Publishing Desert Golf Magazine is an enormous undertaking. With newsstand distribution in 48 states and magazines delivered to more than 400 golf courses, you can be sure that we continually work to improve our content and audience. We invite hotels throughout the southwest to contact us if they'd like to include Desert Golf Magazine as an in-room publication. We have offered this service for more than 11 years and currently provide more than 10,000 copies to hotels and resorts in four states, free!

This year looks to be a time of caution for those of us in the golf industry. Recreational activities are always the first to be affected by a lack-luster economy, and with the enormous costs of paper, printing, postage and distribution, the publishing business can be tough. Nevertheless, we at Desert Golf Magazine have much to be thankful for in this New Year, not the least of which is the valued relationships we have with our advertisers, subscribers and readers. We thank each and every one of you for your continued support.

As always we are excited to help promote this year's 20th Anniversary Edition of the Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational, and once again the stars shine to help Barbara Sinatra raise thousands of dollars for abused children as she continues the "no child will be turned away" mission she and her husband started. Legend Liza Minelli stars as this year's gala entertainer, and Mrs. Sinatra promises a great event with more than 50 celebrities from the sports and entertainment industry. We invite you to join us in supporting this great tournament and super cause.

It may be snowy and cold in some parts of the country, but this is prime season for golfing in the desert. Get out and play the more than 400 courses that make the southwest a golfing paradise. The truth is, there is simply no better golf available anywhere. And when you're not on the tees, we hope you enjoy this latest issue of Desert Golf Magazine, which is filled with engaging, informative articles about the people, courses, tournaments, products and services that make the golfing lifestyle so exceptional.

Sincerely,

Timothy J. Pade

- The MicroDome™ face insert gives you better contact for straighter rolling ball on impact. The dome textured face has more secure contact points touching the dimpled golf ball to send the ball rolling more accurately on its intended line at impact.
- Adjustable heel and toe weights adapt better to different putting green surfaces
- Perimeter back weight design gives you a bigger sweet spot and superior distance control on off-center hits by redistributing weight to the extreme outside areas of the ball striking area. The putter head has less of a chance to twist off line and is also able to minimize energy transfer loss due to imperfect striking of the golf ball.
- Center framing alignment guide frames the golf ball for more accurate aim.

TOM LEHMAN'S BRAND NEW GOLF COURSE IS JUST ONE OF THE REASONS PEOPLE ARE CHOOSING TO LIVE IN THIS DISTINCTIVE COMMUNITY

BY CHRISTINE LOOMIS • PHOTOS BY PETER WONG

THE NAME MEANS “ENCHANTED EARTH,”
A DESCRIPTION MEANT TO ENCOMPASS NOT JUST THE PHYSICAL BEAUTY OF THE
PLACE BUT ALSO THE SENSE OF DISCOVERY
AND JOY THAT RESIDENTS WILL BRING TO IT

Nowhere is that more true than in one of the very first elements of Encanterra to open, the private championship golf course designed by Ryder Cup U.S. team captain, Tom Lehman. Encanterra is Lehman's first solo design after a successful partnership with golf-course architect John Fought. Open only since January, the par-72 layout is already receiving recognition for its beauty and for its quality of play.

LEHMAN'S DESIGN
INCLUDES
TRADITIONALLY STYLED
BUNKERS AND GREEN COMPLEXES TO EMPHASIZE SHORT-GAME
STRATEGY. PLAYERS WILL HAVE TO CHOOSE THEIR OPTIONS WISELY AND CAREFULLY CONSIDER
SHOT SELECTION
THROUGHOUT THE COURSE IN ORDER TO

Lehman describes it as a course that will challenge players but one that they will never find to be unfair. "Good players will appreciate the nuances of strategy that this course presents," he says. "We've worked hard to create situations where players can choose to play a variety of shots. The course does not dictate which shots a player must play."

Lehman's design includes traditionally styled bunkers and green complexes to emphasize short-game strategy. Players will have to choose their options wisely and carefully consider shot selection throughout the course in order to score well here. Part of the genius of the design, however, is that it allows players to make different choices on different days, so that the course remains fresh and interesting no matter how many times a member tees up here.

Leading the golf team is Chris Schwartz, Encanterra's new head golf professional. Schwartz was previously head golf professional at Morgan Run Resort & Club in Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., and his experience includes a stint as assistant golf pro at Pinehurst Resort in the Village of Pinehurst, North Carolina. Schwartz has a deep respect for the history and traditions of the game, and he brings that sense of enduring tradition to Encanterra.

What sets this golf course squarely apart from typical new courses in Arizona these days is that it is a classic core-golf design, meaning its interaction with residences is minimal. Rather than opting for shoulder-to-shoulder premium lots lining the fairways, Shea Homes, developer of Encanterra, opted instead to provide a premium golf experience in a purer form. The layout features 140

Take, for example, the practice facility. It will be stocked daily with Titleist Pro VI practice balls. Members can also look forward to a full calendar of hosted weekly games and world-class competitive events, and the highest quality instruction for every level of player from beginner to advanced will be available.

When the club is completed it will include an expansive clubhouse with a fully equipped golf shop, as well as a luxury spa, state-of-the-art athletic club, indoor and outdoor pools, a casual café and elegant restaurant, indoor and outdoor event space, private acres of turf, 25 acres of water and views of the San Tan Mountains for an aesthetically pleasing design reminiscent of some of the southwest's most renowned golf clubs. The course is an example of the commitment to excellence that Encanterra embodies.

That commitment extends not just to the physical attributes of the club and golf course, but very much to the level of service, too. The Trilogy name is well known in the world of golf, and Shea Homes has long used it to denote a consistently high level of quality and service. What's different here is that Encanterra is not an age-restricted or active-adult community as is the case of most Trilogy clubs; it's an all-ages community with something for everyone, including service that's above-and-beyond expectations.

lounges, a workout center just for women and full concierge service. The athletic club will be professionally staffed and feature cardio, free weight and resistance training equipment; personal training and assistance; space for group classes; tennis facilities and locker rooms with both sauna and steam rooms.

The vision for Encanterra is that it will offer everything a high-end resort would offer, with one big difference: this isn't just a temporary vacation experience. Day in and day out residents of Encanterra will enjoy all of the amenities and services one expects at a world-class resort—without ever having to leave home,

The golf course is already open, but February is the month for Encanterra's community "unveiling," when potential residents and members can see firsthand the extent of the amenities and have a chance to go through models that bring floor plans and options to life. There are three distinct “collections” of homes to choose from, and 14 floor plans ranging from nearly 1,500 square feet to more than 3,700 square feet. All of the homes have an emphasis on visually engaging architecture and living and entertaining spaces that are functional, versatile and innovative.

While social and golf memberships are reserved for residents of Encanterra, non-residents have membership options, too—but they’re limited, so if these are of interest to you now is the time to look into them. For more information about the golf club and the community, log onto encanterra.com or call 800.685.6494

FRANK SINATRA
COUNTRYWIDE CELEBRITY INVITATIONAL

BY FRANÇOISE RHODES

THREE DAYS AND NIGHTS OF EXCITEMENT, FUN, CELEBRITIES AND GOLF—ALL FOR A WORTHY CAUSE

In a world where stardom is fleeting, Barbara Sinatra can rest assured that Frank Sinatra's legacy will live on. The words "hip" and "cool" are still used in reference to ol' blue eyes, and though the man has passed on, his extraordinary generosity continues to aid children in need.

February 21-24 celebrities will once again converge on the desert in support of the Barbara Sinatra Children's Center at Eisenhower Medical Center in Rancho Mirage, Calif. Opened in 1986, the non-profit remains dedicated to its mission: to counsel physically, sexually and emotionally abused children and to focus on prevention, community education and breaking the cycle of abuse.

Frank's motto from day one was, "No child will be turned away regardless of a family's ability to pay." In order to keep Frank's word, the Sinatras knew that funds had to be raised on an annual basis. In 1988, Frank turned his annual "party in the desert," during which his famous assortment of friends gathered for golf and good times, into a fundraiser. No one realized then that Frank and his friends were launching one of the most successful fundraisers of its kind, or that 20 years later the words "sold out" would still be used.

The Frank Sinatra Countrywide Celebrity Invitational is a celebrity/amateur golf tournament played on two consecutive days, February 22 and 23 this year, at Indian Wells Country Club in Indian Wells. Paired with a different celebrity each day, amateurs participating in the event contribute $10,000 for the Platinum Golfer tournament package or $5,000 for the Gold Golfer package.

Both packages include one golf spot, a tournament gift bag and admission tickets for the evening events. Platinum Golfers are also invited to the one-of-a-kind Post-Gala Nightcap Party, a star-studded celebrities and the gallery. Each of the 50-plus celebrities participating understands the priority given to fan interaction and welcomes autograph requests and photography on the course and during the parties.

Joining hostess Barbara Sinatra this year will be actor Dick Van Dyke as the event's honorary co-host. The celebrity field event are priced at $20 and are good for both days. Several food areas are open to the public, including the Indian Wells Country Club dining room, patio and quick-stop stands on the golf course. Gallery parking is available at the Indian Wells Tennis Garden for a $5 per car donation; shuttles will run to and from the country club.

evening of impromptu comedy and song that goes well past midnight and is held at a different location each year. Suspense builds until the top-secret party location is finally revealed as the limos begin to roll.

