BNP Paribas Open:

Looking Back, Looking Ahead

Alexander Zverev

Garbiñe Muguruza

In anticipation of the 2022 BNP Paribas Open, fans should expect the unexpected.

As fans, media members, patrons and professionals prepare for the first March edition of the BNP Paribas Open since 2019—set to be held from March 7 to March 20—two names will especially stand out: Alexander Zverev and Garbiñe Muguruza.

After all, Zverev won the 2021 ATP Finals (his second victory in the championship and 19th in ATP singles tournaments), while Muguruza claimed the 2021 WTA Finals (her 13th WTA singles title, an aggregate that includes two major championships).

In response to his victory over Daniil Medvedev 6-4, 6-4, Zverev focused on the present, while also looking ahead to the future.

“I won against a player I lost five times to in a row, so I had to play one of my best matches,” he said. “I’m happy about that [and] happy to be going on holidays with this win.”

He continued, “There’s no better way to end the season than winning here. I’m obviously happy, but I’m also very much looking forward to next year already.”

Meanwhile, Muguruza became the first Spaniard to ever win the WTA Finals.

Daniil Medvedev

Cameron Norrie

Paula Badosa

"I didn't think of all these things [in regards to becoming the first Spaniard champion] because I didn't want to have more pressure," she expressed. "But it feels amazing to be part of the history, and this is a very special tournament."

She added, "Only the best eight [play] and you feel like every match is a final—and I made it."

And now she, along with another fan and tournament favorite, Zverev, will look to join some of the game's other brightest stars, in order to "make it" yet again—as champions of the 2022 BNP Paribas Open.

2021: A Year of Firsts

Last fall, the BNP Paribas Open was contested for the first time since 2019 and held in October for the first time in its history, due to COVID-19. The highly anticipated return of one of tennis's most popular tournaments—held after a 31-month hiatus—proved to be well worth the wait, as Cameron Norrie and Paula Badosa both captured their first victories in the event and paved the way for the sport's up and coming talent.

Novak Djokovic

Norrie, who became the highest ranked British player in men's tennis as a result of his victory, defeated Nikoloz Basilashvili 3-6, 6-4, 6-1. In doing so, he not only earned his first-ever ATP Masters 1000 title, but also became the first-ever British player to win a BNP Paribas Open title.

"I can't really believe it," he said shortly after winning last year. "If you would have told me I would have won before the tournament started, I wouldn't have believed you. It's amazing."

Badosa was equally emotional, as she overcame various personal issues away from the tennis court in order to ultimately capture the BNP Paribas Open and climb to within the top 15 of the world rankings (all the way from No. 70 in late 2020).

"There were moments when I thought I would never make it here. I suffered a lot, and I had to work on it a lot," she stressed.

Her adversity off the court likely had a role in her ability to handle hardships on it, as she battled two-time BNP Paribas Open champion Victoria Azarenka for 3 hours and 4 minutes. Ultimately, she prevailed 7-6, 2-6, 7-6 in the longest women's final ever recorded in the history of the BNP Paribas Open.

"I've learned that nothing is impossible," she stated after hoisting the trophy last fall. "I have been through tough moments. [But] I never stopped dreaming."

The Future is Bright in Tennis Paradise

Renowned around the world for its host site, Indian Wells Tennis Garden, which is known as Tennis Paradise, the BNP Paribas Open has recently been voted the ATP Tour Masters 1000 and WTA 1000 Tournament of the Year for the seventh year, an all-time record.

As the world's largest WTA and ATP Tour combined two-week event, the tournament has captured these honors every year since 2014.

And now, as Norrie and Badosa prepare to defend their titles, they will encounter their fair share of competition, as a majority of the game's best players will be in the field to enjoy the tournament's highly anticipated return to its usual March occurrence.

From Novak Djokovic (who recently made news for reasons aside from his on-court achievements, as his Australian visa was temporarily cancelled, due to his unvaccinated status), to last year's runner-up, Daniil Medvedev—to the WTA's current No. 1 ranked player, Ashleigh Barty, to former world No. 1 Karolina Hrdliková—this year's BNP Paribas Open will once again have an endless supply of talent.

Djokovic, a five-time winner of the event and 20-time Grand Slam singles champion, is typically the men's favorite. However, his status as a participant is presently unknown, as he may choose to remain unvaccinated. If he doesn't compete, look for Medvedev, the 2021 U.S. Open champion, to continue to prove himself as one of the game's elite talents, along with the likes of 2019 ATP Finals champion Stefanos Tsitsipas and 20-time Grand Slam champion Rafael Nadal.

On the women's side, Barty and Hrdliková will be joined by Aryna Sabalenka.

But, as proven by last fall's tournament, nothing is impossible. With this in mind, fans should expect the unexpected once more—all in the midst of Tennis Paradise.

Defining A New Era Of Lifestyle

The Lakes Country Club has always had a great reputation, and why not, members and guests have continuously soaked up a myriad of club activities in one of the prime locations in Palm Desert. Life at The Lakes Country Club has always been good, and now it's even better. The Lakes Country Club had an extreme $19 million dollar makeover this year. The Board and members voted and determined that it was time to reinvest in their community and secure their future.

Opened in 1982 on 380 acres, The Lakes Country Club became one of the premier private club communities in the desert. Now, with a completely remodeled clubhouse, tennis facility, and state-of-the-art fitness center with spa, its vision of "loving life" has new meaning to the entire membership and home owners.

So whether you are a winter resident or stay in the desert year around The Lakes Country Club could very well be an obvious choice. Noted golf course architect Ted Robinson, designed 27 holes of what today is a most pristine and conditioned facility you can imagine, with unparalleled backdrop mountain views of both the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto mountains. The fairways unwinding like green ribbons through desert vistas, home owners have a constant view of greenery, water and the magnificent backdrop, mountains.

