Publisher's Notes

By Timothy J. Pade • pade@dgnt.com

We are pleased to bring this issue to you featuring tennis legend Roger Federer on our cover. Federer's record speaks for itself: 88 titles, 17 grand slams and 24 ATP World Tour Masters 1000 events over the past 19 years, including four wins here at Indian Wells, California, in 2004, 2005, 2006 and again in 2013. With prize money totaling nearly $100 million dollars, Federer is the most successful player in ATP World Tour history.

After a commitment to feature tennis in this publication four years ago, we continue to expand our tennis coverage and distribution. This year, we are proud to have exclusive distribution throughout the 2017 BNP Paribas Open at Indian Wells Tennis Garden (IWTG), an event that draws more than 400,000 patrons. Desert Golf & Tennis is available for the first time in all 45 corporate boxes and the four signature restaurant venues at the tournament: Piero's Pizza Vino, Chop House, Nobu and, for the first time at the event, Spago, Wolfgang Puck's flagship brand restaurant.

IWTG owner, Larry Ellison, has stepped up again with a vastly improved and expanded Stadium 1, and the construction process has been nothing short of miraculous. Ellison has spent in excess of $400 million to make IWTG the most admired tennis complex in the world and the BNP Paribas Open one of the best tournaments in tennis.

We are excited that our relationship with the BNP Paribas continues to grow, and we are committed to ensuring that this publication meets and beats all expectations as we showcase this amazing tournament and the people that make it all come together.

Our coverage with this edition also includes another major tournament—the ANA Inspiration golf tournament, the LPGA Tour's first major of each year. Phenom Lydia Ko will defend her title this April, and Mission Hills Country Club will once again host the world's top women golfers on the exceptional Dinah Shore Tournament Course.

Our team has worked hard to put this issue together. As always, our coverage also includes tips from our contributing PGA professional instructors, tournament updates and features on the top restaurants in the valley, the latest hot trends in fashion and jewelry and reviews of the world's top luxury automobiles.

We sincerely hope you enjoy our efforts!

Roger Federer's

Legacy is Assured—On and Off the Court

The tennis great deserves to celebrate good times

"When you do something best in life, you don't really want to give that up, and for me, it's tennis." - rogerfederer.com home page

So, let's just say for arguments sake that it's over for Roger Federer, and the good times are really gone for good.

If that's the case, if Federer never wins another grand slam title, or any title for that matter, those good times were really good.

Federer, who begins 2017 at 35 years old and No. 16 in the Men's ATP Tour Rankings, also began the year with an exhibition win over British No. 3 Dan Evans, 6-3, 6-4, at the Hopman Cup in Perth, Australia, the first week of January. It was his first action in six months, his first match since Wimbledon, his first action since his post-Wimbledon announcement he'd be taking the rest of the year off to heal a nagging knee injury—the same injury that forced him to skip the BNP Paribas in Indian Wells last year. The knee, a back injury and even the flu and a stomach virus conspired to make 2016 one of the least memorable of Federer's career.

Reports suggest Federer looked sharp in Perth, showing little rust from the layoff, little hindrance from the injuries and spring to spare for a 35-year-old. The performance leads fans to believe there may be more left in the tank for the Swiss icon recently named the Most Stylish Man of 2016 by GQ Magazine.

The Hopman Cup was just the start of what is expected to be a busy spring for Federer, which includes what he hopes will be triumphant returns to the Australian Open and the BNP Paribas at Indian Wells Tennis Garden.

Federer's Australian Open record is legendary. He has won four times (2004, 2006, 2007, 2010) and claimed the title without losing a set in 2007. He reached the semifinals every year from 2004 to 2014, and made the final four again in 2016. Between 2006 and 2008, he won 30 consecutive sets, and since 2000, he's won 80 matches.

Federer has won four singles titles at Indian Wells, one fewer than defending champion Novak Djokovic of Serbia. Federer, Djokovic, and Spaniard Rafael Nadal have won 11 of the last 12 BNP Paribas titles. Federer won titles in 2004-2006, and his most recent in 2012.

Even if he were to sustain another series of physical setbacks in 2017, preventing him from winning any sort of silverware,

"My favorite shot is always gonna be the forehand. It used to always be my favorite shot when I was young, so it's the one I've won all the points with." - Roger Federer his career will rank as one of the greatest the men's professional game has ever seen.

While his Australian Open record is extraordinary, he's experienced the greatest success at Wimbledon. Federer has won seven times, including five straight between 2003 and 2007, and reached the semi-finals in 2008 and 2009. In 2005 and 2006, he won 34 straight sets en route to winning the title. He's won five U.S. Opens, all in a row between 2004-2008, when he reeled off a string of 40 consecutive match wins. He also won the French Open in 2009, completing his career Grand Slam. In all, Federer has 17 Grand Slam titles to his name, which puts him at No. 1 on the all-time Grand Slam wins list—three clear of Pete Sampras and Rafael Nadal, five clear of Djokovic.

Federer's image and personal stock benefit from his personal lifestyle, which has seen him generate as much success as he has on the court. Forbes Fab 40 named him the top athlete brand in 2016, estimating his value at $37 million a year. He's ranked No. 2 on the Reputation Institute's 2011 study of the World's most respected, admired and trusted personalities, just behind Nelson Mandela. In 2015, the London School of Marketing named him the World's Most Marketable Sports Star. The list goes on and on.

He formed the Roger Federer Foundation in 2003 with the goal of supporting educational projects in Southern Africa and Switzerland, and the foundation has raised over $15 million. He's been married to the former Mirka Vavrinec since 2009, and has two sets of twins, girls (Myla, Charlene, 2009), and boys (Leo, Lenny, 2014).

Maybe, just maybe, it is all over for Federer's game at the highest levels. But a glance back over his life and accomplishments to this point suggest the drive that put him where he is today will push him even further tomorrow, be it on the court or off.

In December 2016, the BNP Paribas Open was honored as the ATP World Tour Masters 1000 Tournament of the Year, as well as the WTA Premier Mandatory Tournament of the Year.

Neither distinction was overly surprising within the tennis community. After all, the Open—currently the world's largest two-week combined ATP World Tour Masters 1000 and WTA Premier professional tennis tournament—has now received both accolades every year since 2014.

In that time, a variety of construction projects have occurred at the tournament's host site, Indian Wells Tennis Garden in Indian Wells, California, including the development of the 8,000-seat Stadium 2, which has been opened to attendees since the 2014 BNP Paribas Open. The following year, new seats were also installed in Stadium 1's upper and lower bowls, while a new area, known as the Champions Box, was built into the stadium to provide private access for business and entertainment leaders who attend the tournament.

Following suit with each of these projects, tournament executives announced that further improvements would occur at the 16,100-seat Stadium 1—the second largest tennis stadium in the world—after the conclusion of the 2016 BNP Paribas Open.

"As a 16-year-old venue, Stadium 1 needed a facelift and some design changes," says Steve Birdwell, chief operating officer, BNP Paribas Open. "With that in mind, the end goal was to significantly improve the tournament's fan experience—from food to suites."