What separates this charity event from others is the extent of interaction between includes event emcee and comedian Tom Dressen as well as actors Joe Mantegna, Cheech Marin, Kevin Sorbo and Dan Lauria. Sports stars include Steve Garvey and Doug DeCines, and from the world of song, Smokey Robinson and Berry Gordy.

Spectator badges for this fan-friendly

The Renaissance Esmeralda Resort in Indian Wells once again serves as tournament headquarters and host venue for the social events—three nights of parties that include the Concerto Karaoke & Pasta Alla Sinatra pairings party on Thursday, Frank's Favorites Buffet and entertainment on Friday and the Saturday night-of-nights black-tie gala with headliner Liza Minnelli.

In keeping with past galas, a limited number of seats are open to the public. Individual Gala tickets, including cocktails, dinner and the concert, are available for $1,000 per person; tables of 10 are $10,000.

Non-golfers attending the event are in for a treat as well, beginning with the popular annual fashion show and luncheon on February 22 at the Renaissance Esmeralda Resort. Presented by Chantelle, the fashion show will feature designs by Bill Blass, Kevin Hall, Ivonne De La Vega and Tosca Couture by Henry Schickering. More than 800 fashion aficionados attend each year. Reservations are $150 per person and the public is invited.

On Sunday morning at 11:30 a.m. Barbara Sinatra hosts one final event, the Open House Get-A-Way and Continental Buffet at the Barbara Sinatra Children's Center. It's here, as three days of excitement and fun draw to a close, that celebrities, players and guests are reminded of how fragile life is and how important their role is in continuing the critical work of the center. The humanitarian efforts begun 20 years ago by Frank and Barbara Sinatra—with a little help from their friends—continue to make a difference in the desert community.

SPOTLIGHT | ACTOR JOE MANTEGNA

JOE MANTEGNA

SERIOUS ACTOR

BY FRANÇOISE RHODES

THE STARS ARE IN ALIGNMENT FOR ITALIAN-AMERICAN ACTOR JOE MANTEGNA. COMING OFF OF THE 2007 HIT TELEVISION MINI-SERIES, THE STARTER WIFE, MANTEGNA FOLLOWED ONE SUCCESS WITH ANOTHER BY JOINING THE CAST OF AWARD-WINNING DRAMA CRIMINAL MINDS

An accomplished actor who has portrayed an eclectic series of characters on stage, film and television, Mantegna's heritage, regardless of the character, is always on display with his handsome Italian good looks. Embracing his heritage proudly, Mantegna received a lifetime achievement award in 2004 at the Los Angeles Italian Film Festival. In case you're wondering, his favorite food is Italian beef, and mention the name Frank Sinatra and Mantegna immediately responds with a Sinatra tale.

"Oh my god, Sinatra," Mantegna remembers saying. "I then said, 'Tom look, I haven't played in 25 years, but if you can guarantee that I will see Frank Sinatra perform, and meet him, I'm there.'" Dreesen, a close friend of the Sinatra family assured Mantegna that it would happen.

Focused on meeting Sinatra and not on playing golf, Mantegna borrowed golf shoes, clubs and a bag from various friends. "I'm thinking that I'll only play one day, so I take all my borrowed stuff,

MANTEGNA SHARING A CIGAR SMOKE WITH HIS DEAR FRIEND PETER FALK

Born and raised in Chicago, Mantegna dabbled in golf as a child, caddying for his father and eventually playing golf with him at public courses. After his father's passing when Mantegna was in his early twenties, the actor took a break from the sport—for 25 years. When he finally picked up the clubs again, it was for a good cause: the Annual Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational.

"I was in Chicago making the film Baby's Day Out and I went to a charity fundraiser where (comedian) Tom Dreesen was emcee. Tom came up and asked me if I played golf; I told him I hadn't played in 25 years." Dreesen suggested that Mantegna participate in the Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational, which he was going to be emceeing, and said he would make sure that Mantegna would meet Sinatra and see him perform.

bring my wife and kids and go down to Palm Springs to relax and have some fun," he recalls.

"I ended up playing both days, and on the second day rotated into a team that was in second place. I knew we played well and thought maybe we placed. As I'm in my hotel room getting ready for the evening gala, I get a call saying our team won and to come down for pictures with Mr. Sinatra."

Shocked, Mantegna hurried to the ballroom. As he was being ushered down a hallway for his celebrity photo op with Sinatra, who does he see held back by security guards but Tom Dreesen. To this day these two good friends tell a different tale. "No one tells it better than Tom," says Mantegna with a laugh, "we still talk and laugh about that tournament."

MANTEGNA HAVING LUNCH WITH JERRY LEWIS

As a participant in numerous charity tournaments each year, Mantegna has priorities. "There is one tournament I regularly host, it's for a group called HOME (Home Ownership Made Easy). My oldest daughter is autistic and I'm also always involved with groups that deal with autism."

Toluca Lake, Calif., is home for Mantegna, his wife and two daughters, but Mantegna considers visiting the desert a treat. "I've stayed at different places in the desert and have played golf at different places and liked them all. I love La Quinta Resort; I stayed there when I was filming Bugsy. I think because my first time in the desert was for the Sinatra tournament, the desert has always seemed magical to me."

Mantegna played in the 2007 LG Skins Game Pro-Am, and he'll be back in the desert for the 20th Annual Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational this year. "I call myself a Monday golfer where nobody gets hurt," he quips.

Not taking the game too seriously is how the actor enjoys himself on the course.

MANTEGNA DOING HIS VOICE WORK OF FAT TONY FOR THE SIMPSONS

Mantegna has since been an annual participant in the Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational, winning for a second time as well as being offered the distinguished honor of co-hosting the event alongside Barbara Sinatra. It was through that first wonderful experience at the tournament that Mantegna also discovered an incredible way for him to help raise money for charities. "My index is about a 23, and I only play in charity events," he says.

MANTEGNA WITH BARBARA SINATRA AT THE FRANK SINATRA CELEBRITY TOURNAMENT

MANTEGNA WITH JOINT CHIEFS AT THE 2007 NATIONAL MEMORIAL DAY CONCERT IN WASHINGTON DC WHICH, HE HAS CO-HOSTED FOR SIX YEARS

"To me golf is a social event; I enjoy the social part more than anything. I know I can improve if I really want to, but I like where I am and would rather play worse than my handicap. I don't need the pressure of being a good player."

Ask this non-serious golfer who would make up his ultimate foursome and with a laugh he replies, "Tiger Woods just because why not? And Annika Sorenstam. This way I would have the best male and female golfer in my group. Then Bill Clinton; I think his golf game is more on my level and I could talk to him about what it's like to be president."

When not working or spending time with his family, Mantegna helps his wife, Arlene with her successful restaurant, Taste Chicago, in Burbank, Calif. "It's not a fancy restaurant," Mantegna says. "It's all my wife's recipes. We use paper plates and plastic utensils, the restaurant has a home-cooking feel and everyone in the area goes there."

Life for Mantegna is "good." When asked to describe it in one sentence, he pauses then mentions a Lance Armstrong mantra: "Every day is a good day, and some days are great."

GEARING UP FOR THE 2008
KRAFT NABISCO
CHAMPIONSHIP

THEY'LL BE MAKING WAVES AGAIN AT THE
LPGA'S FIRST MAJOR TOURNAMENT OF THE YEAR

BY STEVE TRIVETT • PHOTOS BY [unreadable]

THEY ARE CALLED THE “LADIES OF THE LAKE.” THEY ARE ALSO CALLED THE CHAMPIONS. IT’S A TRADITION ON THE LPGA TOUR UNLIKE ANY OTHER, AND IT STARTED WHEN AMY ALCOTT PLUNGED INTO POPPIE’S POND FOLLOWING HER WIN AT THE KRAFT NABISCO CHAMPIONSHIP—IT WAS CALLED THE KRAFT NABISCO DINAH SHORE BACK THEN. SINCE THAT DAY, EACH WINNER OF THE LPGA’S FIRST MAJOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE SEASON HAS GOTTEN AT LEAST HER FEET WET

Last year, Morgan Pressel had to wait awhile before taking the plunge. Pressel started the final round of the 2007 Kraft Nabisco trailing—by a bunch. After signing for her final round 69 (she had improved each day of the tournament, previously carding rounds of 74-72-70), the 18-year-old Pressel couldn’t do anything but watch and wait.

The wait was worth it as Catriona Matthew, Brittany Lincicome and especially Suzann Pettersen failed to climb past her on the leaderboard sitting behind the island green of the 18th hole on the Dinah Shore Tournament Course of Mission Hills Country Club. And when Pressel finally hit the water, she had company. She was joined in the swim fest by caddie Jon Yarborough and grandmother Evelyn Krickstein. Pressel had been raised by her grandparents after the death of her mother when Pressel was 14.

“I know that my mother is always with me,” Pressel said after becoming the youngest player in LPGA history to win a major championship. “And I’m sure she is proud of me.”