The completely refurbished 55,000 square-foot clubhouse allows for the outdoors to be brought indoors as the new dining area features lanai doors that open to a panoramic view of the Santa Rosa Mountains and golf course, highlighting the beauty of the surroundings. The two-story clubhouse facility also features elevators for easy access and is a must see to experience and appreciate the unbridled ambience. The surrounding area offers members and guests a choice of private dining to a formal dining area that opens to a large ballroom.

The Mountain View Grille & Bar situated on the upper level with a partial island bar that opens onto a large covered terrace has been designed with shade, fans, heaters and lighting with oversized chairs and coaches. Members can now center around the fire pit tables with a long linear fire pit situated on the edge of the terrace, this venue will bring members the ultimate dining experience. A Wine / Board Room has been added for members to book private diners or social functions. These improvements allow for a dining and social experience at a whole new level.

The new 12,046 sq. ft. Lifestyle & Wellness Center, consists of a 1,046 sq. ft. weight and exercise room, steam, sauna, three treatment rooms, men's and women's locker rooms and a lap pool.

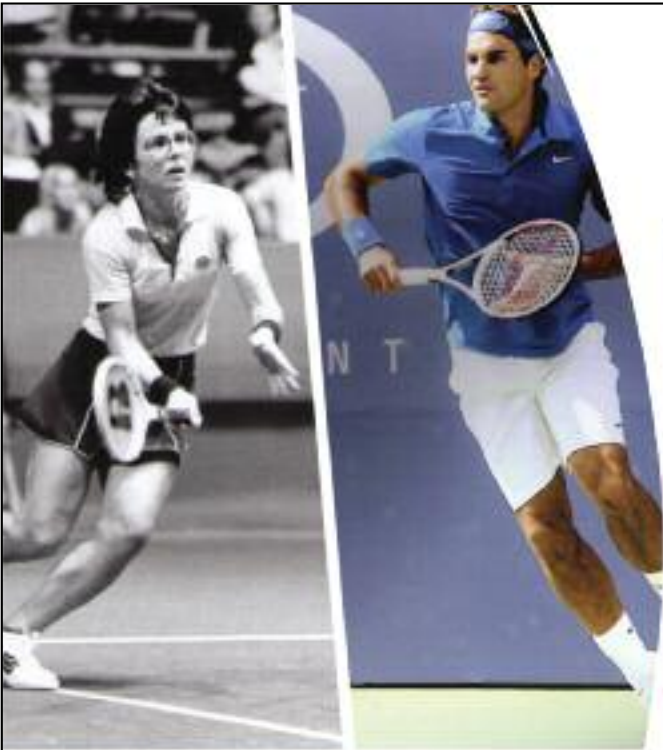

The Tennis and Racquet Center consists of 22 racquet courts and is also known as “America’s Home for Pickleball,” also has a stadium seating area for center court.

General Manager, Ron Phipps, is extremely proud of the new facilities, but is quick to say “it really is our people, the members and home owners that make all the difference, that sense of belonging and that connection is shared with friends and neighbors.” Veteran real estate broker, Jennifer Carter, has served this community for more than 30 years and considers it a pleasure to witness the growth of the uniquely active lifestyle membership.

Rich in history and tradition, and now with an abundance of new amenities, residential choices and club services, the members enjoy celebrating life at The Lakes Country Club, the perfect place to call home.

Susie Maxwell Berning

Named to 2022 World Golf Hall of Fame

Four-time Major Champion and instructor at
The Reserve continues to inspire

Susie Maxwell Berning, former professional golf champion and Coachella Valley resident, has been named to the World Golf Hall of Fame. She joins three other members in the 2021 induction class, including golf legend Tiger Woods, women's golf pioneer Marion Hollins and former PGA Tour commissioner Tim Finchem. Maxwell Berning was elected from the female category, beating out Beverly Hanson, Sandra Palmer and Dottie Pepper.

The Hall of Fame Induction Class was announced in 2021 and the awards presentation was originally scheduled to take place during the year, however due to the public health landscape it was decided to move the ceremony back a year. A special celebration will be held as the Class of 2022 on March 9, 2022 at TPC Sawgrass in Ponte Vedra Beach, Florida, along with the activities surrounding The Players, the PGA Tour's flagship event.

Others who have won the U.S. Women's Open three times or more, an achievement claimed by Maxwell Berning, are all in the Hall of Fame: Mickey Wright, Betsy Rawls, Babe Zaharias, Hollis Stacy and Annika Sorenstam. Maxwell Berning's election brings the Hall of Fame membership to 164 people.

"Quite an honor," said Maxwell Berning. "Just to be in the same room as Mickey Wright, Kathy Whitworth, Judy Rankin and Patty Berg — I tell you I remember when I first was on the Tour, just how nice Patty Berg was to me and I was scared to death, as it was the first time I ever played with Mickey. To be honored alongside them is something I thought would never happen. I never even thought about it. I'm now part of their family, which makes me very proud."

Maxwell Berning has become a treasured golf instructor-in-residence at The Reserve Club since its inception in 1998. Not only is she an honorary member there but also has become an integral part of The Reserve family.

Bill Lane, Club President at The Reserve, said, "Susie embodies every characteristic of a Hall of Famer: exceptional skill, integrity and passion and is dedicated to the sport and professionalism of golf. Her vast playing and teaching expertise is exceeded only by the personal attention she provides, enriching each lesson or playing experience. We are most fortunate she shares her time with members, and we are thrilled she has been elected to the World Golf Hall of Fame."

Growing up in Pasadena, California, and moving to Oklahoma at the age of 13, the four-time Major Champion began playing golf at the age of 15 and won three-straight Oklahoma State High School Golf Championships. She was the first female to be offered a golf scholarship from Oklahoma City University and played on the men's team. After becoming an LPGA professional in 1964, she earned the Rookie of the Year title. She won her first tournament in 1965 at the Muskogee Civitan Open and she was named Most Improved Player for 1967.

She went on to win 11 times including an impressive four Majors in the 1965 Women's Western Open and the U.S. Women's Open three times in 1968, 1972 and 1973, all while balancing family life as a mother raising her two daughters and driving a motorhome across the country to tour stops.