To achieve these objectives, Carlsbad, California-based Watkins Landmark Construction was hired to upgrade and expand Stadium 1's concessions; the organization had previously developed Stadium 2. In particular, four new walk-in concessions—comparable to those at Stadium 2—have been added to Stadium 1's main concourse. In doing so, the Stadium will now be able to offer guests a wider variety of dining options. At the same time, new concessions have also been created for the Stadium's second suite level (known as the Loge) and its upper bowl (typically referred to as the Grandstand).

Furthermore, all restrooms on Stadium 1's concourse and second level have been replaced so that some of the design characteristics of the Stadium 2 restrooms could be incorporated while also increasing the total number of available facilities. New restrooms have also been added to the Stadium's upper bowl, which, prior to the renovation, never had such facilities for patrons.

Finally, each of Stadium 1's 14 deluxe concourse suites and 30 second-level suites has been entirely renovated. In order to expand the second level suites to include private bathrooms as well as more space for food service and hospitality, the formerly open-air section of the concourse level has also been covered.

"From expanding facilities for the back-of-house operations, suites and hospitality spaces, to covering and enclosing the concourses and other walkways, we have maximized and dynamically updated Stadium 1," Birdwell explains. "And, as a result, we have increased its usable space by 100,000 square feet."

In addition to the concession, restroom and suite renovations, each of which will be completed prior to the 2017 BNP Paribas Open, Inician Wells Tennis Garden is also offering guests new ticket options. A Grounds Pass ticket will replace the former General Admission ticket, as it allows access to any available, non-reserved seating in Stadiums 2 through 9. Grounds

Pass tickets may be purchased from March 8-16 for $20 to $50.

If guests are interested in viewing the tournament action in Stadium 1, two Loge seating options (Loge and Prime Loge) are now available. For $45, guests may purchase a Loge seat for Wednesday, March 8's day session or, for another $25, they can also buy a Loge seat for a session during Championship Weekend, which is occurring March 17-19. On the other hand, Prime Loge tickets may be purchased for $70 (for March 8's day session) or $110 for Championship Weekend.

Guests will also receive a 30-percent discount when compared to the regular price, for Prime Loge seats in Stadium 1 from March 8-16, as long as they are residents of the Coachella Valley, seniors, students, or military or USTA members.

Daily tickets are also available for reserved seats in Stadium 2's lower bowl, starting at $150. The stadium, which has 5,000 lower bowl seats, has been very popular since its opening in 2014, due to its spacious views, plentiful amenities and three fine dining restaurants—Chop House, Nobu and Piero's Pizza Vino.

In 2016, 438,058 guests attended the BNP Paribas Open, just shy of the all-time attendance record established in 2015. The Open was one of the most memorable in tournament history, as world number one Novak Djokovic won his record fifth championship, while Victoria Azarenka claimed her second Open title in a stunning upset over Serena Williams.

Due to all of the renovations that have recently occurred, the BNP Paribas Open is expected to create memories for fans yet again this year.

"Our goal has always been to enhance fans' experiences," Birdwell concludes. "And we will continue to do so—in 2017 and beyond."

PGA Tour Superstores are at the top of the leaderboard when it comes to providing golf and tennis equipment. With more than 25 locations across the United States, they serve some 7 million sports enthusiasts annually.

Not only are PGA Tour Superstores a comprehensive retail resource for athletes, they also offer access to engaging clinics and events. Among those amenities are full-service club repair and custom club fitting, PGA certified lessons and monthly clinics and an indoor driving range, as well as tennis gear and services. The incredible variety of offerings and services and the personal attention that customers receive raise the bar on what retail can be.

A variety of events provide added value for customers. One such event, beginning the week of Feb. 13, is the Get Golf Ready Ladies Program. This six-week seminar is a comprehensive golf resource for women in the Coachella Valley, good for beginners ready to learn the fundamentals as well as seasoned golfers wanting to brush up. # Tennis With The Stars

The popular event returns to
Omni Rancho Las Palmas for 2017

The third year promises to be a charm for Tennis with the Stars, scheduled for Tuesday, March 7 at Omni Rancho Las Palmas Resort & Spa in Rancho Mirage, California. Cliff Drysdale Tennis will again present several top ATP and WTA tour headliners, who so far include Wimbledon finalist Eugenie Bouchard and rising American star Taylor Fritz.

The third annual celebrity tennis event, which coincides with the BNP Paribas Open in Indian Wells, California (March 6-19), will also incorporate ACEing Autism as its event beneficiary. A portion of the proceeds will benefit ACEing Autism's program launch at Rancho Las Palmas Country Club in the upcoming year, a program that will provide groundbreaking therapeutic activity and interaction for Coachella Valley-area children with autism.

Building on its momentum from the past two years, the afternoon gathering will provide an opportunity for a limited number of amateur players, spectators and VIPs to have an up-close and personal experience with some of the world's top tennis stars in an exclusive, intimate setting both on and off the court.

A Pro Am Doubles Round Robin will take place from 2:00 - 4:00 p.m. during which 24 amateurs will play alongside pros and special guests. Four winners will earn the chance to play with and against tennis celebrities in exhibition matches that begin at 5:00 p.m.

That evening, guests will enjoy a champagne VIP Reception, including photos and autographs with the stars, followed by dinner and entertainment.

Bouchard is currently ranked at World No. 42, and she became the first Canadian-born player representing Canada to reach the finals of a Grand Slam in singles, finishing as runner-up to Petra Kvitova at the 2014 Wimbledon Championships. She also reached the semifinals of the 2014 Australian Open and 2014 French Open, and she won the 2012 Wimbledon girls' title. Following the end of the 2013 WTA Tour, she was named WTA Newcomer of the Year. The next year, Bouchard received the WTA Most Improved Player award for the 2014 season.

Fritz is a quickly rising star of American tennis and has the distinction of being the second fastest American ever to reach an ATP final, accomplishing the feat in just his third career event. A native of Southern California, Fritz is currently ranked No. 73 in the world and was named ATP

Taylor Fritz

Eugenie (Genie) Bouchard

Star of Tomorrow, presented by Emirates in 2016, as the youngest player to finish in the Top 100. Fritz is also a member of the 2016 Mylan World Team Tennis Champions, the San Diego Aviators.

Other star players will be announced in the coming months but expectations are high. During years one and two, Tennis with the Stars featured tennis greats Kei Nishikori, Richard Gasquet, Garbine Muguruza, David Ferrer, Martina Hingis, Jelena Jankovic and Bouchard.

Cliff Drysdale Tennis, presenter and coordinator of the event, launched in 2001, founded by International Tennis Hall of Famer Cliff Drysdale and partner Don Henderson. The organization specializes in daily tennis management and design for resorts, hotels, private tennis clubs and companies. It is also known for providing quality tennis educational programs, summer camps, clinics and retreats that bring the game of tennis to a greater number of people.