I would like to thank my grandparents for everything they have done for me and for all of their support and their love. I’m sure they are just as happy for me as I am.”

Pressel will return to defend her title when the 2008 edition of the tournament is held April 3-6 at Mission Hills in Rancho Mirage, Calif. She’ll be ready for another chance to hit the water, but she’ll also have plenty of company in the fight to wear the famous white bathrobe that goes to the winner.

Player of the Year and No. 1-ranked Lorena Ochoa and three-time Kraft Nabisco champion Annika Sorenstam will be in the field, along with former champion Karrie Webb and defending U.S. Open champion Cristie Kerr. Pettersen, who finished one shot behind Pressel last year but then went on a tear the rest of the 2007 season, is also expected to join the battle for the first-place check of $300,000—and the right to become a “Lady of the Lake.”

IT COUNTS THE PGA AMONG ITS FANS AND THE DRAMATIC BEAUTY OF THE TORTOLITA MOUNTAINS AND SONORAN DESERT AMONG ITS AMENITIES

BY BRIAN BUJDOS

WHEN WEATHER AND TOPOGRAPHY COME TOGETHER AS THEY DO IN ARIZONA, IT MAKES SENSE THAT GOLF BECOMES MORE THAN JUST 18 HOLES ON ANY GIVEN SUNDAY. AT LEAST A COUPLE OF DEVELOPERS HAVE CAPITALIZED ON THIS PHENOMENON

However, when “exceptional” becomes the norm in describing the lifestyle and amenities at numerous golf communities throughout the Southwest, “exceptional” alone fails to make the cut. The trick, then, is to be different.

The Gallery Golf Club at Dove Mountain, located about 30 minutes north of Tucson International Airport, hangs its hat on a sublime desert ambiance where peacefulness and seclusion reign supreme. At the same time, the national spotlight, fascinatingly, shines squarely on the club once a year.

The World Golf Championships-Accenture Match Play tournament, an official PGA Tour event, found a home at The Gallery in 2007, bringing thousands of fans to the club and attracting the attention of millions of TV viewers. Tiger Woods and 63 of the top-rated golfers in the world participate in this tournament.

Although only The Gallery’s residents and members typically enjoy the stunning real estate and amenities at the property, the club welcomes the brief window of major exposure it will receive each February. Club officials, along with the Conquistadors, the Tucson civic group that hosts the tournament, understand that whether the interest in The Gallery emanates from the PGA Tour or prospective club members, the reasons are the same.

“Our amenities almost speak for themselves,” says Phil Satterfield, CCM, new general manager of the club, “Of course, we welcome the PGA into our community. We are excited about the national exposure the tournament brings to Tucson, Marana and The Gallery.”

The Gallery Golf Club is private with a limited number of full golf memberships remaining. Club members have two championship courses to choose from, both of them tucked into the rolling canyons of the alluring Tortolita Mountains.

The North Course, designed by John Fought and Arizona resident Tom Lehman, was ranked the “No. 1 Course in Southwest Arizona” by Golf Digest and was acknowledged as one of Golfweek's "Top 100 Modern Courses." Fought also designed the South Course, which opened five years after the North Course, in 2003, and is characterized by a links-style topography. Both courses also are ranked by Golfweek in its current "Top 100 Residential Communities."

Approximately 200 residences are situated around each of the two courses. Build-out is expected to be complete in 2010 with the addition of the final two subdivisions.

Prospective members need not own property at Dove Mountain to join the Gallery Golf Club. However, considering amenities such as a 28,000-square-foot, award-winning clubhouse with six fireplaces, exquisite locker rooms and 100 pieces of fine art, it makes sense that most residents are members.

The community also boasts The Gallery Sports Club, a 12,000-square-foot multi-purpose facility complete with four tennis courts, swimming pool, certified personal trainers, massage therapists and more. Miles of hiking, biking and equestrian trails also meander through the area.

"We don't sell the properties as much as the lifestyle," says Vince Smedes, manager of property sales. "When you arrive, you feel like you're in your own little world. Gated residential clusters of homes are interspersed among two world-class golf courses nestled in the Sonoran Desert."

The properties do not line the fairways as they often do at conventional courses, Smedes points out, and The Gallery owner/developer took care to protect the natural beauty of the surrounding desert while developing the real estate.

One way to experience the inspiring scenery at the club is through a unique trial membership program that has been a great success. The program allows prospective members to actually experience the community and lifestyle in a way that a mere community tour and round of golf do not. The trial period lasts an entire year, and nearly half of the deposit is refundable should a prospective member decide to go another route.

"It's a great way for people to have the 'Gallery Experience' before being totally committed to an initiation deposit," Satterfield says. "Trial Members can become both social and active in our sports club and golf facilities. This was the sensible thing to offer because people have more time to make an educated decision and can become accustomed to the club environment. We want our members to become connected to our club, to make friends and find golfing buddies."

The Gallery Golf Club inherently draws attention to itself due to the area's incredible panoramas and natural beauty.

Now the PGA Tour/WGC has taken notice, a welcome indication of the level of quality amenities available to members. The club welcomes you to visit, either during the tournament or for an arranged appointment.

WGC-ACCENTURE MATCH PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP

IN CASE YOU NEED A LITTLE LESSON ON HOW MATCH PLAY WORKS, WE'VE ASKED OUR RESIDENT TOURNAMENT EXPERT TO HELP YOU OUT

Okay kids, it's time for class. The subject today is Match Play 101. To get us started, here is a little test: Henrik Stenson is?

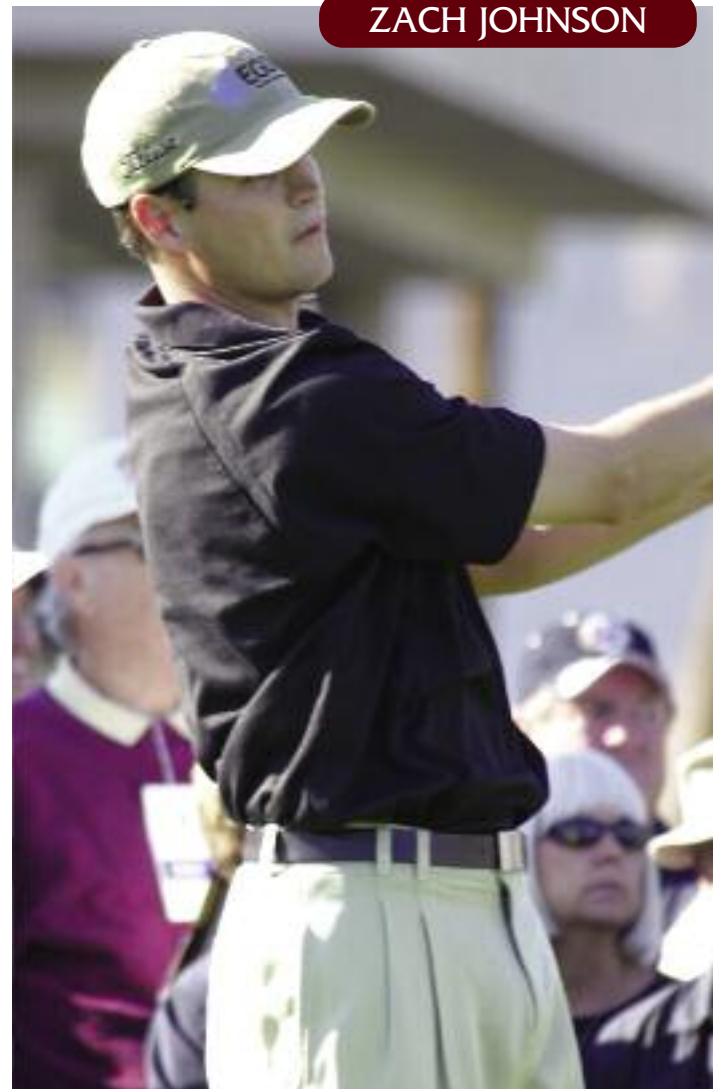

- A. From Sweden
- B. A former Ryder Cup hero for the European team
- C. A five-time winner on the European Tour
- D. A player who was driving the ball so badly he walked off the course during the 2001 Irish Open.
- E. The defending champion of the WGC-Accenture Match Play Championship
- F. All of the above

If you picked F, go to the head of the class. If you were forced to say "Who is Henrik Stenson?" go sit in the corner.

The sixth edition of the WGC-Accenture Match Play Championship will be played Feb. 20-24 on the John Fought-designed Gallery at Dove Mountain, an out-and-back par-72, 7,351-yard course that twists and turns its way through the desert in Marana, Ariz.

Now, here is the important part. There are three World Golf Championships played every year. We've already learned that Stenson won one of them last year. For extra credit, name the winner of the other two 2007 WGC events: the CA

Championship played at the Doral and the Bridgestone Invitational played at Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio.

If you said Tiger Woods you are right on both counts.

So why did Woods, perhaps the most dominate figure the world of golf has ever seen, whip the field in the other two WGC events but not even make it past the third round at Dove Mountain last year?