Maxwell Berning is also the recipient of the 2018 LPGA Pioneers award for her contributions to the game and was recognized during the LPGA's 50th Anniversary in 2000 as one of the LPGA's top-50 players and teachers.

"I'm excited for Susie," said Beth Daniel, World Golf Hall of Fame Class of 2000 inductee. "The thing that makes her stand out is her four Majors which she won while juggling a family. There are very few women in the history of golf that have been able to do that, and it lets female golfers know they can have a family and a career."

Nancy Lopez did it. Juli Inkster did it. But before them, Susie Maxwell Berning did it."

Beth Daniel, Nick Price, Annika Sorenstam and Curtis Strange are co-chairs of the 20-person Hall of Fame Selection Committee, which also includes media representatives and leaders of the major golf organizations.

The World Golf Hall of Fame celebrates golf and honors the legacies of those who have made it great. The Hall of Fame opened in Pinehurst, N.C. in 1974 where a total of 71 members were inducted before moving to its current location in St. Augustine, Florida in 1998. The Hall of Fame is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit institution and is allied with 26 national and international golf organizations, including the European Tour, LPGA, the Masters Tournament, PGA of America, PGA Tour, The R&A and USGA. More information may be found at worldgolfhalloffame.org.

As Greg McLaughlin, CEO of World Golf Foundation said, "With four Major Championships to her name, Susie's legacy really speaks for itself. Her life and career will impact today's golfers and future generations to come. We are looking forward to celebrating Susie and sharing her story as a Hall of Fame inductee."

Re-discovering Woodhaven Country Club

A lush oasis with waterfalls, stunning vistas and superlative golf and tennis programs

By Alison Elsner

Imagine gazing out at a lush, verdant expanse of freshly trimmed lawn with a nine-iron in one hand and an icy-cold margarita in the other. This is just the beginning of the Woodhaven Country Club experience. Located in the heart of Palm Desert just off of Washington Street, the Club is nestled within a tree-lined gated community and surrounded by breathtaking views of the San Jacinto and Santa Rosa mountains.

The dual pillars of strength that support the recreational nirvana of Woodhaven are the golf and tennis programs, under the stewardship of President and General Manager Ray Wytman.

The pristine, 18-hole community golf course - open to the public yet with the immersive vibe of an exclusive and welcoming enclave - is unparalleled in its scenic beauty. A wide variety of tiered pricing levels is offered, and surprisingly reasonable member and non-member annual and semi-annual golf rates are available, including unlimited golf and use of practice facilities.

Kaitlyn Ellis, head golf professional and PGA Associate, says, "The experience here is not just golf it's a hospitality endeavor. When people enter our gates, they are happy to be here. My goal is to keep them happy."

Ellis, who was named the Women's Player of the Year for the Women's PGA Desert Chapter in 2021, puts her leadership prowess to use by directing a robust schedule of tournaments and player events.

Club treasurer and tennis program chair, David Galpine, notes that this is a friendly facility that welcomes everyone with pricing that fits the needs of each participant. Galpine, at 85 years young, still plays a vibrant game of singles tennis himself. The Club's all-access, seasonal membership includes golf, tennis, pickleball, driving range and even use of the gym and is available for $300 per month (single) and $475 per month (couple). On top of all this, golf is only $20 per round.

The tennis program has thrived under the direction of tennis pro Rhenn Ramirez, who has an impressive tennis background in the desert as a pro and instructor for the past 20 years.

Ramirez has revamped the tennis program in the 15 months he's been at Woodhaven. With seven tennis courts and four pickleball courts, the Woodhaven tennis center is known as "The Players Club." Co-ed mixed doubles, also known as the "Woodhaven Open," are a series of socials that take place on Wednesdays and Saturdays, attracting couples as well as weekenders, with everyone encouraged to sign up. Players are often at the 3.0 and 4.0 levels and up, but The Players Club is open to everyone.

Woodhaven Country Club

Ramirez' influence has been seen in the expansion of the junior tennis program which has partnered with tennis legend and desert resident, Rosie Casals, and her Love & Love Tennis Foundation to benefit youth tennis. Pickleball has also become popular here, just as it has in many sports centers.

Ages of residents and players vary, however the culture is high-energy, and skill levels run the gamut. Case in point is Dori DeVries, USTA senior award winner who has found Woodhaven to be her tennis home and plays weekly at the Club.

Food and beverages options abound with lunch, dinner and happy hour and full cocktail bar in The Vista Lounge. Sandwiches, snacks and refreshing drinks are available at Mulligan's Bar & Grill. The fresh new look in the recently remodeled Pro Shop augments the warm, congenial environment for everyone who enters (and likes to shop the highest quality gear).

Weekend tennis and golf enthusiasts have been known to make Woodhaven a rather permanent habit by purchasing one of the well-appointed and affordable condominiums, all with private veranda views of the golf course and resident benefits.

Whether a full-time resident or weekend tournament player, it's easy to fall hard for the Woodhaven lifestyle, reinforced by viewing the website (woodhavenc.com) replete with images of the way life should and can be. Ultimately, all paths here lead to active living and close friendships at Woodhaven Country Club.

An interview with tennis great

By Alison Elsner

Roscoe Tanner

Scoring a win by bringing the gift of tennis to kids in need

His name and his story are legendary. In the 1970s and early 1980s, Leonard Roscoe Tanner III, known as Roscoe, aced his position as one of the most prolific tennis players of the modern game, earning the nickname “The Rocket” for his deadly left-handed serve characterized by a full body lunge.

His lightning fast 153 mph serving speed (clocked in Rancho Mirage, California in 1978) was the fastest ever recorded in tournament competition, surpassed subsequently only by Andy Roddick with a 155 mph serve.

In an interview, Tanner is affable and down-to-earth with a sense of humor and sincere introspection. Retired from competitive tennis, today Tanner lives in Orlando, Florida where he has parlayed his vast tennis experience and his passion to help others into broadening horizons for underprivileged children.