ACEing Autism, founded in Boston in 2008 by Richard Spurling and Dr. Shafali Jeste, works to enhance the lives of children with autism and their families through tennis activity. The organization relocated to Los Angeles in 2010. ACEing Autism currently serves more than 500 children across 30 locations nationwide.

Limited tickets are available for Tennis with the Stars. Pro Am entries, spectator tickets and VIP packages are available for purchase online at tenniswiththestars.com. # ANA Inspiration 2017

By Matt McKay

Golf's first major of the year seeks to enhance the first-class experience

Lydia Ko, seen here holding the Dinah Shore Trophy after winning the 2016 ANA Inspiration, is expected to be among the competitors when the 2017 version of the championship is played at Rancho Mirage's Mission Hills Country Club March 30-April 2.

Now in his 22nd year of working with the tournament and his ninth as tournament director, one would think Gabe Codding would have some aspects of the season's first golf major, the ANA Inspiration, on autopilot. Instead, it's the exact opposite.

Sure, the world's top female players all want to qualify for and play in the tournament, this year scheduled for March 27-April 2. Yes, the tournament will be played on its traditional home course, the Mission Hills Country Club Dinah Shore Tournament Course in Rancho Mirage, California.

But even within those constant elements, there will be change. Changes in addition to the expansion of the ANA Junior Inspiration event, the participants in the ANA Inspiring Women in Sports Conference and improvement of the fan experience. It's a never-ending chase to dial up the exposure and impact of the event, now in its third year of a five-year contract with the Japanese airline.

While the course remains the same, there have been dramatic changes to the Mission Hills clubhouse. This year will be the first with the renovated clubhouse in operation, so the old pros and more-experienced fans will have to negotiate the new layout right along with tournament rookies and first-time patrons. As always, the field will feature over 100 of the top female professionals in the world, but Codding points out that as many as 50 players may arrive and compete this year with a shiny new title on their CVs—2016 Olympian. And in his time with the tournament, Codding has not only overseen change, many times he has spearheaded it.

"It's been fun," Codding says. "You have this historic event, you have this great field, but you really didn't have anything behind it in terms of support events. So the addition of the ANA Junior Inspiration, the Inspiring Women in Sports Conference, upgrades to the pro-am, and the overall experience...it's something we're always working on. We're continually challenged to grow and better the overall experience."

Now in its second year, the ANA Inspiring Women In Sports Conference is scheduled for Tuesday, March 28. Codding says the list of participants is still being firmed up, but it is likely to include a host of LPGA and Olympic athletes and will focus on the same basic theme: empowerment of women through sports. The event will be anchored around a keynote speaker and an assortment of panels featuring LPGA players and Olympic athletes with stories from Rio de Janeiro and dreams about Tokyo 2020.

Perhaps the most substantial upgrades/changes made outside the clubhouse doors are being made to strengthen the ANA Junior Inspiration. Just an idea a handful of years ago, and a Southern California regional affair though 2016, the 2017 event will be conducted under the auspices of the American Junior Golf Association and will be played on the weekend prior to the tournament, with 36 holes on Saturday and 18 on Sunday. The Sunday round will pair LPGA Legends with the juniors as they compete for the single coveted exemption into the ANA Inspiration while playing alongside pioneering female professionals who've already had their experiences with the vaunted Tournament Course.

ANA is getting more heavily involved in the junior event, right down to helping determine the 40-player field. Special invitations will be handed out to 11 players from the airline's North American gateway cities (Honolulu, Washington D.C., Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York, Seattle, San Jose, Mexico City, Vancouver), with spots going to the player in each region ranked highest in the AJGA Polo Golf Rankings in mid-February. Those players will join 29 others selected based on their standing in the AJGA rankings, and their standings in the corresponding ANA Junior Golf Ranking, which will award players "miles" instead of points.

Codding says the association with the AJGA, the expansion of the field pool from Southern California to all of North America, the addition of the Legends field and the 36/18-hole format has turned what was once a nice little perk for Southern California's best juniors into a first-class national junior event.

"We think it's exciting because now you can come and see a legend like Nancy Lopez or Laura Davies tee it up on a Sunday on the Tournament Course with all these up-and-coming juniors," he says. "It's going to be really unique and it checks a lot of the boxes of what we're trying to do to show support and help the growth of the game."

As for the championship itself, Codding's team is engaged in integrating the existing tournament structure with what is basically a new clubhouse structure at Mission Hills. There are also physical tweaks to be implemented, such as more viewing areas with larger screens in sitting and shaded areas, and improvements to the food court's variety and accessibility.

"This will be the 46th year [the tournament] has been here at Mission Hills, and they've just completed an amazing transformation of their clubhouse," Codding notes. "When people show up here this year, they're going to think, 'My goodness, the clubhouse is brand new and the inside of the clubhouse is brand new!'"

Codding says that the tournament will continue with the same type of large-scale branding it has already been doing—with improvements. "The food trucks will be back, the culinary experience is going to be upgraded, the fan experience will be upgraded. Then you're going to have the top 115 women golfers in the world. It's going to be pretty great."

Hassle-Free Home Ownership at The Residence Club at PGA WEST

By Kristy Kneiding

A PGA West Premier Sports Membership is just one of the benefits

Golf enthusiasts worldwide recognize the PGA West name in association with its championship golf and elegant resort lifestyle. The Residence Club, located within PGA West, offers buyers the opportunity to have a home away from home and share in this ultimate desert lifestyle—minus the hassles of traditional home ownership.

This is no typical timeshare, luxury vacation rental or vacation home.

The Residence Club at PGA West offers buyers a one-quarter or one-ninth undivided, deeded interest in a stunning million-dollar single-family home. This allows for partial ownership of an exclusive piece of Coachella Valley real estate with access to the club's amenities at a fraction of the cost of a conventional vacation home. Ownership can be sold, willed, deeded or placed in a trust.

There are multiple benefits to ownership. First, all properties at The Residence Club are expertly managed and maintained. Owners can expect five-star amenities including the services of a bellman and concierge, housekeeping and grocery delivery. Additionally, owners enjoy 24-hour security; use of the fitness center, clubhouse, pool and spa; and exclusive access to luxury resort destinations around the world.

They also receive a PGA West Premier Sports Membership, with its benefits for golf and tennis enthusiasts. The extensive tennis facilities feature 19 courts with grass, hard, and clay surface options, and there's Pickleball as well. Knowledgeable, talented instructors are on hand to help members improve skills and up their game via individual or group lessons.

The six legendary championship courses of PGA West provide challenge and enjoyment for golfers of all skill levels, each with its own distinctive style. The five finishing holes at the Arnold Palmer Private Course are set against the majestic Santa Rosa Mountains. The Jack Nicklaus Private Course is consistently ranked among the Top 100 Courses in the World. Long a members' favorite, the Tom Weiskopf Private Course brings Scottish links-style play to the desert, and the Jack Nicklaus Tournament Course, with its undulating greens, ultra-high slopes and breathtaking views, is one of the only courses in the world featuring two island greens, a par three and a par five. The Greg Norman Course is lauded for its true environmentally friendly design, and the award-winning Stadium Course, by highly regarded architect Pete Dye, offers a serious challenge for even the most accomplished player. It's not an overstatement to say there is something for every golfer here.