Simple. It's called match play. It's the way golf was originally meant to be played—man on man, one match at a time. You win a hole you go 1-up. If you are more ahead than there are holes remaining in the match, you win. You can play badly and win. You can play well and lose.

THE GALLERY GOLF CLUB

Last year Stenson defeated Zach Johnson, K.J. Choi, Aaron Baddeley, Nick O'Hern (the player who defeated Woods in the third round) and Trevor Immelman to move into the 36-hole final against Geoff Ogilvy. You remember Ogilvy; he's the guy who won the 2006 U.S. Open when players with better credentials like Phil Mickelson, Colin Montgomerie and Jim Furyk couldn't handle the 18th hole at Winged Foot on Open Sunday.

Ogilvy, who won the WGC-Accenture Match Play Championship in 2006 at California's La Costa Resort before winning his U.S. Open, got to the finals by defeating Steve Stricker, Jose Maria Olazabal, Niclas Fasth, Paul Casey and Chad Campbell. And before Stenson and Ogilvy were finished on Sunday, both were totally spent. Stenson won the final match, 2 and 1, but that was hardly the whole story.

In getting to the winner's circle and collecting the first-place check of $1.35 million, Stenson played 120 holes in five days. Ogilvy, who banked $800,000, played 114. And had not Ogilvy's putter gone south over the back nine of the afternoon round, they might be playing still. Neither player ever held more than a 2-up lead and only eight of the first 18 holes were halved.

"You just had to dig deep," said Stenson, who even played one shot off a cart path in the finals. He could have gotten relief, but he would have had to take a drop behind a bush in the desert. "You couldn't let yourself give up," he said at the end of play. "But right now, I don't know what's up and down or back and forth."

It isn't a tournament for the faint of heart. In fact, it's an event for the young and strong. Of the 16 players who advanced to the third round, 12 were younger than 32. Of the eight players in the quarterfinals, six were 32 or younger. And, as the finals proved, it doesn't hurt to have been born outside the United States either.

Of the 64 players in the starting field—the tournament is only open to the top 64 on the World Golf Rankings—23 were from the states while the other 41 came from all corners of the globe. In total, 19 different countries were represented in the field. And when the desert sand finally settled in the shadows of the Tortolita Mountains, a Swede was the last man standing. Ogilvy had won 11 straight matches going into the final shootout against Stenson, but he couldn't make it an even dozen.

STEVE STRICKER

"In match play it makes you play one hole at a time," he said. "You can't stress about things that have gone past."

And if there is a simple lesson to be learned about match play, it's that. It's here and it's now. Class dismissed.

Terravita

IT'S A COMMUNITY, IT'S A LIFESTYLE, IT'S A GOLF CLUB—
AND AN EXCEPTIONAL PLACE TO CALL HOME

BY CHRISTINE LOOMIS

“HARMONY OF LAND AND LIFE” IS NOT JUST A CATCH PHRASE TO PROMOTE TERRAVITA, A RESORT-STYLE COMMUNITY ON 823 ACRES NORTH OF SCOTTSDALE; IT’S REALITY. WITH THE SONORAN DESERT AS BACKDROP, TERRAVITA’S DEVELOPERS SOUGHT TO CREATE A PLACE WHERE RESIDENTS WOULD HAVE THE BEST OF ALL WORLDS—AN EXQUISITE NATURAL SETTING AND AN ELEGANT COMMUNITY WITH A WEALTH OF AMENITIES AND SERVICES

The result is a place where inviting neighborhoods and abundant opportunities for social interaction support connections between families and help foster meaningful friendships. Terravita is also a place where a vibrant, active lifestyle comes naturally as an integral part of day-to-day life. The guard-gated community has miles of nature trails as well as paved paths for biking, roller blading, walking and jogging, and extensive fitness and recreational facilities not the least of which is a championship golf course and club.

One of the community’s unique attributes is its layout—23 distinct neighborhoods where homes of similar size and style are grouped together. Four series of homes range in size from 1,500 to 3,800 square feet. More than 400 of the homes have views of the golf course; others look out on the Black Mountains or the iconic ancient Boulders or both.

Terravita was designed to be a thriving community that feels very much like a private oasis set apart in the desert, yet one that has easy access to all that greater Phoenix and Scottsdale offer. Much of what makes life good, however, is inside Terravita.

The Sunset Dining Room and The Grille both offer creative fare served in indoor and outdoor areas, and there’s a snack bar as well as the Poolside Grille for quick and casual options. Themed parties and events, including fashion shows and neighborhood block parties, bring residents together year-round, and the community center is the gathering spot for a rich variety of clubs and workshops, from writing and Spanish classes to clubs for those interested in bridge, Mah Jong, photography, quilting, reading or computers.

The Terravita Country Club not only offers a wealth of amenities, it offers considerable value. Membership in the country club is included in every home purchase in Terravita, and the facilities are for residents only and their guests. The Country Club includes access a Health and Fitness Center, swimming pool, tennis facilities and the Desert Pavilion Community Center.

At the Health and Fitness Center a professional staff works to ensure that community members get the most out of what’s offered. There’s a full array of top-quality equipment—stair climbers, treadmills, rowing machines and free weights among the options—and there are all levels of classes, too, including aerobics, yoga and Pilates. If all of the workouts make you a little sore, massage services are available, too.

For those who play tennis there are also extensive facilities, including six courts—one of them a stadium-style court—and numerous levels for team play and other activities. Members can choose from private lessons and clinics, mixers, matches, singles, doubles and Junior Tennis programs.

At the center of this vibrant community is Terravita Golf Club, an amenity that's separate from the country club. The golf club is now accepting a limited number of non-resident golf memberships. The 18-hole, championship course, designed by Billy Casper and Greg Nash, has consistently been ranked among the top private golf courses in the state. Its six sets of tees and undulating greens with a multitude of hole locations challenge players of all levels, and the layout, with spectacular views of Black Mountain and the Boulders (especially on No. 9 and No. 18), both respects and celebrates the desert environment of which it is a part.

"It's a course that plays differently almost every time you tee it up," says Steve Mallory, Director of Golf. But Terravita's strengths go beyond the exceptional golf course.

"One of the things that separates Terravita Golf Club from others," says Mallory, "is the strength of its player associations and the way programs are set up to foster camaraderie on and off the course." Mallory points out that men's day on Wednesdays usually sees a field of 60 to 100 players, while the Thursday ladies' day includes both 18- and nine-hole associations. "A shotgun start on both days means players start and finish at the same time. With time before and after play for the whole group to socialize, new members quickly get to know other members and feel part of the community."

The bottom line is that Terravita is an exceptional community where environment and lifestyle are two parts of the same experience—a rich, full experience summed up perfectly in the words, "harmony of land and life."

Celebrity Golf Classic

OFF-THE-CHARTS DESERT FUNDRAISER
SUPPORTS PREMIER THEATRE COMPANY

BY LISA PERRY

A CHICAGO ENSEMBLE THEATRE COMPANY HOLDS ITS ANNUAL GOLF-CENTERED FUNDRAISER IN THE CALIFORNIA DESERT. IMPROBABLE? NOT REALLY. FILM AND TELEVISION STAR GARY SINISE IS A CO-FOUNDER OF STEPPENWOLF THEATRE COMPANY AND AN ARDENT GOLF DEVOTEE. JUDITH KAUFMAN, STEPPENWOLF'S DIRECTOR OF SPECIAL EVENTS, SAYS, "GARY WAS EAGER FOR US TO DEVELOP A GOLF CLASSIC TO RAISE SIGNIFICANT FUNDS FOR THE THEATRE. CELEBRITIES PARTICIPATE AND IT'S THE BEST OPPORTUNITY CLOSE TO WHERE THEY LIVE." SPEAKING FROM THE WINDY CITY DURING A COLD SPELL, SHE ADDS, "AND THE WEATHER IS USUALLY FABULOUS"

The fifth version of the Steppenwolf Theatre Company Annual Celebrity Golf Classic is scheduled March 13-16 with a number of events at exceptional locations in and around Indian Wells, Calif. Sinise concedes that it doesn't seem like the most natural fit—a Chicago-based theatre company heading to the desert for a golf tournament.

"But I think we've proven that we've tapped into a formula that works for us," he says. "Every year the event gets bigger and better, and with the current limitations on arts funding that organizations like Steppenwolf are faced with, we couldn't be more pleased with the outcome. We have a great time, and we raise the money we need."

EDRA BLIXSETH AND CONGRESSWOMAN MARY BONO

Since 1976, Steppenwolf has evolved into a revered, top-echelon ensemble theatre that furthers the arts with educational programs and performances of challenging material in an intimate theater space. Over the past four years, the desert fundraiser has garnered more than $1 million to support Steppenwolf's artists and extensive community outreach efforts.

At first glance, the Golf Classic's event agenda looks like a multi-day celebration with popular tried-and-true activities. But on closer examination, the rarified blend of people and places makes the conclave a must-attend. Golf is played at two of the desert's hottest tickets in town: the new celebrity course at Indian Wells Golf Resort and invitation-only Porcupine Creek, Edra Blixseth's private course on the grounds of her Rancho Mirage estate. There's the expected hole-in-one automobile prize, but in this case it's a Bentley.