Roscoe Tanner was born in Chattanooga and attended Stanford University where he was named to the NCAA All-America team three years, was runner-up in the NCAA singles twice and, with Sandy Mayer, won the NCAA doubles. As a collegian, Tanner also won the U.S. Amateur Indoor Championship and the U.S. Amateur Tournament.

After turning pro in 1972, he reached World No. 4 in 1979. He is also well-known for winning the men’s singles title at the Australian Open tournament in 1977, defeating Guillermo Vilas. Tanner reached the Wimbledon final in 1979, losing to Björn Borg in five sets, although Tanner is credited with close to 30 aces during the match. Tanner avenged this loss to Borg by beating him in four sets in the U.S. Open quarterfinals two months later, a match where Tanner’s 140 mph serve brought the net down during the fourth set.

Tanner points out that some of his fondest memories are those of living and playing competitively in the desert in the 1970s, where he nabbed victory twice in the American Airlines Tennis Games, the precursor to the current BNP Paribas Open, then held at the Mission Hills Country Club in Rancho Mirage, California. In 1978, Tanner and Ray Moore took the winner’s cup at the Games in doubles, garnering them the cover on “Palm Springs Life.”

After his retirement, Tanner found himself involved in conflicts with the law, which resulted in jailtime on several occasions.

But, as Tanner says, “When one door closes, another one blows open.”

In 2016, Tanner moved to Orlando, Florida where he began teaching tennis to kids who would never normally have the opportunity to learn or even be exposed to the sport. He realized that success in tennis is often a function of privilege, where coach-to-student ratios are far more favorable than for kids in low-income environments. And he decided it was time to change that.

He began his own tennis coaching program at a church starting with seven and eight year-olds and working towards the goal of college scholarships. Tennis sessions are held inside the church while Tanner and church officials pursue permits for outdoor courts.

Tanner says, "Nothing is a coincidence in this life, and looking back is more accurate than seeing things in the moment," attributing his devotion for lending his time and talent to a series of events in his life during periods of challenge. While in prison in Germany, acknowledge when something isn't working. Things I did were stupid, but it's all led to this purpose of helping others."

Tanner's 16 year-old daughter, Lacey, lives in Orlando with him and is already a tennis phenom as well as a straight-A student. A lefty like her dad, she is hoping to attend Stanford University, also like dad. Tanner has four other daughters and two pet pooches, and he also provides tennis instruction at an area resort.

One of the differences between tennis in the 1970s and today is the level of collegiality, Tanner believes. He notes that players were friends with each other in those earlier days, whereas today there are more outside influences. He remembers playing with the best, including Jimmy Connors, John McEnroe, Ivan Lendl, Björn Borg, Dennis Ralston, Pancho Gonzales, Arthur Ashe the list goes on.

To some, Tanner's life story may sound like the makings of a movie. As it happens, several co-prisoners befriended Tanner and introduced him to bible study. Subsequently, a guard spent time reading the bible with him. While in jail back in Florida, Tanner was assisting an illiterate prisoner to write a letter home to his mother when he realized his purpose in life: to help kids improve their lives through the vehicle of tennis.

"In my past, I realize I gave lip service to people who were there to help me, like Pastor Jim Stump [Stanford University] and Stan Smith [International Tennis Hall of Famer]. I'm a people pleaser. I always believed that with pro sports the secret was to never give up and I could achieve it. But that's not true in real life, and sometimes you need to be willing to

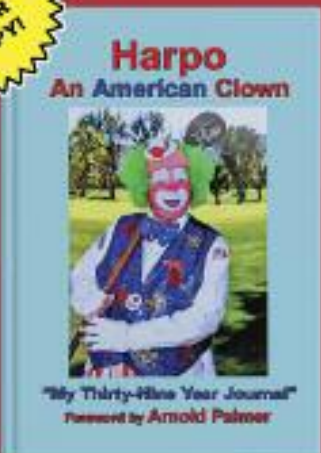

there are talks taking place with producers and writers to share his journey on the big screen.

Perhaps Roscoe Tanner's iconic serve has been a metaphor for his approach to life, going all in. Today, he has chosen to redefine personal boundary lines to focus on supporting kids and the community and strengthen pathways to success, both for kids learning tennis as well as for himself.

The ball is squarely in Tanner's court, inspiring fans and followers alike.

Lag putting

Becky Fossum, LPGA (SilverRock Resort, LaQuinta, CA)

Today we are going to focus on lag putting. I'm feeling excited to show you an excellent LAG PUTTING drill. (See photos) you can use any objects to recreate some targets. I placed a few alignment rods around the flag & 3 water bottles to have you putt from 3 different distances. I feel some simple items can help you stay focused on your lag putting. It would feel awesome to make these 10, 20 & 40 foot but, but let's focus on getting the golf ball in that 3' circle. (So less 3 putts);

Putting set up:

1. Ball of left (front) instep/ heel
2. Bow to feel eyes over the ball
3. Arms relaxed
4. Entire body is SQUARE TO TARGET

Drills:

1. 3 golf balls at each station
2. Start with the close target (15-20 feet away)
3. Then move farther away from the flag (20-30)
4. The last station putt from longest water bottle (30-40)
5. I prefer to start closer then work back
6. You can mix it up & then put 1 ball from each station

Hopefully these beginning - intermediate-tips will help you feel better about your golf game.

WILDEST

Restaurant + Bar

EL PASEO'S WILDEST DREAMS

This sleek restaurant and bar is the spot of your wildest dreams. If you're seeking a dining experience that strikes a balance between healthy and haute, self-described "chef groupies," owners Charissa Farley-Hay and Bill Hay have traveled the world seeking innovative cuisine and rare wines and set out to create a destination restaurant. Helmed by one of Southern California's hottest female chefs Gladis Lizarraga, this innovative El Paseo spot offers health-conscious casual fine dining in a sleek and sexy surrounding. It's no wonder Palm Springs Life and Open Table have awarded it as Best New Restaurant.

