Publisher's Notes

By Timothy J. Pade • pade@desertgolfer.com

We are extremely proud to feature our 42nd President of the United States on this cover, William Jefferson Clinton. The William J. Clinton Foundation will be involved in the newly named Humana Challenge, the tournament known for years as the Bob Hope Classic. Although the new tournament is still in its infant stage, one thing is clear: President Clinton and Humana will carry on Bob Hope's legacy.

Bob Hope made significant contributions to the desert and the game of golf, and the Humana Challenge pays homage to him while also bringing something new to the tournament landscape. For one thing, many businesses, people and charities will flourish because of the commitment Humana and the Clinton Foundation have made. Their commitment has already begun to revitalize this PGA tournament as well as the Palm Springs economy.

President Clinton will personally participate in this year's tournament, and he has taken on a commanding role in some of the operations of the event. Humana staff will also be on hand during the event to talk with fans about insurance benefits, health coverage and more.

We would like to personally welcome both Humana and the William J. Clinton Foundation to the Coachella Valley, and thank them for their commitment to the continuation of this great tournament that has become an institution in the desert region. You can read more about Humana on p. 12 and about the tournament on p. 16.

Also in this issue is coverage of another phenomenal event on the PGA Tour, the Waste Management Phoenix Open. Fans of this largest tournament on the PGA Tour have made the West Coast swing event the biggest party in golf. Find out more on p. 26.

As usual, our real estate expert provides insights on the desert housing market and the deals that can be found. We are all praying for an economic comeback, but even now there are incredible opportunities for savvy buyers looking for a primary residence or golf property in our area. The real estate section starts on p. 43.

Finally, on p. 58 you will find our annual Holiday Happenings, a listing of things to do and see across the desert this season.

In the holiday spirit, we would like to thank you, our advertisers and subscribers, for your continued support in helping us make Desert Golf Magazine one of the most successful golf publications in the nation. We are truly blessed. Best wishes this holiday season, and here's to a strong economy in 2012!

Humana Challenges

Your Wellbeing

A golf tournament dedicated to improving the overall health of the nation? Yes, indeed.

Challenge

It's a common phrase: All good things must come to an end. But for the Humana corporation, one of the nation's largest publicly traded health and supplemental-benefits companies, the phrase has evolved into a more positive credo: All great things can only get better. By definition, that means change.

Humana is the first to acknowledge that change is hard for some to embrace. So before the generation that grew up watching, volunteering and playing in the Bob Hope Classic tosses a club in frustration and worries unnecessarily about the tournament's iconic namesake, rest assured that Humana feels much the same way. The company considers Bob Hope a symbol of good health and longevity, and recognizes him as one of the Tour's forefathers. Humana has vowed to keep Hope's legacy alive and thriving in a partnership that is redefining the Classic.

And what a partnership it is. Bringing the idea of "participatory wellness" to life with Humana is the William J. Clinton Foundation, PGA Tour and Desert Classic Charities. Combined, this stronghold of entities is embarking on an eight-year, and calories burned, and a family-fit area. There will even be on-course wellness activities.

A golfer himself, Humana Chairman and CEO Mike McCallister is thrilled about the evolution of the event. "The concept of health, fitness and wellbeing is going to have to be at the core of changing what's happening in this country from a healthcare-cost perspective and from a personal health perspective," he says. "Tim Finchem [PGA Tour Commissioner] groundbreaking adventure that will appeal to diehard golfers and fans as well as to the non-golfing public.

There are many dynamic aspects of this union between professional golf and wellness, and this isn't the first time the two have come together. Some of you might remember when a handful of Tour players committed themselves to health and fitness, turning overweight, out-of-shape bodies into fit, sleek golf machines. There were those who laughed at first, but they soon learned it was no joke. In order to compete against this select few, other pros quickly embarked on their own wellness regimes, and an entirely new perspective on the benefits of being fit emerged.