FILM AND TELEVISION STAR GARY SINISE, CO-FOUNDER OF STEPPENWOLF THEATRE COMPANY

"Our celebrities love to play the tournament," says Kaufman. "They are all in the entertainment industry and Steppenwolf Theatre Company holds a special place in their hearts. It also gives avid golfers a chance to support the theatre. We offer exclusive golf opportunities with celebrities during the weekend, punctuated with members of the company who lead a discussion at the luncheons for non-golfers. It's as magical as the theatre, no question."

Barring schedule conflicts, those who are expected to participate this year include entertainers Ray Romano, Gregory Harrison, Peter Gallagher, Tom Dreesen and Richard Kind.

"Everybody wants to support the theatre because the theatre gives such a great experience," says Kaufman.

For the first time, the post-tournament cocktail reception and awards dinner is being held at Blixseth's mansion. The well-known philanthropist attended the third Classic and was so enamored that last year she offered up her private golf course for the cause and this year additionally donated her expansive residence as site of the closing gala. There, look for Sinise to take the stage, bass guitar thumping, as he performs with his own Lt. Dan Band (named for Sinise's role in Forrest Gump). Live-auction "Golfer's Paradise" remains a perennial crowd favorite, and includes unique bid items such as golf and a day on the set with Sinise. Those who don't play in the tournament can participate throughout the weekend in a celebrity-led "Cocktails & Conversation" session, plus two luncheon discussions with various actors, as well as a spirited poker tournament. Participants stay at the Renaissance Esmeralda Resort and Spa, site of a lavish welcome reception and the non-golfevents.

In addition to Sinise and Blixseth, other tournament co-hosts include Congresswoman Mary Bono and athlete-turned-actor Jack Scalia. "We have really made our presence in the desert known with the phenomenal support of our co-hosts," says Kaufman. "The fact that people of stature have graced this event and have the opportunity to play on Edra's exclusive golf course has enabled this event to really be positioned as one of the most prestigious in the country and it's a dream come true for us. Everybody is so appreciative and nothing is taken for granted. Golfers say that playing at Porcupine Creek is the most magical day they've ever participated in and they play all over the world."

Steppenwolf Theatre Company transcends Chicago borders. Kaufman says, "Steppenwolf is bi-coastal with a new play on Broadway that is being billed as the most exciting New York has seen in a long time, "August: Osage County." We now have a featured presence on the East and West coasts, and are at home in Chicago."

Members of Steppenwolf's ensemble include John Malkovich, Joan Allen, Laurie Metcalf and John Mahoney, along with Sinise. "There is no question that Gary Sinise's leadership and enthusiasm for the event is pivotal for its success. I can't say how appreciative we are, not only to people like Edra Blixseth, but to new friends we are making in the desert."

Tickets are available for the entire event, as well as for individual activities. For more information, call Kaufman at 312.335.0808 or visit Steppenwolf.org.

LUMPY'S DISCOUNT GOLF STORES

FULL-SWING SIMULATORS ENHANCE CLUB SELECTION,
ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT AIDS AUTISM

BY LISA PERRY • PHOTOS BY PAT LASSY

WHEN RON CORTI PURCHASED LUMPY'S IN 1983 AS A PALM SPRINGS FACTORY-OUTLET GOLF STORE, HE WASN'T A GOLFER YET IT SEEMED LIKE A GOOD BUSINESS DECISION AT THE TIME

"He and mom were professional shoppers with a sixth sense about how to run a business and how to treat people," says son Randy, who recently assumed ownership after years working in the family business. "The desert was, back then, even more of a retirement community than it is now. Initially [my father] was going to work for six months and then close for the summer like most businesses did then. But he saw more opportunity than that."

Not only did the family guide Lumpy's into a full-service retail golf venue in Cathedral City, Calif., they built on their success, adding a 12,000-square-foot superstore in La Quinta and a third location in Fort Myers, Fla. Somewhere in the process they also morphed from non-golfers into players. Even so, devoting time and energy to the business continues to be the first priority. "We are able to golf some, but spend more time working," says Corti.

With the multitude of retail golf outlets available, what makes Lumpy's stand out? "The simulators and the training of our staff are how we are different," says Corti. "If you are considering new clubs, there is no better way to [to make a decision] than inside the full-swing simulators. You can compare one club to another in order to determine which is the best for your swing and your game."

Each Southern California location features two of the simulators, which Corti calls the most accurate in the golf industry. They are also the most expensive.

"It's the technology, he says. "The ball passes through two infrared fields instead of microwave or radio waves. It's simple and effective. Hit balls with a variety of new clubs. We'll be there to help. When you're done, the simulator data will show you which clubs will improve your game the most."

Every Lumpy's store also includes a full-service repair center, club rentals and personalized service that starts with a detailed discussion of each customer's game. With that information, employees are able to recommend the gear that is best suited for would-be buyers. "Our staff is trained to know the products," says Corti. "With as fast as new products are introduced these days that's a big benefit. Every employee completes more than 50 hours of training each year just on technology."

The stores host a number of onsite manufacturer-specific equipment demos throughout the season, each one a hands-on, try-and-buy opportunity. Which products and trends are big in 2008? "GPS or laser range-finders are like having a 15th club in the bag. Everybody is on board," Corti says. "And 'geometry' is the buzzword for drivers—using the shape of the clubhead to control ball flight. Playing to your potential is important. We have also committed more retail space in our stores to apparel. Now, with all the technical advantages there, that is part of the golfs experience as well."

The Corti family gives back to the community with proceeds from Lumpy's Scramble for Autism. The fifth annual tournament is set for April 25 at Trilogy Golf Club at La Quinta, and benefits a cause close the family's heart. "Last year we raised $80,000 for autism camps, therapies and other resources for local families dealing with the autism epidemic," says Corti. "Today, one in 150 kids is diagnosed on the autism spectrum. Lumpy's is blessed with a lot of great customers who care."

Although space to play in the tournament is limited and generally sells out, interested parties can contact the store to find out about other opportunities to participate. With catered lunch and dinner plus automobiles offered as hole-in-one prizes, Corti says, "It's fun stuff."

THE TOUR EDGE XCG DRIVER

PERFORMANCE TO THE MAX—AND IT LOOKS AND FEELS GOOD, TOO

BY CHRISTINE LOOMIS

What do you get when you combine magnesium, titanium and hyper steel?

Arguably the most powerful driver on the market, a driver that excels in performance and distance. But the Tour Edge Exotics XCG driver is as remarkable for its technology as for its results.

"The XCG was developed for outright performance. It uses the same titanium cupped-face technology that took the golf world by storm and made the Exotics fairway wood famous," says Jay Hubbard, vice president of Tour Edge Golf. "Until now, it was impossible to combine a titanium cupped face to a steel body and create a properly weighted 460cc-sized driver. Tour Edge solved this problem with magnesium.

"Launch monitors don't lie. When we put the XCG on our launch monitor the results were exceptional. The variable thickness of the titanium cupped face produces greater ball speed and a hotter rebound for longer drives."

The launch monitor results Hubbard is talking about include not only knock-your-socks-off blazing-fast ball speed but super low spin rates.

Also remarkable, Tour Edge designers managed to blend the three dissimilar metals together with no-weld technology. Instead, the club's titanium face, magnesium crown and hyper-steel body feature interlocking channels that are pressed together and combo bonded for permanent bonding without welding. This revolutionary process produces a lower center of gravity and pure energy transfer that's simply not possible in a traditional welded club.

Magnesium is at the heart of XCG's super performance. The ultra-lightweight magnesium crown and hosel—a first in the industry—creates an extreme deep center of gravity position and high moment of inertia (MOI), and that translates to longer and straighter drives. Two times lighter than your typical titanium crown, the XCG's magnesium crown moves more weight to the heavy steel sole, thus creating less spin and that extremely high MOI.

XCG's use of magnesium is revolutionary enough in its own right to get players and industry professionals talking, but it's the combination of elements working synergistically that creates a truly remarkable golf club, one that will perform at a consistently high level over time.

That essential combination includes the shaft. When you match XCG's unique club head with a Tour Edge Graphite Design X-Quad ultra-light shaft, you get additional power and stability at impact for greater control and accuracy.

So much for the technology and performance results. A great golf club, however, not only has to perform, it has to feel good, and the XCG delivers in that arena, too. Because of magnesium's "dampening characteristics" and flexibility, the crown and neck of this club absorb more of the shock on contact, which translates to a smooth, powerful feeling at impact. The company claims, "it's a feeling only the XCG can deliver," and no one who has worked with the club is disagreeing.

Here's the best news: You don't have to hit like Tiger Woods to consider putting the XCG in your bag. It's designed to add distance off the tee for any type of golfer, so whether you power your drives hundreds of yards or wish you could, the XCG just might be your new best golfing buddy.

The Exotics XCG is the first and only driver to utilize a magnesium crown for its unprecedented light weight and remarkably solid feel. This revolutionary crown design gives the XCG an astonishingly low center of gravity and high moment of inertia. Distance driven, the XCG produces maximum ball speed by utilizing the same titanium cupped face technology that made the Exotics fairway woods famous. The XCG's breakthrough combination of a titanium cupped face, magnesium crown, and steel body delivers a truly superior performance. Experience the Exotics XCG driver – everything else is history.