Dedicated to food that nourishes the body as much as it delights the senses, Wildest's menu celebrates grass-fed meats, wild-caught seafood, and creative plant-based dishes made in house. Guests can pair plates like Wagyu beef or rummic-glazed cauliflower with selections from Wildest's Wine Spectator Award winning wine list and enjoy it all sitting under the stars and listening to live entertainment.

The restaurant's moniker functions on multiple levels, referring to the hip, social environment as well as the commitment to close-to-the-earth cuisine. "We wanted to make good-for-you fabulous and fun," Farley explains. Wildest's health-conscious casual fine dining concept places the restaurant at the forefront of a growing trend in the culinary world.

Executive Chef Gladis Lizarraga has over fifteen years of experience in the restaurant industry as well as formally studying chemistry. Gladis was formerly with several masopue restaurants in San Diego including working for Celebrity Chef Brian Maloney at The Farmer & The Seahorse in Torrey Pines and several of the Cohn Restaurant Group's twenty-five restaurants. "My goal is to have Wildest recognized with a Michelin Star."

Wildest offers a full calendar of wine dinners, wine tastings, farm to table dinners, flight offerings, happy hours, late night supper clubs as well as hunting private events.

Fighting hunger near Stadium 2 is never a problem at Nobu, overlooking the on-court tennis action. Tennis spectators can enjoy award-winning dishes exquisitely crafted by James Beard chef, Nobu Matsuhisa, who hit the dining scene in the 1980s with his fusion fare blending traditional Japanese dishes with Peruvian ingredients. His first Nobu restaurant opened in New York, and today he boasts satellite establishments throughout the big apple as well as in Malibu, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Scottsdale, Palo Alto, Newport Beach, Miami and in multiple international locales.

Selections feature top-quality ingredients and specially sourced seafood and beef including Arctic char with chimichurri, Nori Kaba ribeye rosemary aioli, lobster with wasabi pepper sauce and many others. Hot special dishes cover a variety of creations, such as squid pasta with light garlic sauce, eggplant with miso and rock shrimp tempura served creamy spicy, ponzu or jalapeño. Cold special dishes showcase salmon spicy cilantro with paper thin vegetables, live octopus shabu shabu and baby artichoke salad.

Complete menus offer the finest sushi, sashimi, tempura, noodles, Nobu-style tacos and salad. Cocktails flow with shiso mojito, yuzu margarita, spicy mango, lychee or Matsuhisa martini and others, and there is a full selection of sake.

Desserts are uplifting, offering treats such as bento box with Valrhona dark chocolate fondant, black sesame tuile and imperial matcha gelato and the banana caramel soy toban yaki with caramel soy banana, roasted pecans and Malaga gelato.

Incidentally, Matsuhisa's signature dish is black cod in miso, but between us, everything on the menu is superb.

Piero's PizzaVino

A visit to Piero's is like an enchanting journey to Italy, making everyone feel welcome. A wide variety of menu items covers appetizers, sandwiches, salads, entrées and, of course, the masterfully prepared pizza.

Every cheesy pie is baked in an 800-degree wood-burning oven, inspired by three generations of authentic family recipes. Irresistible examples stand out with Bubba-Bubba pizza with white sauce, mozzarella, crumbled Italian sausage, caramelized onions and mushrooms and polpetta with meat balls, tomato sauce, mozzarella, bell peppers and mushroom.

Just a bounce away from Stadium Plaza, other favorites include antipasti and zuppe such as minestrone soup and crispy brussels sprouts, burrata cheese and oven roasted vine tomatoes drizzled with basil infused extra virgin olive oil.

Sandwiches and Italian wraps invite guests to try grilled salmon with mixed greens and tomato, Italian prosciutto with arugula, sliced tomato and mozzarella and tonna white albacore tuna wrap with celery, mayonnaise and artichoke hearts.

The seafood cioppino, a combination of shrimp, mussels and clams, pairs well with a crisp glass of sauvignon blanc or rosé or perhaps a classic martini. But then again so do the ziti "pizzaiola" with marinara sauce, garlic, capers, oregano and mozzarella cheese as well as the penne pasta in vodka rose Alfredo sauce with chicken or shrimp.

A meal at Piero's during the BNP will convince you that you've escaped to a sunny hillside in the Campania region of Italy, near Naples, in the shadow of Mount Vesuvius. Our advice is to go with it.

Spago

Stadium 1 tickets

Illustrious Austrian chef Wolfgang Puck's food has won a continuous string (coincidentally the meaning of "Spago") of awards since he first emerged on the cultural stage. He is probably best known the world over for his Beverly Hills restaurant, the flagship Spago. In 1993, Spago Hollywood (at its original location) was inducted into the Nation's Restaurant News Fine Dining Hall of Fame. The next year it received the James Beard Restaurant of the Year Award.

The only thing better than the unobstructed view of the tennis play on Stadium 1 from inside the restaurant is the food itself. For Spago loyalists as well as newbies, the pizza with house-cured smoked Scottish salmon, topped with red onion, dill crème fraiche, chives and salmon roe remains a go-to menu choice. Staying true to his passion for fresh, California cuisine, other menu successes include hamachi crudo with coconut, lime, radish and rice puff, the famous Chinois chicken salad with crisp wonton, sesame-ginger vinaigrette and candied cashews, steamed salmon "Hong Kong Style" with choy sum, shiitake, snap peas, jasmine rice and ponzu and more.

Cocktails are adult and tasteful, with barrel aged Negroni, Pepinos's revenge, Alito's way and many others. A complete wine list is always part of the program.

Desserts rank high in deliciousness, with choices such as lemon cheesecake and Cara-Cara olive oil cake. A tip: if you order the sublime white chocolate tennis ball shaped "Six-Love" with tiramisu and vanilla mascarpone mousse, the chef may very well come out and deliver it himself. Have your camera ready.