All of which leads up to a name change for the Bob Hope Classic. Changing the name to the Humana Challenge was the first step in creating an entirely new PGA tournament experience. Not only will professional golf be front and center, so will Humana's goal to bring the concepts of health and fitness to people of all ages. For the first time at a golf tournament, spectators will have access to healthy concession options, pedometers for measuring steps taken and I have talked over the years about how golf is unique, in that the fans actually get up and walk and follow the players. The Humana Challenge gives us a wonderful launch pad to take a positive message and start working on the idea of behavior modification for everyone as a key component of the long-term health of this nation."

Humana raised the bar high, but it can go higher still when you consider the company's partnership with the Clinton Global Initiative (CGI), a project of the Clinton Foundation. Suddenly, the Humana Challenge is akin to a global summit meeting. During the week of the Humana Challenge, American leaders from business, nonprofits and government will converge upon the Coachella Valley to develop new ideas for creating jobs.

President Ford, Bob Hope, President Clinton, Scott Hoch and President Bush

Bob Hope

“CGI members have improved the lives of more than 300 million people around the world,” says President Clinton. “We form partnerships to take action on issues that matter most, which is why I am pleased that the Clinton Foundation, the PGA Tour and Humana are working together to promote healthy lifestyles. The tournament builds on my personal love for golf, preserving the Bob Hope Classic legacy and the Clinton Foundation’s commitment to healthy choices.”

Equally pleased with the partnership is Linda Hope, daughter of the legendary entertainer. “My dad has been such an integral part of golf and charity in the Coachella Valley, so our family is pleased that the tournament will continue to tell his remarkable story. I know that Dad would be enthusiastic about the tournament’s new focus on health and wellbeing, but he’d probably add some laughter to the mix—these components, after all, coupled with a passion for golf, were the secrets to his century of a well-lived life.”

Tournament Director Larry Thiel could not be happier. “There are so many new elements and additions to this event, it truly is groundbreaking,” he says. What will not change is the tournament’s commitment to local charities throughout the Coachella Valley as well as to the Eisenhower Medical Center.

Thiel’s excitement is apparent, and he’s ready for any challenges that may arise. “My job is to make the transition smooth for everyone involved,” he says. “This the first time Humana and the Clinton Foundation have ever been involved in a golf tournament, and they are excited, totally committed and ready to do whatever they can to make this the absolute finest tournament in the world.”

If you’re still uncertain about the changes, think of it this way: Why not learn to improve your overall wellbeing while watching professional athletes compete in an event that honors an entertainment icon and raises funds for local charities? You can do all that and more at one incredible event—the Humana Challenge.

Whether you play golf or not, the Humana Challenge is on the verge of becoming the Coachella Valley and the PGA Tour’s most exciting event ever—and all for the health of it!

Humana Challenge

What's In a Name?

New name, new format for an iconic desert classic

2011 Champion Jhonattan Vegas

Here are a few things you should know about the 2012 Humana Challenge. Yes, it is the tournament formerly known as the Bob Hope Classic. Yes, it will be held the third week of January, its traditional spot on the PGA Tour schedule—Jan. 19-22 to be exact.

Yes, it will be played on three courses: PGA West Palmer Private, PGA West Nicklaus Private and La Quinta Country Club.

No, you will not have to make adjustments to your weekly golf in order to attend the first round on Wednesday.

In the past, there were two types of golf fans: those who lived in the Coachella Valley and realized through years of repetition that their five-round event began on Wednesday, and those who did not.

The latter was the group who arrived home from work or came off the golf course on that exact Wednesday in January only to realize the first round of that week's PGA Tour event was already in the record book. The former were

PGA West Nicklaus Private Course

PGA West Palmer Private Course

La Quinta Country Club

conditioned for five rounds of competition and never missed the first round—yet they also knew that changes to the tournament were likely, even necessary, to keep it as a staple on the PGA Tour's January calendar.

In the Hope's glorious past, PGA Tour players loved coming to the desert's annual competition/party for many reasons, the most popular being the opportunity to rub elbows with the greatest entertainers of the time; the great parties that included players, amateurs and celebrities; and the opportunity to knock the rust off their game with a five-round event that guaranteed plenty of time to acclimate to Tour intensity.

