again atop a base of evenly matched baguettes on each hoop. Set in 18K white gold, these hoops reflect light and love from virtually every angle. $158,000.

The Cento Diamond Fiore Couture Necklace is as precious as can be, representing femininity and fortitude with a stunning, one-of-a-kind display around the décolletage. Set in 18K white gold, approximately 127 round-cut diamonds (16.34 tcw.) are accented with a four-petal floral of pavé diamonds (0.53 tcw.), positioned perfectly off center. $67,000.

The Cento Diamond Dahlia Earrings are almost ethereal in their countenance, with a six-pointed star or petal contour of pear-cut diamonds surrounding a cento-cut round center. Transitioning into a cluster of nine pear-cut diamonds encircling a generous cento-cut focal point, these earrings (8.09 tcw.) lend just enough movement to keep them contemporary and fluid. $42,000.

Offering a variation on the theme, the Cento Diamond Dahlia Drop Earrings present four stations of diamonds (15.86 tcw.) set in 18K white gold. The Coin inventiveness shows that similarly cut diamonds can take on captivatingly different compositions simply in the way the stones are positioned relative to each other. Again open to interpretation towards a celestial or floral motif, these drop earrings sway in response to the wearer's flow of body and spirit. $88,000.

Continuing the exceptional craftsmanship, the Cento Diamond Lariat Necklace defies the limitations of physics by applying a surprising degree of flexibility to precious metals and diamonds resulting in an elegant, single strand lasso. Measuring 24 inches long to accentuate the neckline, the uniform strand of cento-cut diamonds are cinched together with a glittering clutch of diamonds (24.92 tcw.) in a quadrangular shape. This design, set in 18K white gold, will tether just the right amount of attention and will capture the fashion-forward spotlight. $105,000.

One of the more illustrious specimens to be revealed this season, the Cento Diamond Triple Victorian Bracelet displays a true work of art. Two rows of cento-cut diamonds, lined up tightly next to each other, are diagonally overlaid with a third row, creating a remarkable effect (38.96 tcw.). Set in 18K white gold, this stunner features the trademark Roberto Coin petite ruby on the underside, as does every piece of Coin jewelry. $190,000.

The Cento Diamond Graduated Snake Necklace will turn heads and conquer kingdoms with its simplicity and glamor. A solid strand of cento-cut diamonds (46.56 tcw.) in variegated sizes, ranging from petite at the ends to larger in the middle, strikes a pleasing palette of uniformity and confidence. Bold without trying too hard, these 100 diamonds set in 18K white gold are the star of this show, not requiring any accompanying jewels for the ultimate style statement. $940,000.