You'll definitely score with an appetizer such as ceviche in lime juice mixed with tomatoes, onions, cilantro and avocado or the campechana version with shrimp. The Coachella Valley offers many excellent eateries that check all the boxes and create popular destinations for diners. Whether dining out with a large group of friends or getting cozy over a relaxed meal for two, the excitement of the chefs concoctions and the discovery of a refreshing new cocktail or wine label are the constants. Fortun's Kitchen + Bar
owner Kevin Fortun

Fortun's Kitchen + Bar

The Freshest Restaurant near Old Town La Quinta

Wayne McCollum

Spend 10 minutes with Kevin Fortun, and listen to him talk about his passion for food, its preparation, and how to maintain the highest quality for both. Then, you quickly realize the true genius of this man.

The Seattle, Washington, native started his journey in 1978, when enrolled at the University of Washington, and working at some of Seattle's top restaurants. He then realized that there was an inconsistency in soups in many restaurants, and this is when he decided to create and develop Stockpot Soups, a line of premium, fresh-refrigerated soups. His goal was to provide quality, convenience and consistency to food service operators with a product made from the freshest, all natural ingredients. The end result was a fresh, homemade soup with no added preservatives, artificial ingredients or MSG.

Fortun's Stockpot Soups quickly became an industry leader in fresh homemade soup.

After expanding into retail markets, the company quickly grew into the largest fresh-refrigerated soup company in the world. With sales in more than 23 countries, the world's largest soup company took notice, and Campbell's Soup Company purchased Stockpot Soups from Fortun in 1998.

After a five-year non-compete, Fortun jumped back in to develop and produce a variety of new soups and fresh sauces under his private label, "Fortun's Finishing Touch Soups & Sauces."

Now available in retail and food service outlets worldwide, Fortun's soups and sauces are developed and produced in California. The quality has always been Fortun's highest priority, and his new soups exemplify this, consisting of a variety of choices including: Lobster Bisque with Cognac, New England Clam Chowder, Smoked Salmon Chowder, Louisiana Chowder, Azteca Chicken & Rice, Cheddar & Broccoli, Roasted Tomato Bisque and Classic Minestrone, to name a few.

Fortun says it is easy to turn casual home cooking into gourmet restaurant meals with his variety of gluten free sauces such as: Marsala & Mushroom, Santa Fe Verde, Rajun Cajun, Stroganoff, Four Pepper, Spanish Romanesco with Saffron, and Lemon Dill with White Wine. He is also introducing a line of plant based "vegan" soups.

Another of many ventures for this complex man is the wine business. In 2000, he and his partner purchased a vineyard in St. Helena in the Napa Valley, and began immediately producing one of the top 100-point wines, as rated by Wine Spectator. The wine was named "Hundred Acre," consisting of three vineyards, each producing some of the top-rated wines in Napa Valley.

The desert is fortunate to have Kevin Fortun in La Quinta, California, providing a great menu, first-class atmosphere and outstanding bar. Centrally located near Old Town La Quinta, Fortun's Kitchen + Bar offers an engaging dining experience amidst a sophisticated indoor and al fresco atmosphere to be enjoyed year round.

Steve's Bar, aptly named in memory of Fortun's restaurant partner and brother, features an amazing selection of wine and every craft cocktail imaginable.

Visit Fortun's Kitchen + Bar at www.fortunskitchen.com or call 760-564-8744.

Lucid Dream

By Aaron Atwood

New carmaker scores with dream car

The Lucid Group is a car company that didn't happen overnight. Since 2007, CEO Peter Rawlinson has dreamed of taking on the task of launching electrical vehicles on the open market. As Vice President of Engineering at Tesla, Rawlinson led the redesign and launch of the Model S. Now he's taking on his former employer, the EV super power, with his rollout of the Lucid Air, the first production car for his company.

The Lucid Air comes in several models: Pure, Touring, Grand Touring and Dream Edition. The Dream Edition has specs that make Space X look more like the target competition Rawlinson set his eyes on. The Dream is coming off the production line with 1,111 horsepower. You should probably read that line again.

A new company, launching a first car with 1,000+ horsepower sounds, well, like a dream. However, cars started rolling off the factory floor at Lucid's factory in Arizona in September. The Lucid Air is a 5,000-lb. vehicle slotted into a luxury sedan category but has super-car performance. With the dual motors running in sport mode, the Dream Edition is covering a quarter mile in 9.9 seconds. The 0-60 mph time is 2.5 seconds according to Lucid reports. That sort of track work is something you'd expect from McLaren, not a new kid on the block that looks more like a Bentley than a Bugatti.

The Air provides three driving modes: Smooth, Swift and Sprint. Each offers a combination of braking, motor output, steering response, and damper controls to make the experience different and interesting. There will be no problem producing neck-breaking torque in any mode given the presence of an accelerator.

Rawlinson has emphasized interior comfort and maximum battery range as design aspects of the Air. The performance aspect seems to come almost as an afterthought. The 113 kw battery gives the Dream a range of 520 miles in the 933-horsepower model.

Compare that to Tesla's Model 3 at 353 miles. That 170 miles is the difference between having to stop to recharge on your drive from Los Angeles to Phoenix, or just keep on trucking. The charging platform on the Lucid Air can accept any charging station, making the world you're virtual charging oyster. Recharging on a 300-kW DC connection can should replenish the battery from 10 to 80 percent in 20 minutes. The 19.2-kW onboard charger should take seven hours to fully charge, given the source is strong enough.

The interior has leg room for days. The front seats have legroom fit for a sumo wrestler. The rear seats have more room than a Mercedes S-class sedan, which Car and Driver monikered "the gold standard in large luxury sedans." A thin, 5K digital display runs east to west across the front dash. Designers were clearly going for elegance, and they hit the mark. The leather and alpaca interior is everything you'd expect from a $170,000 vehicle. The roof is an all-glass canopy letting passengers really sense the roominess of this ride.

If there's anything about the Lucid Air that is more nightmare than dream, it's the fact that all the 2022 production is sold out. If you want one, you'll have to settle for a lesser version in the 800-horsepower Grand Touring or the 620 horse Touring model. The price on those of course goes way down as well with the Touring retailing at $95,000.