Yogi Berra and Alice Cooper

Kurt Russell

Sugar Ray Leonard

But the relentless tide of time eroded many of the pillar attractions. Bob Hope himself eventually and inevitably became less active in the tournament in his twilight years. Many of his contemporaries who had helped make the tournament the swanky, one-of-a-kind event it was were gone before Mr. Hope's passing in 2003. In the late 1990s, players began to make moviestar money, rendering the entire concept less appealing to both players and organizers. A majority of top-ranked players began to skip the event because a five-round tournament, combined with the extracurricular demands on the time of successful modern touring professionals and celebrities, compressed what were already watertight personal and professional schedules.

When Louisville, Kentucky-based healthcare provider Humana, Inc. entered into the title sponsorship role just months ago, the writing on the wall was clear: changes to the tournament being considered, mentioned or planned had to be implemented quickly or removed from consideration. Organizers moved swiftly. They updated the tournament's name to reflect the new sponsorship and they changed the format, eliminating the five-round/Wednesday start in favor of a traditional 72-hole event.

Humana Challenge tournament chairman Larry O. Thiel said the transition wheels have been turning since last summer when negotiations with Humana reached an advanced stage. The decision to make the tournament a four-round event came early on. Tournament staff has since dialed in to other important matters, such as signage, building bridges with Humana and integrating the Clinton Foundation Global Initiative into the tournament structure—and Thiel says former President Bill Clinton won't just be a passive observer of the tournament.

"He is a charming guy to be around, and the thing that makes me most enthusiastic is that he's engaged," Thiel says. "He really, really wants this to be something special, the way it was when Mr. Hope was a part of it."

Of course, changes to the professional competition meant changes to the beloved Pro-Am, which was perhaps the most intimidating part of the transformation for organizers. But Thiel notes that after spending years trying to cultivate as many as 30 big-name stars and a full field of amateurs, this year's tournament will be limited to 18 celebrities, and they and the 144 amateur competitors will play for the first three rounds before ceding the spotlight to the pros.

Thiel says the amateurs should enjoy the new format even more as they can now play together as a team for all 54 holes. Each amateur pair will also play with two different pros each round, meaning each amateur will play with six different professionals during their three rounds. The celebrities will be split into groups of six and dispersed to the three different courses each day. In the past, all the celebrities played at the same course on the same day.

The new system seems to be working. Thiel says the 2012 Humana pro-am is already sold out. There are also two other pro-ams scheduled: The Legacy Pro-Am will be conducted the Monday of the tournament on the PGA West Palmer Private Course, featuring 104 amateurs and 26 professionals, and couples will battle it out in the Couples Challenge Pro-Am the Wednesday of tournament week.

Perhaps the second most-difficult decision was the one to remove Bob Hope's name from the tournament's title. While many old-timers, purists and sentimentalists weren't happy about it given that it's likely the tournament would have never caught on were it not for Hope, they were resigned to the fact that change was inevitable. And if a corporate sponsor was willing to put its marketing dollars to work through the event that had meant so much to the valley and its charities for over 50 years, a title change was perhaps a small concession. Still, organizers have vowed to maintain the connection with Hope, the most visible aspect of that commitment coming on the nameplate on the Bob Hope Trophy, which forthwith will be awarded to the Humana Challenge champion.

Desert Willow Golf Resort

Enviably views, championship courses and amenities earn
Palm Desert's city venue "resort" status

With 36 holes of championship golf, stunning views, luxurious clubhouse amenities, patio dining and notable cuisine, Desert Willow Golf Resort could be a private club or part of a vacation retreat. Surprisingly, the appealing venue with luxury overtones is run by the City of Palm Desert, Calif. In a golf-saturated area with 130 venues competing for customer loyalty, Desert Willow regulars tell staff it's their favorite desert course.

The resort noticeably displays impeccable maintenance and offers incredible scenery. "We hear, 'This is the most beautiful of all the desert courses we've ever played,'" says Bruce Nation, Desert Willow's director of sales and marketing. Designed by Michael Hurdzan, who is known for environmentally friendly concepts, and former University of Arizona golfer Dana Fry, Desert Willow opened in 1997 with Firecliff, a championship layout with 18 challenging holes. "It's a real desert-style course with forced carries off the tee boxes, desert landscaping and skirted palm trees that have an oasis look of old-style palm trees in their most natural state," says Nation.