Our Guide to the latest in real-estate development and building in California, Arizona and Nevada

Artesia

PARADISE IN CENTRAL SCOTTSDALE

BY BRIAN BUJDOS

IN A WORLD THAT SEEMS TO SPIN FASTER AND FASTER, STARPOINTE THINKS IT HAS FOUND A SOLUTION TO MAKE THINGS EASIER. IT'S NO SMALL SECRET—IN FACT, IT'S 44 ACRES IN SIZE. AS THE REAL-ESTATE DEVELOPMENT COMPANY WILL TELL YOU, THAT'S ALL THE SPACE YOU NEED FOR A LIFE FILLED WITH CONTENTMENT

"We've focused on how people actually live, and how people desire beauty, convenience and a superb quality of life," says Michael D'Andrea, senior project manager of Artesia, Starpointe's new luxury property in central Scottsdale. "That's what makes Artesia so inviting."

Located on Scottsdale Road just north of Indian Bend, the property combines residential elegance with a wide array of amenities just steps away. Recreational opportunities abound, and there are high-end retail and dining options onsite.

Perhaps even more appealing is the variety of products and floor plans. Artesia floor plans range in size from 950 to 3,000 square feet, and residence options include penthouses, brownstones, townhomes, live/work units and single-floor condominiums.

Sales are underway at the Artesia sales center located on the project site, and occupancy of the first brownstone units is expected in April. Artesia includes three total phases, and D'Andrea anticipates that the first phase (61 condos, 23 brownstones and nine live/work units) will be completed by the end of 2008.

"This is one of the best pieces of property that has become available in this market," says Rob Lyles, Starpointe partner. "This is a prime in-fill location, and our intent was to create high-end, quality living with a large supply of usable recreational space for our residents and their families."

Starpointe, one of Arizona's largest condominium and property developers for more than 10 years, also took care to separate Artesia from similar high-density, multi-housing projects. Artesia has more of a community feel to it, Lyles says, as each of the three phases involves numerous buildings and well-planned, open-area community spaces. Complete build-out for 480 total units is anticipated in 2010.

Although Artesia provides its own social clubhouse facility complete with pool, spa, kitchen, game room, theatre, activity areas and a state-of-the-art golf simulator, the property is also working to ensure that residents can enjoy golf nearby at the two well-respected McCormick Ranch courses (both more than 7,000 yards from the championship tees), as well as at Starfire at Scottsdale Country Club, which Starpointe owns.

"There's certainly no shortage of championship golf in the area with our location so centralized in the heart of Scottsdale," Lyles said. "With over 30 golf courses within a five-mile radius of Artesia, residents can take advantage of some of the most diverse, challenging and spectacular golf in the country."

Recreational opportunities at Artesia also include a quiet, 10-acre park bordered by the McCormick Ranch courses; more than four miles of integrated walking paths, sidewalks and trails and a promenade-style walkway with four themed gardens.

Artesia's 22,000-plus square feet of exclusive, high-end retail frontage is already close to full occupancy. Roka Akor, an award-winning international Japanese restaurant serving contemporary Robatayaki cuisine, opens in February. Based in London, Roka Akor is debuting its first U.S. location at Artesia. In addition, a luxury men's clothing and accessories boutique, Manzoni, is now open.

Old Town Scottsdale, a historic area known for its copious shops, dining and clubs, is only three miles away. North Scottsdale and its many high-end experiences are just a short drive as well.

Artesia's central location is certainly a calling card, but its dynamic products and living spaces will play a key role in the project's success.

The penthouses will offer 2,260 square feet of indoor living space, and 1,211 square feet of outdoor living space, with underground parking and elevator access.

The brownstones feature three- and four-bedroom floor plans in three-story homes, each with approximately 3,000 square feet and attached, two-car garages. Many of the brownstones offer breathtaking views of the McDowell Mountains and McCormick Ranch golf courses.

The townhomes are designed for functional multi-level living. These two- and three-story homes offer two- and three-bedroom floor plans ranging from 1,600 to

THE LATEST IN REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT AND BUILDING ACROSS THE DESERT

BY FRANÇOISE RHODES

MOUNTAIN VIEW COUNTRY CLUB

WITH GROUND BREAKING NEWS
WE HAVE ONE GOAL IN MIND:
TO KEEP OUR READERS ABREAST OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENTS
IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA,
ARIZONA AND NEVADA. OUR PRIMARY FOCUS IS ON NEW
GOLF-COURSE COMMUNITIES AND NEW HOME COMMUNITIES
WITHIN ESTABLISHED GOLF-COURSE DEVELOPMENTS AS THEY EMERGE ON THE MARKET

For the desert real estate markets of California, Arizona and Nevada, it's not about being loony; it's about the Canadian loonie. One of the bright spots for the market has been the big bang for their buck Canadians are now getting since the Canadian loonie reached parity with the U.S. dollar for the first time since 1976. The loonie actually peaked last November at $1.10 U.S. dollars for every loonie. Compared to the 62 cents the loonie was worth five years ago, Canadians are now living large and buying large in this down U.S. real estate market. The cost of a $350,000 home is currently $318,182 loonies. That's down considerably from the $564,516 loonies the same home would have cost five years ago.

Although the media continues to fuel fear about the market, many builders feel home building will begin to pick up again in 2008 due to an increase of jobs. Remember that times of crisis often turn out to have been times of great opportunity in hindsight.

CALIFORNIA

The Coachella Valley is all over the map, literally and figuratively. Local real estate agents say that homes priced at $1 million or more continue to sell, as do the low-end homes. The condo resale market is also strong. According to DataQuick Information Systems, condo resale numbers grew 15 percent in October 2007 and are holding the upward momentum. Also in the October 2007 data, all valley areas saw fewer homes sold with the exception of the 92264 zip code area of Palm Springs, where there was an 18.9 percent increase in the number of units changing hands.

Regardless of the numbers, the Coachella Valley managed to score a B- for its overall economy and quality of life in a recently released economic report card. Obviously, quality of life is a prime reason for moving to the valley. Between 1990 and 2007 the Coachella Valley's population grew from 230,865 to 408,624—a gain of 77 percent—with almost 100,000 new residents arriving since 2000.

Palm Springs residents and O'Donnell Golf Course members can take a breather regarding the controversy over the former mayor's push to turn the historic O'Donnell Golf Course into a park. There's a new mayor in town and that issue doesn't seem to be at the top of his agenda.

Yes, its official, Palm Springs' first public golf course in two decades has closed. Lennar, the national developer of Escena, refuses to answer questions regarding the 355-acre, 1,440-home community that boasts a Jack Nicklaus-designed public golf will increase the choices for Diamond Resorts members and bring more tourism dollars to the city.

What's in a name? Obviously a lot. The project surrounding the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic Golf Course has changed

Hideaway, Madison Club, Andalusia and the SilverRock project. Mountain View Country Club offers five new homes priced from just over $1.2 million to more than $1.5 million. Nearly every home site has views of the Arnold Palmer signature course. Lennar has refunded deposits that were taken from prospective homebuyers.

Cathedral City made headlines in the local newspaper with Cimarron Golf Resort. Diamond Resorts International, a Las Vegas-based vacation ownership company, has added Cimarron Golf Resort to its North American portfolio through an exchange with Raintree Resorts. This its name from NorthStar Ranch to Avanterra. Now fully approved by Riverside County for all uses, the project will include a hotel, golf-view villas and condominiums, resort time-share units, retail space, an industrial park and an office development.

La Quinta continues to have hot properties with communities such as the golf course, lakes or mountains. Visit mountainviewatlaquinta.com for more information.

Just north of the Coachella Valley is Beaumont. Located in this fast-growing golf community is the Broadstone at Fairway Canyon, a master-planned community with three new homes priced from $300,000. Nearby golf courses include Oak Valley Golf Club and the Canyon Club. Broadstone is a Lennar project. Visit lennar.com for more information.

ARIZONA

The Greater Phoenix area has been hit with a record number of foreclosures, but doesn't this mean it's time to buy? As mentioned last month, the combination of large inventory and low interest rates has enabled people to purchase more expensive homes, which is one reason the county median prices has remained fairly stable. Foreclosures and new homes are providing a competitive alternative to the resale home in many areas. According to househuntsnews.com, winter brought more sellers than buyers and a good supply of homes at all prices. The average home price is $600,000, the average time on the market more than 120 days.

Fast growing Buckeye has quite a bit to offer potential homeowners. Nestled in the foothills of the scenic White Tank Mountains, Verrado is truly 'hometown Arizona,' featuring a main street with shopping and loft spaces, Raven Golf Club, a village health club, mountain and city-light views and award winning schools. Homes at Acacia at Verrado showcase Spanish Colonial, Monterey, Craftsman Bungalow and Ranch Territorial architecture. Six new homes are available in this master-planned community, priced from $546,900 to $777,178. Visit montereyhomesphoenix.com to learn more.