Off the course and courts, members have access to two fitness centers where they can take advantage of cardiovascular and strength-training equipment and an extensive schedule of aerobics and fitness classes.

When some pampering time is needed, members can indulge at Spa La Quinta, a 23,000-square-foot retreat complete with massage, facial and body-treatment rooms, a gift shop and a full-service beauty salon, all available at reduced costs.

That's the amount of money the 2016 Warburton Celebrity Golf, Music, Run event raised for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, making it the top-grossing golf fundraiser in the country.

This year's five-part blowout aims to break that record when it convenes March 9-12. The golf will be played over the weekend of March 11-12. The first round is scheduled for the JW Marriott Desert Springs Palm Course in Palm Desert, California, with the second round at the Classic Club, also in Palm Desert. A pairings party will be conducted on Friday, March 10.

As suggested, golf isn't the only component of the event that draws huge crowds and helps raise so much for St. Jude's. The Songwriters night, which features dinner and a night of entertainment with celebrities and music legends at the JW Marriott Pavilion, is scheduled for Thursday, March 9. The list of entertainers includes noted country songwriters Tim Nichols, Bob DiPiero, Kelly Lovelace, Liz Rose and Leslie Satcher.

An additional component to this year's event is The Rush, an exclusive fundraiser limited to 100 drivers who will participate in an event at the BMW Performance Center in Thermal, California. The Rush will involve a celebrity race and participation in the center's Driving Experience, which will include teaching the participants techniques, timed laps, a drag race and a "performance drive," allowing drivers to take on the BMW test track.

Participation in the Rush could be the perfect warm-up for The Jam, also scheduled for the 10th. The JW Marriott Ballroom is the venue and the list of performers is long: Jeff "Skunk" Baxter, Kim Carnes, Alice Cooper, Steve Cropper, Micky Dolenz, John Elefante, Don Felder, Tom Johnston, Robby Krieger, Alex Lifeson, Robin Meade, Mike Mills, Wally Palmar, Danny Seraphine, Tommy Thayer and Phil Solem, along with members of the groups Sixwire and the Gin Blossoms.

Sixwire will also headline The Soiree, scheduled for the night of Saturday March 11 and held at the JW Marriott Ballroom, where memories of the night before should still linger on. A cocktail party, dinner and a silent auction are among the night's activities. ## What is Pickleball?

It's the user-friendly, people-friendly racquet sport born in the Seattle area 50 years ago, and only now taking Southern California, and the Coachella Valley, by storm.

Which means, the sport is finally gaining traction in recreational hotspots across the country despite its less-than-imposing name.

"I'm not likely to pick up any women in a bar telling them I'm a professional pickleball player. I generally just say I chase little yellow balls around for a living and let them figure it out," says Morgan Evans, a Perth, Australia, native now serving as director of pickleball and tennis professional at Shadow Mountain Resort and Club in Palm Desert, California, as well as tournament director for Coachella Valley Grand Prix Pickleball.

"But if pushed to describe it and defend the sport to someone, you can just sort of cite the statistics, tell them how fast it's growing and then get them on the court," Evans says. "Because no one who plays it for more than five minutes doesn't love it. You have to be a cold-hearted person to not enjoy the game."

Evans, who has his own signature paddle with Selkirk, plays competitive doubles pickleball with teammate Marcin Rozpedski, originally from Warsaw, Poland, and now director of sports at The Lakes Country Club in Palm Desert. He all but put away his tennis racket when Blake Wilcox, director of tennis at Andalusia Country Club, introduced him to pickleball three years ago.

Rozpedski has since won over 50 consecutive competitive singles matches, claimed the USA Pickleball Association singles national championship in 2015 and 2016, as well as the initial U.S. Open singles title in 2016, and finished as runner-up in the 2016 doubles national championship with Evans as his partner.

Rozpedski says he struggled initially with the game despite his tennis background. With a few suggestions from Wilcox, however, he began to find the competitive form that's made him one of the country's best players. But it wasn't just the hand-eye coordination that brought Rozpedski firmly into the pickleball fold. With a smaller court and a plastic ball, pickleball simply demands less of a player's body than tennis—something he and his doubles partner appreciate more with each passing year.

"It's played on a 20-by-44-foot badminton court, the paddles are a little larger than ping pong paddles, the ball is a plastic whiffle ball and you play on a hard surface," Rozpedski says. "The ball is plastic, therefore it doesn't travel that fast so you can have a rally very quickly. You play two games to 11 points, and you can only score when you're serving. Pickleball is easy to learn and to play. And it's a fun, very social sport. We have a lot of fun with all the other players."

"As for me, I started to play a lot of local and national tournaments, and all of a sudden it became my profession." Rozpedski is sponsored by The Lakes Country Club and by Engage Pickleball, a high-end racket company. "My body is not as young as before and tennis requires this incredible amount of physicality," he says. "Pickleball is certainly less physical than tennis. Therefore I am still able to compete at the highest level in pickleball because it's less physical."

Evans sees the same attributes. "I feel like pickleball is filling a void that other racket sports haven't been able to fill so well. With the world's population rapidly aging, the average age is rising every year, and [these sports enthusiasts] need something that allows them to stay competitive but doesn't destroy your knees the way tennis does. Squash, racquetball, they're all very demanding on the body."

Male tennis players aren't the only ones picking up on the game locally, or dominating in the highest levels. Palm Desert's Karen Gysin grew up playing tennis but picked up pickleball after her daily hikes led her past pickleball courts full of happy players. One day she stopped to ask questions and in short order she was playing. She says she hasn't picked up a tennis racket since. She now plays out of Freedom Park in Indian Wells, California, and teamed with partner Scott Moore to win the over-30 mixed doubles national championship in 2015.

"It's just a lot more action, it's quicker, there's a smaller court and it's not as hard on your body. And it's way more social," says Gysin, who's athletic career includes stints in professional volleyball and softball. "I can't even describe how much more fun it is than tennis."

Gysin also notes that playing doubles is easier on the body as well. "Marcin and those other guys play a lot of singles, and that's a lot harder on your body. I used to play singles but have sort of tapered off because I have some back issues from volleyball. I can't really pound my body like that. I just save it for doubles."

It's hard not to make comparisons between pickleball and tennis, and golf and footgolf, the game using soccer balls and 18-inch holes and played alongside traditional golf holes at existing golf courses. The establishment sports originally saw the newfangled games as a threat. But just as footgolf's founders insisted its game was an added benefit to an existing facility and a way to expose a new segment of the population to the original game, pickleballers have also had to fight for legitimacy while convincing tennis players that pickleball is good for them and for the game of tennis.