Mountain View course isn't a mirror image of its predecessor, but rather a sister design with its own persona. "The water features and bunker complexes on both courses are a lot alike, and there are great mountain views on each one as well," says Nation. "Firecliff plays a bit over 7,000 yards and Mountain View a shade under."

Mountain View's more forgiving fairways ease its difficulty quotient and Nation says it sometimes faces an image problem—but only because of its less-than-fiery name. "We fall into the name trap," he says. "Mountain View is not as flashy a name as Firecliff, but it's just as good a golf course."

Palm Desert's city-run golf haven is basking in the glow of a sparkling $4.5 million makeover completed in January 2010. Refreshments included the addition of 25,000 square feet to the clubhouse with outside additions such as new fire pits and stylish patio seating, plus upgrades in the kitchen. Mountain View course was spruced up as well, including upgraded greens, fairway bunkers and lake edges. Desert Willow's Palm Desert Golf Academy is a full-service practice facility offering private lessons and custom club fittings year-round.

"We're a golfing destination," says Nation. "And we have great food and beverage on property. We hired a brand-new chef a year ago and he tweaked the menu, which is changed every four to five months." Golfers can dine on entrées at lunch such as lobster macaroni-and-cheese, in addition to gourmet sandwiches and favorites for breakfast as well. "We have a nice bar and ambience, and patio dining is our specialty here," Nation adds. Desert Willow's scenic venue is the site of weddings and social functions, and the course hosts a jazz night twice a month with a menu of drinks and appetizers from January through May.

Desert Willow's Platinum Club Card loyalty program provides golfers with reduced greens fees for up to three guests, as well as secure tee times 21 days in advance, and discounts on lessons, select apparel and dining. "We pride ourselves in being customer-service oriented," says Nation. "We may not be a five-star resort, but we're definitely in the four-star range. Our staff is outstanding and we do a lot of events—plus 87,000 rounds a year."

To learn more about the Platinum Club Card as well as details about the golf resort, go to DesertWillow.com or call 760.346.0015.

Childhelp

Celebrity Golf Invitational

Cheryl Ladd and John O'Hurley host at Porcupine Creek and Celebrity Course at Indian Wells

To play golf at Porcupine Creek in Rancho Mirage, Calif., requires a personal invitation by owner and Oracle co-founder Larry Ellison. But with dedicated organizers and a deserving cause, the second annual Childhelp Celebrity Golf Invitational, Jan. 8-10, offers tournament participants a rare opportunity to play the course during the first public fundraiser ever held there. The event features a second day of spectacular golf at the Celebrity Course at Indian Wells Golf Resort. Hosted by avid celebrity golfers Cheryl Ladd and John O'Hurley, the tournament not only aids a worthy nonprofit, it offers many things players covet: two days of unbeatable golf, a stellar celebrity list and three nights of fun-focused parties.

Ken Rizzotto, executive director of the tournament, has managed a spectrum of golf events. "I know this tournament will be an awesome golf experience for our participants," he says. "Players can step up for Childhelp and play an exclusive venue, a win-win opportunity. We'll be adding some new, high profile celebrities to the desert as our event takes place during the Palm Springs International Film Festival. It's going to be a wonderful three days. We're not going to be black-tie, but desert chic—you don't have to put on a monkey suit to enjoy great parties."

Three nights of festivities take place at the Hyatt Grand Champions Resort in Indian Wells, beginning with a '50s-themed pairings event on Sunday. A celebrity joins each amateur foursome, and team numbers are drawn on stage in front of the crowd. "It's luck of the draw," says Rizzotto. "Fair for one, fair for all. Even though we're an amateur tournament, it's important for us to uphold the integrity of the game of golf and make sure everything we do is above board. We want players to witness the drawing."