The Arizona Republic recently reported a record high real estate sale of $149 million. The property is a 269-acre state land parcel near Loop 101 and Tatum Blvd. The sale is the highest price a developer has paid for a piece of Arizona land, and the development is expected to include 3,700 homes, condos and apartments.

Toll Brothers' latest development is Toll Brothers at Litchfield Park — The Ironwood Collection. The Ironwood Collection's six new home designs range from 3,943 to 6,388 square feet. This impressive semi-custom, golf-course community is located around the Red Course at the historic Wigwam Resort & Golf Club. Homes are priced from $764,975 to $893,975. Visit tollbrothers.com for more information townhomes and mid high-rise living. Las Vegas offers a good supply of homes at all prices, and homes are on the market for an average of 30 to 60 days.

VITA BELLA AT LAKE LAS VEGAS

NEVADA

Nevada remains the fastest growing state in the union for the 19th consecutive year, according to househuntnews.com. The reason? Job growth. With over $40 billion being invested on the Las Vegas strip, that spells employment. Analysts say that the pricing can only go higher as the interest and demand from the working class grows. Currently Las Vegas boasts more buyers than sellers, with the average home priced at $325,000, up 10 to 15 percent from last year. The greatest activity is said to be with condos, square-foot, 64-story, 24-carat-gold-glass-encased Trump Tower offers luxury condominiums from $700,000 to $7 million. Log onto trumptower.com to learn more.

American West Homes offers six new homes in its master-planned community of Inverness. Royal Highlands, Inverness is located behind a guard gate in the heart of Southern Highlands. These mansions with finished basements have everything you want in a custom home. Floor plans range from 3,679 to 5,649 square feet with up to six bedrooms. Priced in the $800s, mountain views and world-class golf. Toll Brothers is currently offering seven new townhomes in this community, from 1,566 to 2,110 square feet and $451,975 to $745,975. This is the place for those who want resort style living 365 days a year. Visit tollbrothers.com for more about this development.

LEGEND

Maderas Golf Club (858.451.8100)

Golfers relish tackling a diverse landscape of rolling hills and cliffs with accompanying creeks, rocks and forests. Designed by Johnny Miller with architect Robert Muir Graves, Maderas has been ranked by Zagat as the top course in San Diego since 2003.

DOWNTOWN RESURGENCE

Even in the 1970s, urban San Diego was a sleepy Navy town full of warehouses, bars and tattoo parlors, says Todd Voorhees, vice president of public policy and communications for Downtown San Diego Partnership. With the development of outdoor Horton Plaza in the '80s, a fast-transit light-rail system plus the Gaslamp Quarter entertainment district, downtown has become the go-to destination.

"In 2004, when the Padres (professional baseball team) moved to Petco Park, it ignited everything. You can find whatever your interest may be in the 227 blocks of downtown, from the harbor along San Diego Bay, inward to Petco Park and the East Village redevelopment area.

"We have a full-service, work-live-and-play downtown, very upbeat and positive," says Voorhees. "We're still building condos and boutique hotels, with other major names wanting to develop here. The Hard Rock hotel-and-condo building gives us a different flair. Balboa Theater was restored and we also have the Repertory Theatre at the Lyceum. Recreationally, our harbor paths are hard to beat, especially with an average city temperature of 70 degrees. We also have more than 80 golf courses within 40 miles of downtown."

Look for a new, downtown Marriott with 1900 rooms (each with balcony), 1400 underground parking spaces, seven restaurants and a full-service spa.

DOWNTOWN LIVING

Bosa Development is a leader in downtown residential complexes, carefully planning and creating nine distinctive high-rise projects. Sales representative Jeannette Kagan talks about two of the most striking.

Legend (619.239.2339)

Completed in late 2007, it's the only development currently located next to Petco Park and the open-space area controlled by the Padres during ballgames. "Off-season, it's open to the public and it's our front yard," says Kagan. "Legend is 23 stories with a unique seventh-floor common area—a 3,000-square-foot rooftop deck that looks into the ballpark. You can watch a game there. With two fire pits, an outdoor fireplace and kitchen with bar, it's like a rooftop hotel overlooking the city...magical." LegendSanDiego.com.

Featuring escape-worthy cabanas of a five-star resort, "It's the most luxurious in San Diego," says Kagan. "We dedicated more amenities here than in any other project. Still in pre-construction phase, it's one of the last San Diego waterfront residential sites available. LUXURY MOTORHOMES FEATURE UPSCALE

DON'T HAVE, PLUS YOU CAN TAKE THEM

ROUGHIN' IT JUST GOT EASIER!
LUXURY COACHES AND RVS HAVE

Many luxury coaches manufactured today are considered second homes. They come with all the benefits of a true "home away from home," including tax breaks (interest can be written off) and computer connectivity. But what if your second home features a 42-inch plasma screen, 600 horsepower and a Jacuzzi tub?

By 2010, an estimated 8.5 million people will own an RV, according to a 2005 University of Michigan study. But few will own anything quite like these custom coaches, vehicles with luxury features many stationary homes don't have. Considering that entry-level price tags can start upwards of $1.5 million, a luxury coach is decidedly living-made-easy on America's highways.

"When you look at buying any RV off the line, you adapt your lifestyle to the space that is there," says Truman Bidelsbach of Newell Coaches. "With a Newell, you help guide our hands to create a space that adapts to you."

Adaptations work to make the mobile version of an owner's home just as comfortable as the primary residence he or she is accustomed to. Marble floors, custom carpeting, sub-zero refrigerators and "basement" garages are just a few of the elements that can be built into these rolling resorts. The new technology has celebrities from NASCAR to Hollywood eyeing the prospect of more luxurious accommodations on the road.

"The sky is the limit," says Ron Anderson, president of Anderson Mobile Estates. "This is starting to be people's Theron, Ben Stiller and others who make their living on location. Anderson Mobile Estates holds the patent on a two-story version of the luxury coach—with a third-story "skybox" available. Golf lovers may imagination. "We start with the raw steel and aluminum and go from there," says Anderson. "We can do almost anything. Tubs, showers, offices and bedrooms are easy. What are you going to do with the other three houses inside?"

Anderson has designed video-editing rooms and recording studios onboard, as well as makeup areas and theater screening rooms. He likens the interior of an Anderson model to a canvas, yet he prides himself on the social sector advantages of his designs.

thought of a second home. It's full-time living. Our patented design is bigger than a lot of houses and apartments, and when you get tired of the neighborhood, you just move or follow the climate."

Anderson's niche is the movie industry. His clients include Will Smith, Charlize

With up to 1,200 square feet available, these homes on wheels beg for

"We can totally seal this unit and make it a potential rescue vehicle in fire and terrorist situations," he says. "I'd much rather leave my mark on the world helping people by designing something that saves lives."

MARATHON COACHES

NASCAR star Jeff Gordon just ordered a new luxury coach to accommodate wife, Ingrid and new daughter, Ella. It will be his fifth model with Marathon Coach. Gordon reportedly has a treadmill, granite countertops and leather sofas adorning his current pacesetter. Though the 45-foot colossal doesn't set any speed records, the wealth of amenities is sure to give the speedster a chance to cool his jets.

Wine racks and specially designed picture galleries built to handle road motion are among the essentials owners demand. In fact, nearly everything you have in your stationary home can be accommodated. But few homeowners can say they are sleeping on 200 gallons of diesel and can travel with their favorite mattress for a day without stopping. There are some perks to having a house on wheels.

The innovation of satellite Internet makes connectivity a high priority as well. Nearly every manufacturer is offering a standard satellite package that handles Internet and television as well as navigation. Entertainment packages can range from theaters to flat panels and projection screens that store away for conservation of space.

Slideouts, a type of hideaway square footage, give nearly every coach more room by providing space on demand. When the motorhome is parked, the push of a button activates the extension of walls and floors to add valuable space. Newell's 18-foot slideout is one of the largest on the market. Newell adds space in other creative ways as well. Its latest model features a master bed that stores away like a Murphy bed, creating a mixed-use space that works as an entertainment area by day and a master bedroom by night.

Washer and dryer, dishwasher, dual water heaters, and satellite options all make the coach fit for full-time residence. When it comes time to build your custom beauty, you can request the features and built-ins that work best with your needs and lifestyle.

Sound good? Call your tax professional and begin making plans for writing off that interest—a second home is just around the corner.

Classic Corduroy and Leather

IDEAL FOR COOL WEATHER ON THE COURSE OR SOCIALIZING AT THE CLUB

BY DANA LAUREN BERRY

TWO OF THE MOST ESSENTIAL MATERIALS OF ALL TIME, CORDUROY AND LEATHER, HAVE TRULY WITHSTOOD FASHION'S TEST OF TIME. LIKE DENIM, THESE TWO MATERIALS ARE MUST-HAVES FOR COOLER WEATHER—WHETHER YOU'RE IN THE MOUNTAINS OR THE DESERT. ADDITIONALLY, MANY FASHION BRANDS NOW OFFER JACKETS IN FABRICS SUCH AS ULTRASUEDE, PROVIDING A “LEATHER LOOK” THAT IS OFTEN MACHINE WASHABLE AND AT A LOWER PRICE POINT

Look for clothing in timeless colors including navy, camel, chocolate brown and black. An especially hot color this season is charcoal grey. Corduroy that has a touch of Lycra or is blended with acrylic or nylon has added softness and just a little stretch for more ease of movement. Leather jackets with sweater knit sleeves also are comfortable and in style right now.