Rozpedski says the tennis contingent at The Lakes did not initially want to give up any tennis courts, so three seasons ago he marked off a court on the club's Court No. 15, installed a portable net and stood back to see if the court got any play. Now the club has nine full-time pickleball courts and between 100 and 150 players, while the 220 tennis players use the remaining 11 courts. And all exist in harmony.

"We have events, club events, tournaments, exhibitions, club championships—it's a full-on sport right now," he says. "I suggest to all the tennis directors and all the country clubs to do the same because it's inevitable that this sport is going to grow and make money and that's what we do at The Lakes."

Bryan Lebedevitch, Master Instructor
and Charlie Rodi, Master Club Fitter

Golfer's Playbook

Intertwining Club Fitting and Instruction for Better Results

The combining of golf instruction and club fitting is very important for golfers of every ability. These two disciplines are related throughout your entire journey in golf since the equipment you use should complement your current golf swing and visa-versa. In order to progress in the game of golf, your equipment needs to produce the best results and assist in the proper technique in your swing. Conversely, the incorrect equipment will make progress difficult if not impossible, even with excellent instruction.

For this lesson, golf instructors Bryan Lebedevitch and Charlie Rodi share their expertise in how Intertwining club fitting and swing instruction will produce better results.

Bending the golf club

Heel of contact with face spray

Club Fitting Improving Golf Swing, with Charlie

When a student shows up to a club fitting, inquiring about purchasing a new set of golf clubs, I sometimes notice that the current skill or swing technique of the student influences how I am going to fit them, which leaves me with this question: Should I fit the golf clubs to their current swing technique, which may have some flaws that I am working on with them to improve? Or should I fit them with a golf club that will assist them in making the correct swing that we are working on?

In the case of this student, who wanted to improve contact and increase his distance by purchasing a new set of golf clubs, I knew I was not going to be able to help him achieve that goal because of his current swing technique. This student has a steep swing accompanied by an open club face and leftward path issue. This swing path was creating contact with the ball off the heel of the clubface. My solution was to modify his current clubs, which helped me make adjustments to his swing technique. After making that change, the student continued with the initial club fitting and eventually reached his goal.

How This Affects You

Taking the time to work with a golf instructor who has knowledge of how club design can directly affect the proper swing mechanics, as well as the flight of your the ball, is very beneficial. You might be making the correct swing; however, if your golf clubs are not designed specifically for you and the swing you are working on with your instructor, you will not be able to achieve your best results.

Swing Technique Affected by Golf Clubs, with Bryan

When a student arrives at a golf lesson with clubs that are improperly fit, the clubs handicap the student's ability to make the necessary adjustments that I would like him or her to make as we work together on the swing. When I see that a golf club is inhibiting improvement due to its incorrect length and lie angle for a student, I'm left with this question: Do I try to make the desired changes to the student's golf swing with an improperly fit golf club or do I have my club fitter come in and assist in fitting the student with golf clubs better suited for improvement?

In the photo I have a simple example of a golfer who has early throw in her downswing with a high handle at impact. From the instructional side, I want to change the club face and path to positively affect the early throw, creating better impact conditions. Unfortunately, the student's clubs are extremely upright, making this change unlikely. By bringing in my club fitter, I can consult with him and the student to determine what changes must be made to the equipment to facilitate the proper swing and quality of contact with the ball. In this particular case, making the irons flatter helped the student swing the golf club on the correct path.

Golf and Tennis Communities are Not One-Size-Fits-All

By Jennie Robinson

Finding the right golf or tennis community is just as important—or even more so—than finding the right home. After all, it's the lifestyle that most buyers are seeking, especially those in the market for a second or vacation home.

Price, of course, determines to a large extent where most people end up. However, there are more than 100 private and semi-private golf and tennis clubs in the Coachella Valley to choose from. Most communities have homes and condos in a variety of price ranges, but that can be where the similarities end. Each community also offers its own particular set of attributes that make it a good fit—or not—for buyers.

With the downturn in the economy over the past five years, many of these clubs have suffered loss of members and are offering incredible deals to attract new members. That's why it's important to work with an experienced realtor who knows the area and what each club has to offer—not just what's available in terms of real estate, but also the ins and outs of the clubs themselves.

As a 26-year desert resident, realtor, avid golfer and social tennis player, I have had the opportunity to visit every golf course and tennis community in the valley. I have also been a panelist and golf course rater with Golf Digest for over 15 years and have rated most of these facilities. I pride myself in matching my clients and friends to the perfect club for their needs.

When meeting new clients I focus on asking lifestyle questions. You can ask yourself these same questions to get a better sense of which of the many communities and clubs in the Coachella Valley might be right for you.

Consider the following: How important is golf and tennis? How much are you willing to spend on golf and tennis? What is your golf or tennis skill level? How many holes of golf do you want? How many tennis courts? What are your interests and hobbies? Do you have children or grandchildren who will be with you some of the time? Do you want a club with a lot of social activity? What's your budget?

Of course, there's enormous overlap in what clubs offer, but asking and answering these questions can help narrow down your search and ensure that you will ultimately feel comfortable at your new club. Depending on your answers, you will focus on different communities during your home search.

For the true golf enthusiast or a golf-loving couple at different skill levels, PGA West might be a good choice. It has six championship courses with five sets of tees on each course, and it has one of the best practice facilities around as well as a top-notch golf school. It would also be a top choice for those who play both golf and tennis as it also has 19 tennis courts. Homes range in price from the $200s to the $2 millions.

Another option for serious golf and tennis players is Mission Hills Country Club. It has three championship golf courses, including one playing host to an LPGA major event, as well as 34 tennis courts that have hosted many Davis cup matches over the years. Home prices range from the $100s to the $3 millions.

If having a great spa and fitness center with a range of fitness classes is a focus, Toscana Country Club should be in the mix. In addition to two Jack Nicklaus Signature golf courses, Toscana has a very active cycling club and many social activities as well as a social membership for non-golfers, making it a good choice for homebuyers looking for a community with robust social programs and activities. Home prices range from $1 million to the $3 millions.

How to choose the golf or tennis community that's right for you

Do you have children or grand children who will live with you or visit? The Hideaway has excellent family and children's activities, including outdoor movies. The Hideaway has a somewhat younger membership and is fondly referred to as the "fun" club in the desert. Additionally, it has two gorgeous golf courses, a fabulous spa and excellent food and libations.

Big Horn also offers a wonderful children's setting with an awesome play area and holiday and spring break activities. There are two top-rated golf courses, a world-class spa, topnotch tennis and fine dining. A new clubhouse like nothing the desert has seen before is in the process of being built. For the car enthusiast, there's a club that's a separate membership and offers storage as well as other amenities. Home prices range from $1 million to the $8 millions.

At the other end of the spectrum, if money is no object, The Madison Club is the place to be. If you can dream it the club will have it or will find a way to create it. From a stunning Tom Fazio-designed golf course to exceptional dining, an opulent clubhouse and incredible spa, it's all here—and with ultimate privacy. Home prices range from the $3 millions to the $12 millions.