The Monday night party is geared toward fundraising for Childhelp, with live and silent auctions plus a variety of food and entertainment. The final night "Golf Ball" awards gala will be headlined by Sensations show band. "It's going to be a blast, we're going to rock the Valley," Rizzotto says. "We'll only have 18 teams on each course each day, which will make the pace of play faster and a more pleasurable experience for the golfers. Porcupine Creek is truly a unique experience. I can't stress how special it is." Golfers are encouraged to put together their own foursomes and a team draw is available for singles. Rizzotto calls the five-player scramble handicap system "level" for all teams.

Tournament beneficiary Childhelp is dedicated to helping severely abused and at-risk children through treatment, prevention, education and advocacy. Judy Jensen, Childhelp western regional chapter coordinator, says, "These children, who have seen the worst that life has to offer, deserve the best that we can provide while they are in the care of Childhelp, including the support to become good citizens."

The Childhelp Merv Griffin Village has been in Beaumont, Calif., for over 30 years, and is one of two Childhelp residential treatment facilities providing specialized, comprehensive programs for court-referred, severely abused, neglected and at-risk children. The second facility is in northern Virginia. Jensen says tournament participants can put a face with their monetary contributions. "Each golfer will wear a bracelet with the name of a child, made by the children from the Village, and their anonymous stories are placed on each of the golf carts." The Childhelp Merv

2012 Waste Management Phoenix Open

Veteran Mark Wilson prepares to defend his title

Mark Wilson

Rickie Fowler and Phil Mickelson

Mark Wilson

During the beginning of the 2011 PGA Tour season, longtime Tour professional Mark Wilson was on fire. He began the season with a two-stroke victory over Tim Clark and Steve Marino at the Sony Open in Hawaii for his first win in nearly two years. Less than a month later, he shot a six-under-par 65 during the first round of the Waste Management Phoenix Open and never looked back, finishing with rounds of 64, 68 and 69 to tie Jason Dufner at 18-under-par. With a birdie on the second sudden-death playoff hole, Wilson captured his second Tour victory in three starts, which led to an early lead in the FedEx Cup standings as well as on the PGA Tour money list.

Although Wilson's game cooled down during the remainder of the season and he didn't have another Tour win, many of his competitors and fans would not be surprised if he utilized his short-game talents and shot-making precision to win again when the 2012 Waste Management Phoenix Open is played Feb. 1-5. In doing so, he would become only the sixth golfer in the tournament's 80-year history to successfully defend the title, joining the likes of Arnold Palmer, Ben Hogan and Johnny Miller.

As Wilson prepares to possibly join such an elite group, golf fans across the country, and especially within the greater Phoenix area, will be anxiously anticipating one of the most exciting and popular Tour events of the season.

TPC of Scottsdale's Stadium Course, which has hosted the Phoenix Open every year since 1987, has become world-renowned for its par-three 16th hole, perhaps the most crowded—and loudest—spectator hole in professional golf.

The 16th hole is the only fully enclosed hole on the PGA Tour, inviting enthusiastic fans of all ages to its grandstands to witness the shot-making prowess of some of the Tour's most elite members. Fans also enjoy the drama of toe-to-toe tournament finishes, chip-ins and the occasional, miraculous shot that leads to the most applause—the hole-in-one, which has been achieved only by a rare few in the past 24 years, among them Tiger Woods.

Due to the atmosphere of this hole, as well as the impressive field of the world's top golfers, including Phil Mickelson and Vijay Singh, the tournament has drawn some of the largest crowds in the sport over the last few years. On average, roughly 500,000 fans attend the tournament throughout the week; in 2008, the tournament actually set two Tour attendance records: single day, with more than 170,000 individuals enjoying the action during the third round, and week-long, as 538,356 fans were on hand from Thursday through Sunday.

In addition to the live tournament action, many attendees enjoy the Coors Light Birds Nest, an outdoor party tent and nightclub that has hosted a variety of popular bands in the past, including O.A.R., Huey Lewis and the News, and Hootie and the Blowfish.

The Birds Nest opens only during the week of the Phoenix Open, from Wednesday through Saturday. General admission cost is usually $25, while a VIP admission badge can be purchased each night for $150. Attendees may also buy a 10-pack of VIP tickets—a total of 40 tickets, 10 for each night—for $5,000. By purchasing a VIP badge, fans can enjoy a viewing platform of the stage, a private area including bathrooms and a full buffet featuring an assortment of menu items.