As Lucid rolls into 2022 and 2023, Rawlinson has big dreams. He has already announced the plans for an SUV and has raised money to increase production at the plant to almost 400,000 cars in the next decade. If the Lucid Air is any indicator, this is more than a Dream and a ride you'll want to take.

For fashionistas and foodies,
Fashion Week El Paseo and Palm Desert Food & Wine
put the spotlight on good taste

By Alison Elsner

El Paseo Jewelers Fashion Week El Paseo presented by Bobbi Lampros March 19 – 26, 2022

It takes some serious commitment to achieve true sartorial splendor especially in the desert. Consider Fashion Week El Paseo your boot camp, so to speak, as the event has become one of the desert's signature cultural celebrations, rivaling those in other major cities such as Paris and New York and distinguishing itself as the premier exhibition of its kind on the west coast. Celebrating 15 years of fashion, the production returns in person to the Gardens on El Paseo under the thrill of the big white tent (actually a couple of them).

This world-class affair provides an inspiring, immersive experience through the sophisticated fashion show and the star-studded cocktail receptions held in advance of each show. The receptions generally involve musical entertainment as well as impressive sponsor displays. Other activities incorporate appetizer sampling and silent auctions. Fashion Week also presents daytime trunk shows with a chance to interact with the designers, celebrity meet-and-greets and chic after parties at hotels and venues around the valley where everyone wants to see and be seen.

Highlighting fashion trends and showcasing a who's-who of the country's top design talents (including some stars of tomorrow), designers offer audience members an exciting opportunity to learn about the next big trend in male, female and non-binary fashion. Resort wear is also likely to be featured, definitely appropriate for the desert locale. Many other fashion week events are curated for fashion industry insiders and buyers, whereas Fashion Week El Paseo is for consumers and those looking to enjoy the live shows.

This year's designer shows will include Trina Turk's 2022 West Coast Attitude, Le Chien with a Twist, Christopher Bates Presents, Couture Debut from FIDM (Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising), The Buzz on El Paseo (with more than 15 El Paseo stores presenting their latest spring and summer 2022 collections), Rebel! Rebel! On the Runway (featuring New York-based British fashion designer Keanan Duffty), Saks Fifth Avenue Presents and The Fantastical Fashions of Edwin Oudshoorn.

The pride of the desert and a genuine California icon, Trina Turk, whose show opens Fashion Week on March 19, is inspired by the Golden State's multicultural mix, creativity, craftsmanship, architecture, and landscape. The synergy permeates her contemporary, colorful aesthetic. Infused with bold signature prints and dynamic hues unique to each collection. Turk's style and sensibility are often closely aligned with Midcentury Modern design and lifestyle. She has numerous boutiques around the country, including of course Palm Springs and Palm Desert as well as Honolulu, Dallas and Atlanta.

The distinct style of local designer Aneka Brown, the creative force behind the "Le Chien" show on March 20, has been dubbed "California Afro-chic." Brown's luxurious resort line blends modern African themes, rich jewel tones and calming California earth tones. The designer is also a cofounder of the Black History Cultural Appreciation Fashion Music & Art Extravaganza, now in its fifth year, in Palm Springs. Her brand's motto is "Live every day of life like you're on a runway." This year her show will pair models with rescue dogs to exhibit her collection, "Post Apocalyptic Funk," taking the catwalk to raise funds for Animal Samaritans of the Desert.

Attendance at the shows is a chance to indulge your inner fashionista and go bold with selection of attire. Thigh-high boots and edgy designer wear are expected, taking one of the world's most relatable art forms and presenting it in a joyful way that ultimately brings us all together.

$90 and up, each evening show preceded by a cocktail reception

$35 student tickets (available in person only)

The first thing that often comes to mind with Christian Louboutin footwear is the shiny red lacquered soles atop stiletto heels. One of the other mental first impressions is the presentation of vibrant color and unabashed artistry that breaks rules and defies tradition.

For Louboutin loyalists as well as discoverists, the French designer has expanded his repertoire to include flats and sneakers that capture the imagination every bit as much as or more than his sky-high heels. Many of the sneakers feature metallic, glitter, spikes and an element of punk that have been part of his inventive expression since his youth.

After hitting the scene in 1991 with Princess Caroline of Monaco as his first customer, Louboutin is now preferred by clients such as Christina Aguilera, Joan Collins, Jennifer Lopez, Madonna, Tina Turner, Marion Cotillard, Nicki Minaj, Gwyneth Paltrow, Blake Lively and Sarah Jessica Parker. Oh, and author Danielle Steel owns 6,000 pairs.

It's time to add to your own collection.

The Louis Woman Strass Orlato Flat sneaker is an eye-catching model of Maison Christian Louboutin with a gold trimmed high top that supports and accentuates the ankle and calf. Positioned atop a white rubber sole with trademark white laces, this dynamic model is dressed up with manually attached strass in pink glitter tones with accents of blue and yellow. Its counter and facings in iridescent patent calfskin and discreetly stitched finishing make this exciting shoe a favorite. $2,995.

The timeless Fun Vieira Orlato Flat sneaker literally allows you to put your best foot forward with each step. This playful yet practical shoe bursts forth with pink patent calfskin leather (actually more of a coral) and is mounted on a white rubber sole. Sporty and sassy, the shoes are trimmed with white grosgrain edges that add to the refined brilliance. The uppers feature white laces, and each has a soft, white interior footbed to wear all day at the BNP Open or simply while taking care of the business of life. The Maison Christian Louboutin signature is affixed to the heel. $895.

The Spike Sock Woman's Flat sports shoe is Louboutin's reworked version of the iconic running sneaker. This all-over black version features an upper with technical neoprene fabric, highlighted with a black matte leather trim. Punk-inspired tone-on-tone spikes adorn the entire sneaker, which incorporates a sock liner in the Maison's signature red. This pair slips on for ease and requires no lacing or fastening. Also framed with red, the black tracked platform sole adds an edgy twist. $1,295.