There are many, many excellent communities in the Coachella Valley and these are just a handful of them. You can also visit my website, jennierobinson.com, which lists each country club in the area with relevant facts as well as every home listed in the club. You're holding in your hands another excellent tool, one that I share with my clients. Each issue of Desert Golf & Tennis includes a list of clubs, contact information and prices to join.

Once all of the important questions are answered, I begin the work of introducing buyers to specific clubs that match their lifestyle needs and offer the right home as well. Making these perfect matches makes my job rewarding.

Romancing the Palate

February is the month of love, but romance reigns at these restaurants all year long

February may belong to St. Valentine but desert diners can romance their palates all year round. As winter nears its end and crisp sunshine streaks its gaze across the local mountaintops to herald the coming of Spring, its time to celebrate with friends and loved ones by heartily falling in love with food. We present five of our favorite seductive spots for tantalizing cuisine and merriment this season.

Pacifica

The restaurant's patio, which overlooks the premier shopping promenade of El Paseo, features heaters, cabanas and a beautiful fireplace. The ambiance is perfect for enjoying a dish of rich, bacon-wrapped Medjool dates stuffed with goat cheese and sprinkled with aged balsamic, blue cheese crumbles and beurre blanc. Follow that with twin his-and-her lobster tails paired with a glass of Louis Jadot Pouilly Fuisse, and then share a chocolate mousse with orange cognac crème anglaise. ACQUA CALIFORNIA BISTRO

Acqua California Bistro

At this new bistro from the Keller family, you'll find a three-course special Valentine's Day dinner accentuated by the passionate colors of pink, red and orange. Think tomato bisque or red bell pepper soup, roasted beet salad and red velvet cake for dessert. But, as co-owner Jerry Keller likes to point out, everyday can be Valentine's Day at Acqua. Guests are known to fall hard for the iconic wild mushroom soup and Executive Chef Arturo Casillas' superb Chilean sea bass. Don't forget to ask for the Cupidini cocktail! ### La Quinta Cliffhouse Grill & Bar

The setting of this famed eatery provides many opportunities for intimate meals as it is nestled into the side of a mountain. Whether dining in the sunset room to watch the sky change color near dusk or on the terrace with waterfalls flowing in the background, you'll find it impossible not to grow bright of heart. After classic oysters on the half shell with mignonette and a dirty Russian cocktail, opt for Chef Jorge Martinez's luxurious filet mignon with porcini puree, asparagus and garlic herb butter. A Caymus 2014 Cabernet Sauvignon pairs well with the steak. (78250 Highway 111, La Quinta; 760.360.5991; laquintacliffhouse.com)

WALLY'S DESERT TURTLE

Wally's Desert Turtle

No heart shaped box of beloved valley restaurants would be complete without Wally's Desert Turtle, an institution in fine dining that has warmed the hearts of residents and visitors alike for nearly 20 years. The traditional fine linen and heavy silver service is impeccable as are Executive Chef Pascal Lallemand's concoctions. Start with cauliflower and black truffle soup followed by Fanny Bay oysters in the half shell with vegetable confetti mignonette. Then enjoy the special sautéed free-range veal chop with roasted fingerling potatoes, jumbo asparagus and maple demi-glace paired with Ancient Peaks Cabernet Sauvignon by the glass. For dessert, savor the warm chocolate lava cake with vanilla bean ice cream and a Wally's classic apricot soufflé. Exquisite! PIERO'S PIZZA VINO

EXCITING FOOD NEWS AT THE BNP PARIBUS

In March, when the BNP Paribus Open comes to Indian Wells, it will be played in a newly renovated Indian Wells Tennis Gardens (IWTG) venue. Among the renovations is an outstanding expansion of the already world-class food venues and offerings, ensuring an enhanced experience for patrons and players.

To start, Wolfgang Puck's venerable and highly rated restaurant Spago, launched 35 years ago in Los Angeles, will join the stellar restaurant mix at IWTG this season. The full-service 100-seat restaurant will overlook the court in Stadium 1, giving fans an unprecedented view of the second-largest tennis stadium in the world combined with a first-class dining experience. Puck, a James Beard Lifetime Achievement Award winner and arguably one of the most recognizable chefs in the world, is also a six-time recipient of the prestigious Wine Spectator Grand Award and a two-time Michelin Star recipient. Best of all for tennis fans, Spago will be the third restaurant at IWTG to overlook a court, joining Nobu and Chop House, which offer that amenity in Stadium 2. And there's good news for players, too. Nobu will expand to the player dining facility, giving the athletes quick and easy access to its award-winning cuisine.

Venue partner Levy Restaurants will also increase the scope of dining options at Indian Wells Tennis Garden. Levy will bring 20 more permanent concessions and restaurants to the Stadium, including BS Taqueria from Esquire 2015 Chef of the Year, Ray Garcia; Dave's Doghouse, from Michelin-starred chef Josiah Citrin; Cassell's, a reinvented classic hamburger stand that has been an LA phenomenon since 1948; and Melissa's Produce, the Los Angeles-based fresh vegetable-focused offering. Stadium 1 will also now include local favorite Piero's Pizza Vino, serving traditional Neapolitan-style pizza, already a standout in Stadium 2, along with Sherman's Deli, a desert institution for the past 50 years. Additional venues will offer fun snack food, specialty coffees, ice cream and juice, and there will be outlets at which to buy craft beers and cocktails. The restaurants and concessions will be located in various spots and levels throughout Stadium 1, with eight on the Loge level, which previously had no food options. Cassell's and Piero's will be inside/outside, offering fans access from the concourse as well as the outside of Stadium 1. All in all, there's a lot for tennis fans and food lovers to look forward to.

THE CUTTING EDGE ART OF CHRISTINA DE MUSÉE

PROVOCATIVE AND THOUGHT PROVOKING, THE ART OF DE MUSÉE ALWAYS MAKES A STATEMENT

Green Goddess

I forgot My cell Phone, Acrylic on canvas, 6x15 ft

Infusion of Pleasure, Acrylic on canvas, 52x135in

Walking into Christina De Musée's lavish studio in Palm Desert, California is like being pulled into an artistic vortex of rich colors and fantastical imagery that pulsate with a dynamic life force—a sensory feast. Her studio is also her home and a spectacular gallery that provides entry to De Musée's private and exotic universe.

De Musée emerged onto the art scene in the 1980s in Los Angeles, when securing a presence as an artistic talent was a tough road for women. Early on, she knew that she had to incorporate her magnetic persona into the marketing of her art, drawing attention through theatrical spectacles and flamboyant promotional events. This controversial approach to showing her art caught the attention of Hollywood celebrities, the media and prominent art collectors. The critics took a much closer look and a star was born, teeming with moxie and individuality.