With its young, hip crowd, renowned 16th hole and grandstands, live entertainment and typically beautiful weather, there is little wonder why the Waste Management Phoenix Open is the most attended tournament on the PGA circuit year after year.

Fast, challenging greens and a 7,216-yard layout will test the skills of all tournament competitors, no matter how well they may

Free Up Your Backswing Turn

Making adjustments to your game as you get older

Sadly, we are all getting older and our flexibility isn't what it used to be, which means our distance off the tee typically diminishes as time goes on. It's easy to see this phenomenon in the difference between players on the PGA Tour and those on the Senior Tour.

While the kids on the PGA Tour have tight, controlled backswings, the players on the Senior Tour are a different story. Examine them and you will see longer and freer turns to the top. This is due to the flexibility difference we all experience from 25 years of age to where we are now. In this article, we help you understand how to free up your backswing for more distance.

For the PGA Tour Professional, the key is consistency over four days week after week, with less regard for distance because most players on this Tour have no distance issues. However, if you look at the Senior Tour, it is just the opposite. As these players have aged and their bodies have changed, they must amend their golfswing—and equipment—in order to hit the ball as far as they can most of the time

PGA TOUR PROFESSIONAL AT THE TOP

On left you see the look of the average PGA Tour Professional at the top of the swing, a player who is not concerned with distance production off the tee. The major points to notice are:

Wider stance: Promotes more balance and more controlled foot and leg action

Flexed rear knee: Keeps the hips from over-rotating en route to the top

Minimal hip rotation to the top: Helps create the X factor, or torque, between the upper and lower body turns to the top

Extreme width of the arms: Helps widen the arc of the swing and keeps the arm-swing shorter for more accuracy

Big shoulder turn at the top: Coupled with a restricted hip turn, this creates the torque between the upper and lower body, which creates distance through resistance

It is these five points that help the PGA Tour player maximize control and produce the necessary distance to compete with long hitters like Bubba and Phil. Thus, if distance isn't a concern for you, then you should strive to tighten your backswing motion in some or all of the manners listed above.

However, if you're aging and your distance production isn't what it used to be, I suggest modifying the points above. One thing to keep in mind: Whenever you allow your swing to become longer and more flowing to the top (think of the swing of the late Payne Stewart), you will find that though you can indeed produce more distance, your accuracy will be slightly compromised. But if you are a shorter hitter and can't reach the par 4s and 5s in regulation anyway, then who cares? In my opinion it's much more fun to be putting for birdie, even if you hit offline sometimes.

FREE BACKSWING TURN TO THE TOP

The player who wants more distance, but has lost the ability to turn to the top, should study the photo above and make note of the following fundamental changes that can be adopted:

Moderate stance width at address: Unlike a wide stance, which restricts motion to the top, a moderate stance makes turning easier. You'll have to experiment. The more narrow the stance, the easier and fuller the backswing turn will become; however, you can lose your balance if you overdo it.

Rear foot rotated slightly outward at address: Rotate your rear foot outward a few inches and it will free up your hips on the way back.

Rear knee and hip action to the top: Look at the photo. With your stance and rear foot in this position, you will be able to rotate your hips to the top—and it will feel more like it used to when swinging. You might even feel a slight straightening of the rear knee to the top; this is OK, as long as you don't overdo it. Having this lower-body freedom on the way back allows your shoulders to rotate fully.

Softer arms at the top: Notice I said "softer" not "collapsing" arms at the top. As flexibility wanes, you must get the club to the top further than before so you have time to produce distance on the way down. If you have a short, wide swing that keeps the clubhead vastly short of parallel at the top, then you will not have time to produce clubhead speed on the way down. Softer arms at the top will help.

Full-shoulder turn: Now that your stance, feet, hips and arms have been modified, you should feel like your back is to the target, just like you see on TV. This full-shoulder turn keeps the engine of the swing (your core) moving like a boat slinging a water skier (your arms) through the turn on the way down.