Cozy up with some of these hot looks, sure to keep you toasty on or off the golf course.

Greg Norman Collection Suede Bomber Jacket, $500: This essential jacket is made from 100-percent goat suede, ensuring a soft and supple look. With rib trim at the neck, cuff and hem, plus front flap pockets, this jacket is comfortable to wear for golf.

Bobby Jones Women's Collection Suede Sport Jacket, $595: A flattering tailored fit and unique colors make this blazer a hit. Featuring holiday plaid contrast piping on the inside of the collar and a three-button front, this jacket can be dressed up or down, and looks great with a pair of jeans or a skirt. Available in calypso orange, key lime or navy, it's versatile and chic enough for the country club.

Bobby Jones Suede Bomber Jacket, $695: This rich, espresso-colored jacket offers a great fit, with rib trim at the cuffs and bottom opening. Inside chest pockets are perfect to hold essentials such as your cell phone and business cards. The interior is lined with Bobby Jones logo taffeta lining and the zipper features a logo metal pull.

Tehama Women's Microsuede Jacket, $135: Dubbed “the Dina Jacket,” this is a favorite of Dina Eastwood, wife of Tehama co-founder Clint Eastwood. The polyester microfiber jacket offers a flattering narrow silhouette with an ultra-soft finish and chic styling.

Tehama Men's Microsuede Jacket, $150: Versatile outerwear that is highly functional, this jacket has plenty of pockets to stash essentials, including double-entry side pockets and inside cell-phone pockets. Adjustable cuffs and side elastic-enclosed bottom band add extra comfort, while back shoulder gussets allow for easy movement. Satin lined with the Tehama logo, it features Tehama logo naps and zipper pulls and single-needle, top stitching on seams.

TEHAMA WOMEN'S SUEDE FRONT SWEATER JACKET

SPORT HALEY'S MILK CHOCOLATE CORDUROY VEST

Tehama Women's Suede Front Sweater Jacket, $150: This ultra-comfortable jacket is available in feminine colors of spruce, aster and milk. With an acrylic/cotton/nylon blend sweater sleeves and collar, the sweater jacket offers great ease of movement for cooler golf days.

Sport Haley's Milk Chocolate Corduroy Vest, $120: From Sport Haley's Earth Collection, this versatile vest has suede trim and coral contrast details. A coordinating skirt, $80, is lined and features coral detailing.

Tommy Bahama "Shades of Wale" Men's Corduroy Jacket, $175: Like an oversized version of a favorite button-down shirt, this jacket has front patch pockets and is made with a silk-cotton blend. Available in rust, navy or brown.

Ben Hogan Corduroy Pant, $110: Stylish, flat-front pant has a flattering fit with just the right amount of stretch, thanks to the 1-percent Lycra. Available in black, navy, malt, grey and tan.

BEN HOGAN CORDUROY PANT

St. John Sport Leather Bombers, $1,295-$1,695: For a decidedly high-fashion look, St. John Sport has two great stylish jackets. The white sporty leather bomber has a drawstring bottom, giving the jacket a more casual look. The coral leather bomber has knit sleeves and two side-zip pockets.

QUICK: WHERE IS THE NO. 2 GOLF DESTINATION IN THE WORLD FOR U.S. GOLFERS LOOKING TO PLAY AWAY FROM HOME? IF YOU SAID MEXICO YOU ARE CORRECT. IT'S OUT-RANKED ONLY BY HAWAII

Among the things Mexico has going for it is that it's a heck of a lot closer than Hawaii. There are non-stop flights that will get you from your home airport to the first tee in a matter of hours. Add to that a rich culture, stunning diversity of landscape, a history that goes back many thousands of years and every sort of vacation pleasure or adventure you could want—from fine dining and exquisite resorts to pyramids, world class deep sea fishing and superb scuba diving—and Mexico is hard to beat. In fact, the Mexican government isn't planning to accept that second place ranking for long.

FAIRMONT MAYAKOBA

Golf is positioned as a major component of tourism efforts south of the border, and if you haven't experienced the breadth and depth of what Mexico offers, well, you're lagging behind the times in the brave new world of brilliantly designed layouts slicing through verdant jungles and perched daringly along the edges of soaring seaside cliffs.

Here's a sampling of the top golf courses in Mexico's prime vacation destinations, from the Caribbean to the Pacific, Cancun to Baja.

LOSCABOS

Los Cabos has long been the premier golfing spot in Mexico, a place where the rusts and reds of the stark desert environment meet the blue depths of the Sea of Cortez.

FOUR SEASONS GOLF CLUB AT PUNTA MITA

The courses at Cabo del Sol frequently top lists of the best golf courses in Mexico, particularly the much-lauded Ocean Course, one of many Nicklaus designs south of the border. The No.17 par 3 is often rated one of the top holes in Mexico. The Desert Course, a Weiskopf design, is no less impressive.

One & Only Palmilla Resort has 27 Nicklaus-designed holes; this course, always rated highly, was one of the first to put Los Cabos on the golfing map.

Nicklaus also designed the course at Eldorado Golf Club at Casa del Mar Resort & Spa, a luxury boutique hotel that is part of the expansive Cabo Real development.

Another Cabo Real layout is the Robert Trent Jones II course at Cabo Real Golf Club. The par-4 No. 7 is considered among the most challenging holes in Los Cabos.

Cabo San Lucas Country Club features a Dye Corporation designed golf course carved out of the magnificent mountain and desert landscape.

PUERTO VALLARTA AND RIVIERA NYARIT

This area stretched along the Pacific is one of the hottest golf destinations in Mexico—and growing. When the next two courses open this coming summer—a Nicklaus course at the St. Regis Punta Mita and a Greg Norman design at nearby Litibú—there will be nine championship golf courses to choose from. Meanwhile, there's already enough to keep golfing vacationers here for many days.

In Nuevo Vallarta, a short drive from the Puerto Vallarta airport, is a trio of excellent courses. El Tigre Club de Golf, with nine bodies of water to challenge even the best player's precision, was designed by Robert von Hagge. Flamingos Golf Club, a design of British architect Percy Clifford, is the oldest course in the area, while Mayan Palace Golf Club features a Jim Lipe design tucked between the Pacific and the Rio Ameca.

Punta Mita, north of Puerto Vallarta, is making a distinctive mark in the golf world. Among the first courses here is Four Seasons Golf Club at Punta Mita, a Nicklaus Signature course. Conde Nast Traveler's readers voted the Four Seasons Best Golf Resort in the World in 2006.

In Puerto Vallarta itself choices include two courses at Vista Vallarta—one designed by Nicklaus and the other by Weiskopf—and the Joe Finger course at Marina Vallarta Golf Club. Then there's El Tamarindo Golf Course, a Robert Trent Jones II design that is often rated one of the top five golf courses in the country. Robert von Hagge created the 27 holes at Isla Navidad, a mega resort area guaranteed to wow U.S. visitors.

CANCUN, COZUMEL AND THE RIVIERA MAYA

Over on the Caribbean, golf takes on a different feel, many of the courses here carved out of tangled jungles. The Nicklaus Signature course at Moon Palace Golf & Spa Resort is among the top venues here, but it's Greg Norman's El Camaleón at Mayakoba, between Cancun and Playa del Carmen at the ultra-upscale Fairmont

ESTRELLA DEL MAR

Mayakoba, that distinguishes itself as host for the first ever PGA Tour event in Mexico. This month (February), the PGA Mayakoba Golf Classic returns for its second year.

Other top resorts and golf courses in this area include the Hilton Cancun Golf & Spa Resort with its course meandering past Mayan ruins, Cancun Golf Club at Pok ta Pok with its Robert Trent Jones

Jr. course right in the famous hotel zone, Norman's Playa Mujeres Golf Club course, the golf course at Iberostar Playa Paraiso Golf Club designed by PB Dye and Playacar Spa & Golf Club with its Robert von Hagge layout.

Just across the water on the island of Cozumel is yet another Nicklaus Design Group layout, that at Cozumel Country Club. Cozumel is its own vacation destination, a popular cruise stop and easily accessible for a golfing daytrip from Cancun and the Riviera Maya.

MAZATLAN

The seaport of Mazatlan is the only Mexican colonial city on the water. Its historic city center retains its 16th century architecture and old-world charm, but the golf courses are definitely of today. Estrella del Mar, about 30 minutes from the city, is the indisputable king of courses here. Robert Trent Jones II created a truly exceptional course that fits into the exquisite surroundings of the upscale resort. Conveniently located right in Mazatlan is El Cid with 27 holes designed by Lee Trevino in the heart of the "Golden Zone" near the El Cid marina.

There are other areas of Mexico with excellent golf courses and enticing vacation amenities of their own—Ixtapa, Ensenada (drivable from San Diego) and the Sonoran region among them. The truth is that wherever you vacation in Mexico, you're likely to find world-class golf and every reason to return year after year,