De Musée has exhibited her artwork in more than 100 galleries, nationally and internationally. Her works range in price from $1,500 to $30,000, depending on size and complexity. They vary in scale from small, intimate pieces to magnificent billboard-sized paintings. She has attracted a heavy-hitting base of art collectors, fans and followers, including Malcolm McDowell, Isabella Rossellini, Charlie Sheen, Brooke Shields, Robert Downey, Jr. and Roland Joffé, among others.

The grand scale, sensationalism and intense bold and bright colors hark back to her days as a performer in the Lido de Paris and the Folies Bergere in Las Vegas. From these wondrous influences of bigger-than-life staging and sumptuous productions brimming with glamour and sexuality, De Musée created huge, colorful canvas portrayals of the dancers and showgirls. Works such as “Neon Fantasy” capture images of what she calls “super hybrid women with luminous, phosphorescent colors.” Other paintings, such as “Ravenous Appetites” and “Infusion of Pleasure,” also incorporate a rich sensuality, mystery and spectacular coloration. The beautiful people seem to come to life in their own decadent fantasy world.

De Musée says, “My latest series is an aggregation of different themes: the mystical, the powerful, the vain, the decadent, the transcendent and, of course, the humorous and sexual aspects all thrown together into wild compositions.” Some of these paintings are stimulated by the hidden and not so hidden social events of the desert. Works such as “I Kiss You Electric” and “Secret Garden” are an exploration of these themes.

De Musée’s artwork overflows with vibrancy, drama and a memorable cast of characters. Sometimes labeled as outrageous, provocative and shocking, the artist’s work is unforgettable. It is fun and daring and never grim, much like the artist herself. All of De Musée’s works are personality driven. She has a passion for living, and that passion infuses not only her work but also every other aspect of her life.

I kiss you electric 4 MG, Acrylic on canvas, 66x96in

De Musée enthusiastically explains her calling by saying, “Art is a drive and a compulsion. It is like plunging into a fast-moving river, and, as the ideas come rapidly like a torrent, they must be acted upon or lost forever. This is why I like to paint two or three paintings at the same time. With my work, people are getting a lot more than just a painting. The art collectors are getting a full panorama of mood and presence. My mother used to bake what was called a 1,000-layer cake, and that is the essence of my art. The content is rich and layered with many visual tastes.”

De Musée uses diverse subject matter to create a collage of disparate images, which foster a visual story that teases the mind. She uses references by the media, fashion and the desert’s secrets. She integrates the shadow side of sensuality and social allegories to create visual statements, both beautiful and thought provoking.

For more information about the artist, visit her website, Christinademusee.com or

BODACIOUS BRACELETS

The tennis bracelet of yesteryear returns boldly reimagined this season

Like most things, jewelry styles cycle in and out with the passage of time. In 1987, the “tennis” bracelet took the world by storm, the trend originating when tennis star Chris Evert’s diamond bracelet fell off her wrist during play at the U.S. Open. The tennis bracelet, usually a series of symmetrical diamonds arranged in a straight line or string, came to be known as the classy ladies’ symbol of pedigree and grace, a reincarnation of the “eternity” bracelets from the 1920s.

Today, it comes back in new and exciting ways. El Paseo Jewelers and Roberto Coin have one-of-a-kind bangles and baubles that give the bracelet trend a grown-up feel and decidedly elegant presence.

EL PASEO JEWELERS

According to Raju Mehta, owner of El Paseo Jewelers in Palm Desert, California, the term tennis bracelet and its one-dimensional design have become a bit dated. Straight-line and fashion bracelets with variations in size and stone are much more de rigueur for 2017. They are the perfect accessory for sporting and social events, whether Wimbledon, the BNP Paribas or a royal wedding.

Raju Mehta

Bangle Beauties

Bangle Beauties Three exquisite bangles crafted from 14K white, yellow and rose gold are completely covered in carpets of white pavé diamonds. Each bangle sports 19.68ctw in diamonds, and each may be purchased for $30,000. Mehta says wearers will often decide to purchase two or three of the bangles to be worn together; however, any one worn alone also makes a dazzling statement.

Bond Girl

This dramatic diamond bracelet looks like something you'll need for your guest-star role in the next James Bond film. Nine rows of round, brilliant-cut white diamonds, totaling 351 stones, weigh 106ctw. Set in 14K white gold, each diamond is approximately 30 pointers. Given the rarity in assembling that many identical diamonds in terms of color and clarity, this piece holds the top spot in bracelet value at El Paseo Jewelers, selling for $225,000.

Just One

The yellow and white diamond bracelet, the only one of this unique design, presents a stunning windowpane check pattern of stones arranged atop an 18K gold two-tone square bangle with intricate scroll work on the edges and underside. The white diamonds weigh 8.09ctw and the yellow diamonds weigh 9ctw. This colorful piece retails for $65,000.

Classic Reimagined

Following the straight line, orderly design and derivative of the classic tennis bracelet, the eye-catching emerald strand features 14.10ctw in Colombian emeralds along with 3.03ctw white diamonds set in smooth white and yellow gold. This special creation is available for $40,000.

Ruby Red

Similar in style but switching up the stones, the rich red and white strands showcase 18.03ctw in Vietnamese rubies positioned next to 3.22ctw of white diamonds, all set in 18K white gold. This bracelet is also available at El Paseo Jewelers for $40,000.

Light Effect

A string of round brown diamonds features a richly hued reddish tone, especially when the diamonds are aligned, the light reflecting from one to another with a reciprocal effect. The stones, which weigh 71.5ctw and originate in Australia's Argyle Mine, are accentuated with petite white diamonds (4.48ctw) surrounding each brown stone. This precious accessory retails for $25,000.

Blue Brilliance

Proving the versatility of the modern diamond bracelet, the brilliant blue sapphire and diamond bracelet is made with seven stations of Ceylon sapphires (14.41ctw) arranged in perfectly symmetrical, floral-themed squares with 3.92ctw in white diamonds. Mehta sells this piece for $18,000.

ROBERTO COIN

Respected worldwide since 1996, Italian designer Roberto Coin, also in Palm Desert, has offered pieces that set the bar high for a luxury yet tasteful look in jewelry. Trend and tradition are combined here for a brilliant collection of bracelets.

Le Cheval

The Cheval Bangle in 18K white gold with diamonds reflects dignity and confidence with a series of five uniform horse heads, almost in carousel fashion, with sparkling white diamond bridles (1.05ctw). This bangle is like having your own little energy reserve of "horse power," so to speak. You can harness this yourself for $17,000.

Pavé Pachyderm

Staying on the wild side, the Flexible Elephant Cuff features the rendering of an elephant's head and trunk in pure 18K gold, accented with pavé white diamond tusks, ears, trunk and tip (1.55ctw). The flexible "trunk" doubles as the wrist cuff, textured on top and shiny underneath. This fierce yet friendly design may be purchased for $44,000.

Tiger, Tiger

The Roberto Coin Limited Edition Siberian Tiger Cuff in 18K rose gold with black, white and cognac diamonds (10.63ctw) is a stunning and sophisticated piece that sells for $68,000. The animal's face, mouth and powerful paw are completely covered in diamonds, with gleaming gold teeth, nose and a flexible arm that wraps around the wrist. Here kitty, kitty.