Change is inevitable as you get older, and in golf that means losing distance. Golf is no fun if you cannot reach the fairways or greens from the same tees as your usual playing partners. This loss of distance places too much pressure on your short game and putting in order to shoot a reasonable score, which means making a change is necessary. Try the changes I listed above, and I'm sure you will recover a few yards of that lost distance.

Shopping for others or buying for yourself—we've got you covered

Drivers, Irons & more

By Scott Martin

It's the holiday season and that means new golf equipment and new golf toys. And for you golfers living in warmer climates, it's an extra special time. On Christmas day, or as soon as you can get clearance, you can try out the new goodies. Here's what to request. Or give. Or buy with valuable gift card monies.

DRIVERS

The Ping G20 ($299) is popular with professionals and weekend golfers alike; Ping markets the driver as being for all levels. The key is the perimeter weighting and high launch with low spin. The clubhead is slightly heavier and uses a special stock shaft to counter the extra weight. The Taylor Made R11 ($399) is fully adjustable so you can change launch angle and face angle. Experiment with the club on, or immediately after, December 25, or hand it to an experienced clubfitter for maximum distance. The white crown and black clubface help to make the R11 especially easy to align. The Tour Edge Bazooka GeoMax 2 is a tremendous deal with a great street price (around $69). Tour Edge offers significant technology for a sensible price, and this club is proof of that; it provides almost all the technology of newer models. Power in the GeoMax 2 comes from four weighted cavities in the sole. One caveat: you'll have to hurry as it's being discontinued. You'll see a number of Tour players using the Titleist 910 D2 ($399). It's tempting to say this club is for better players; however, mid-handicappers will also benefit from features like the ultra-thin crown design that helps to promote a low center of gravity for medium/high launch for optimum distance.

HYBRIDS

Only five years ago it was rare to see a touring professional use a hybrid, but today, just about every pro uses one. If you haven't joined the hybrid club you may be convinced by one of these. The Cobra Baffler Rail H ($99) features a rail sole design that makes the club glide over good lies and creates stability from really bad lies. For the ultimate in hybrid technology, turn to the company that essentially started the revolution, Adams. The Adams a12 Pro ($199) has a hot face and improved forgiveness.

IRONS

A good New Year's resolution would be to hit more greens and that means new irons. If you're a better player, or if you're aiming to lower that handicap in 2012, try the Mizuno MP-69s ($899). These are classic muscleback irons but with some forgiveness; the grain-flow forging provides superb feel. If you want maximum forgiveness in your irons, go for the Callaway RAZR X irons ($699). Callaway calls its 'RAZR Technology' the next generation of iron design—providing excellent forgiveness with significant workability.

WEDGES & PUTTERS

On the rare occasions you miss a green, a solid wedge is a must. The beat rolls on at Cleveland with the Cleveland CG15 Oil Quench Tour Zip ($119), which has a traditional shape but is packed with impressive technology. This wedge has a laser-milled face for the maximum allowable spin, as well as the Cleveland Golf Zip Grooves. As we all know, whether we choose to admit it or not, the putter is ultimately the most important club in the bag. If you're really serious about lowering your scores and you want to give yourself a wonderful golf gift, then a custom-fitted putter is perfect. A good choice is the recently introduced Ping Karsten 1959 (about $99), with the classic Anser shape. The elastomer insert provides improved feel, but real results come from having the putter custom-fitted. Contact your local PGA professional for a fitting session.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

The holiday season is a good time to get juniors into the game, and most of the major manufacturers make excellent junior sets. A good one is the Callaway Golf X Junior SIX- Piece Set ($199), which provides the same technology as the adult X models.

If new golf apparel is on the agenda, the Tehama Women's V-Neck Argyle Sweater Vest ($55) has the classic argyle print. If there's a trip to Scotland or Ireland coming up in 2012, you'll need to invest in waterproofs. Start your quest for outerwear that will stand up to the worst the British Isles can throw at you with the FootJoy DryJoys Performance Light Jacket ($170); it comes with a two-year limited waterproof warranty.