The Fun Vieira Flat sneaker is bright and colorful and features an irresistibly bold design. This model is set on a white rubber sole and offers a harmonious blend of colors and textures including yellow, orange and black. The purple mirror-effect leather shocks the senses with instant energy. The shoe also features a silver grained calfskin leather toe which contrasts with the vamp and its multicolored motif. Eyelet tabs complete the look in scintillating style. $895.

The Vieira 2 Flat sneaker transcends every era and complements every woman, as a modern form with seductively elegant lines. This glamorous shoe is set on a white rubber sole and offers a balanced blend of textures. Covered in silver leather featuring the CL monogram across the vamp, the eyelet tabs and heel counters contrast with the mirror-effect toe and back, both blanketed in signature Louboutin silver spikes. The red soles are especially appealing and synchronize well with the bright white laces, underlining the dynamic overall statement. $975.

Even with the most seemingly subdued Louboutin shoe compositions, a closer look reveals an entire palette of creative frenzy. The Vieirissma Flat sneaker is an updated version of the 1980's inspired classic tennis shoe, featuring a thicker, ultra-light sole for enhanced technical excellence. The understated shape showcases the exquisite craftsmanship and tailored construction. This new season model is crafted in soft Bianco calfskin leather with patent Loubi highlights in vibrant red to coordinate with the sole. Signature spikes adorn the toe and the heel. $695.

Spring in the desert has become synonymous with the BNP Paribas Open, as well as the grandeur of vibrant colors and textures such as those seen in the blooming wildflowers blanketing hillside landscapes. There's no better way to honor this colorful energy than through a personal style expression of richly hued gemstones.

Diamonds, emeralds, rubies, and sapphires are a tribute to the splendor of precious gemstones that, over five decades, have been the trademark of Picchiotti, the Italian jewelry house founded in 1967 by Giuseppe Picchiotti, whose three adult children remain actively involved in the company.

A selection of Picchiotti earrings curated across several collections presents a natural complement to the personal statements of a cultured lifestyle, easily brought to life at the BNP Paribas and throughout the year.

Ideal for a cocktail at Spago overlooking Stadium Court 1, Sapphire and Diamond Earrings from the Masterpieces Collection display as delightful mini-starbursts with triple hearts as the focal point, set in 18K white gold. The theme of three is indeed the charm of these earrings, with three strands of round white diamonds resting at the ear and attaching to three longer strands of round diamonds (12.20 tcw.), graduating in size from top to bottom. Each strand connects to a delicate blue heart-shaped Sri Lankan blue sapphire (22.20 tcw.), with the center strand extending past the other two for dramatic effect. $193,800.

The stunning Emerald and Diamond Chandelier earrings from the Chandelier Collection will look good on you at the Mötet & Chandon Circle of Palms lounge. An example of the sheer artistry of Picchiotti design and craftsmanship, the symmetry of the design reinforces a sense of order along with a touch of Art Deco. Two gleaming cushion cut emeralds (1.55 tcw.), ringed by small round white diamonds, are joined to two rectangles of white diamonds comprised of emerald-cut diamonds (3.56 tcw.) surrounded by an outline of round white diamonds (1.71 tcw.). Each rectangle features an open center. All stones are set in 18K white gold. $44,250.

Perfect for relaxing in one of the Adirondack chairs outside of Stadium 1, the Yellow Diamond Fan Earrings from the Masterpieces Collection will keep you cool, showcasing a traditional design inspired by classical art and architecture. Two radiant cut fancy yellow diamonds (2.16 tcw.) capture the eye, defined by half circles of six round white diamonds. Eight diamond fan "pleats" emanate outward from each yellow diamond, in 18K white gold with a point at each end, and each sparkling pleat is lined with round white diamonds (6.21 tcw.) in three graduating sizes. $71,350.

Lunch at Nobu overlooking Stadium 2 calls for something classy such as the Pink and Blue Sapphire Drop Earrings from the Essentially Color Collection. Two delicate, rich blue sapphires (1.32 tcw.) encompassed in round white diamonds are each attached to a bridge of white diamonds displayed in a unique architectural column of round, emerald-cut and pear-shape (765 tcw.) stones, arranged together like puzzle pieces with geometric precision. Each earring is completed with a spectacular deep pink sapphire (7.39 tcw.), also bordered in small white diamonds and set in 18K white gold. $97,900.

For the special gathering in a luxury box suite, the Ruby and Diamond Drop Earrings from the Masterpieces Collection are an appropriate choice. In each earring, a jaw-dropping cluster of three vivid red pigeon's blood Burma pear-shaped rubies (7.93 tcw.) is concentrated at the lobe, adjacent to six pear shaped diamond accents. Each cluster extends into an exquisite strand of pear-shape, marquise-cut and round-cut white diamonds (6.54 tcw.) set in 18K white gold. Each earring is finished with a large pear-shaped ruby (7.57 tcw.), communicating a contemporary flair in understated elegance. $195,150.

When it's time for a Tennis Talk session at the Village Stage, the Diamond Bow Earrings from the Fiocco Collection (fiocco is Italian for "bow") will make you stand out, with a softness that makes your female power all the more impressive. Each earring is shaped into a multi-dimensional bow, giving the appearance of being soft and pliable like real fabric. Set in 18K white gold, the surface of each bow loop is covered in small white diamonds (9.29 tcw.) in varying sizes, lending a playful tone like diamond polka-dots. $33,600.

If you're planning to grab a refreshing beverage at the Sipsmith London Bar before heading into the finals match, consider donning the Sapphire and Diamond Earrings from the Picchiotti Classics Collection. On each earring, eight pear-shaped white diamonds (2.24 tcw.) are arranged in circular fashion, conjuring a floral image, with a round-cut white diamond in each center. Two diamonds link each floral round to a substantial blue sapphire (8.54 tcw.) positioned inside of a circle of round white diamonds (3.75 tcw.) and all set in 18K white gold. $211,550.