Divine Inspiration

The Roberto Coin Tanaquilla Cuff in 18K yellow gold is accented with white and cognac diamonds weighing 15.65ctw and danburite at 13.70ctw. Danburite is a mineral distinguished by its appearance of a transparent crystal cluster. Tanaquilla, meaning "gift of God," is indeed a divine work, available for $57,800.

Spitfire Petite

Delivers Big

These fashions may be proportioned to fit smaller women but they're long on style

Designer Amy Lipton has a mobile lifestyle. She's on the go down to dusk on a self-imposed, glorious treadmill. She has mapped out La Quinta and beyond with all manner of workout options, active sports to gentle classes—what she likes to call course-to-cocktail pastimes.

Lipton is a powerful example of a highly accomplished over-achiever, and the La Quinta resident is just 5 feet tall. Because of her small frame, she found it difficult to find well-tailored, fashionable clothing and took matters into her own hands. She gave a rousing birth to Spitfire Petite, her new line of golf and tennis apparel made precisely for women who, like her, are active yet petite, who go through days “course to cocktails,” and whose first job of the day importantly takes place in the closet.

Karen Cantrell, owner of Lady Golf and proprietor and chief visioner of The Fashion House, believes in Spitfire Petite and its mission to ensure that women of petite proportions are not overlooked when it comes to fashionable, high-performance sportswear.

LUXURY PETITE ATHLETIC FASHION

www.SPITFIREPETITE.COM

"Amy has the best high-performance athletic-wear ever," Cantrell says. "It's meticulously designed to fit the woman 5 foot 4 inches and under, tailored with precision from neckline to arm—holes with a waistline that's not only a good fit, but extremely flattering."

Spitfire fabrics are chosen for the easy-care properties that active women love, including moisture-wicking and built-in stretch providing wide range of motion. The new collection also features contemporary shapes and innovative color combinations that give the palette a novel spin. Cantrell is so taken with Lipton's line that she is dedicating a special area in her store to showcase the new Spitfire Petite collection.

Grayse on El Paseo

Has It All—And Then Some

By Diane Marlin-Dirkx

Make this fashion boutique your go-to for morning to eveningwear

Grayse, the buzzed-about fashion boutique on El Paseo, is the brainchild of iconic fashion designer Marie (St. John) Gray and her equally experienced and talented daughter, Kelly. The two powerful, stylish women are the know-it-alls of the desert fashion scene, the personal shoppers you want in your life while navigating life in the Coachella Valley.

What to wear? What to wear? They know. They know what is appropriate for a breakfast meeting of the board of directors and for a rehearsal of the church choir. They know what will be comfortable while playing a competitive game of tennis on a steamy day and what will be comfortable for cocktails or dinner at the end of a professional tournament, whether you're dining out at one of the valley's casual eateries or one of its finest fine-dining establishments.

Grayse isn't just for local residents or just for snowbirds and other visitors; it's for everyone. And now there's more good news: The two women have expanded their popular boutique, thus expanding their perspective on the desert lifestyle.

So go ahead, indulge in a personal shopping experience at Grayse. Add to your fashions and develop your own definitive style in this boutique that will surely have exactly what you want and need.

The Future is Here and It's Called the S90

It's not yet autonomous, but Volvo makes it easy to see how close that reality is Volvo is taking some risks for a carmaker that built its reputation on safety. These risks aren't dangerous; they're bets that autonomous cars are closer than we imagine.

"With $11 USD billion of investment over the past five years, we have not only reimagined what Volvo Cars can be, we are now delivering on our promise of a resurgent and relevant Volvo Cars brand," says Håkan Samuelsson, president & CEO, Volvo Car Group.

That investment has created the sexy and safe new S90, which will not only turn heads, it might turn the brand into one of the most desired cars on the market. The S90's safety system, which Volvo calls "semi-autonomous," might be the most advanced on the road. It doesn't drive itself, but it makes the driving experience more enjoyable and less dangerous.

Intellisafe is a series of systems that watch the road for pedestrians, large animals, the shoulder and other vehicles. Intellisafe prepares the brakes and assists with braking in situations where it "sees" an imminent collision. This isn't new to the auto industry; however, Volvo has ramped up the intensity of Intellisafe so drivers have confidence that the car will help in making split-second decisions.

In addition to safety systems, Volvo has integrated a Pilot Assist function in the S90 that actually drives the vehicle. When Pilot Assist is initiated by the driver, acceleration, braking and S90 that looks boxy is the traditional Volvo grill. On the S90, however, it works because the lines lend themselves to an aggressive front end that speaks to the power under the hood of this elegant machine. The sleek trunk lid leans forward and gives the car a sense of motion even when it's standing still. The trim provides an understated but clear message: I belong in the class. The S90 would look quite comfortable in a parking lot of BMWs and Jaguars.

The final statement Volvo has made with the S90 is to confidently stick to its values of producing high performing four-cylinder engines. The top-of-the-line option for the S90 is the 316-horsepower 2.0 liter. This turbo-charged, super-charged model sports a 0-60 mph effort of 5.7 seconds. That's nearly a second faster than a Mercedes E-Class. Later this year, Volvo will release the hybrid edition of the S90, in which they expect to produce up to 400 horsepower. The addition of an electric engine powering the rear wheels adds 87 horses and likely a lot of torque.

The four-banger won't growl like a straight six, but it won't drink fuel the same way, either. Volvo knows how to create a great-handling car. The suspension is tight in the corners and easy in the washboard steering are assisted—essentially driving the car. Volvo is quick to point out that Pilot Assist doesn't remove responsibility from the driver to drive the car, and the S90 requires that you keep one hand on the wheel in order to keep Pilot Assist functioning. Imagine though, a long road trip or stop-and-go traffic where your S90 is doing the breaking and accelerating for you all the while keeping you in your lane. This is the very real situation that you'll find in the S90.

Most of us know Volvo for its boxy wagons and XC90 SUV. The S90 is a new design that truly competes in the luxury sedan market. The only thing about the sections of road. Wind noise is surprisingly low while there's hardly a whisper from the tires inside the cabin. No one can argue that the S90 is a luxury vehicle.

Volvo also gets the interior right on the S90. The top trim package gives you all that is good about Swedish design. Wood inlays, supple leather, aluminum edges and a functional control panel that makes interacting with the car easy. The nine-inch control console is a touch-screen brain for the entire car. Several drive options allow for more aggressive "sport" shifting or customized suspension options. Four-zone environmental controls and a sound system that has you sitting in the front row with your favorite band make the S90 a force to reckon with in the mid-size, luxury arena.

The risks Volvo has taken are certain to pay off as Americans start to see that the Swedes aren't just about big-box furniture and meatballs. The S90 doesn't just look good on paper, either, with its retail price of about $52,000. The S90 is a safe bet even for high rollers.