Speaking of playing in the rain, or even just especially hot temps, golfers find that maintaining a solid grip can be difficult. The iTac2 Sports Grip comes from Australia, and it originated surprisingly in the sport of fitness pole dancing. iTac is made from organic beeswax and will not build up on the grips. It's a good stocking stuffer.

A few years ago, most golfers were hunting and pecking for yardage markers. Today, technology has provided golfers with several ways to find exact distances. The latest GPS data is right out of a James Bond movie: the Garmin Approach S1 Wrist Watch ($249) provides precise distances to the front, middle and back of the green—in a watch. It comes preloaded with 14,000 courses.

Enjoy the holiday season and the New Year, and remember to visit your local PGA or LPGA professional to help you improve your technique—and for top equipment fitting and advice.

And the 2011 Winners Are...

What makes a course the best of the best? That depends on your perspective. That's why each year Desert Golf Magazine goes to all kinds of golfers to ask which courses they love best and why. We talk to industry experts from directors of golf and private club managers to Tour professionals who play on the top tournament courses across the country. We interview amateurs and low-handicap golfers who compete in charity events on private, public and resort golf courses, and we get feedback from the professional writers who cover America's golf courses year in and year out. Of course, we also go out and try our own favorite courses firsthand in an effort to break the inevitable ties and settle differences of opinion. It's a tough job, but somebody has to do it!

Here then is the 15th annual Best of the Desert, the Top 10 courses in three distinctive desert regions: Arizona, California and Nevada. In each state, the golf courses are divided into three categories: public, private and resort. That means whether your favorite course is one you play every day or one you discovered on a desert vacation, it just might be on this year's list.

Realty

Andalusia at Coral Mountain, La Quinta, Calif.

Three States, Three Golf Communities

By Jenell Fontes

If you're researching for that perfect golf-course home, read on!

Andalusia at Coral Mountain, La Quinta, Calif.

Is it time to buy? That is the question of the day, and the answer lies somewhere in the fine print. It is time to do your research and to have a clear and focused objective regarding property ownership. It is a great time to pick up a steal of a deal, but caveat emptor. Many country-club communities look great from the outside; however, in 2011 it is hard to find a club that has not been hit by this tough economy. That means it is important to investigate the financial solvency of the club before you purchase property. Will promised services continue to be available in the future? How does the club plan to make it through the next few years and beyond? Those are questions to ask before signing any papers. That said, there are communities and clubs to consider across our desert region.

and flowers embellish the landscape of the courses and community, and the 18th green welcomes players with a monumental rock waterfall.

Real Estate Opportunities

The magnificent homes of this development feature many upgrades. There are six single-family designs, each with three distinctive architectural styles. The gracious three- and four-bedroom homes range from approximately 2,900 to 5,000 square feet and feature elegant entry courtyards, covered patios, open Great Rooms and towering 12-foot sliding glass doors that offer spectacular views of the golf course. Prices are in the $1 to $2 million range, and there are both new and resale options available. Many of the resale Andalusia at Coral Mountain is the premier desert development in La Quinta. The lush Mediterranean-style landscaping and breathtaking views of the dramatic Santa Rosa Mountains greet you as you enter the gates of this spectacular property. The ambiance, as the name suggests, is that of southern Spain. This club features a private championship golf course by architect Rees Jones and a second course that is still in design.

Golf Course

The 18-hole, par 72, Rees Jones East Course features 7,521 yards of golf from the longest tees. More than 80,000 plants, mature trees options available are fully furnished. Typical of recent listings is a bank-owned 3,551-square-foot home with three bedrooms and four baths plus a den. Built in 2006, it closed escrow for $975,000. The home featured a fabulous entertaining backyard with a salt-water pool and many upgrades throughout.

Current listings range from $787,000 to $2.2 million and as of press time there are 23 active properties. A short-sale property recently listed at $787,000. Located on the golf course, it had three bedrooms, four baths and was built in 2006. Fabulous living spaces included a chef's kitchen and versatile Great Room plan; other features were a detached 277-square-foot casita with one bed and a bath, plus a great backyard featuring a pool, spa, built-in BBQ and fire pit. andalusiaatcoralmountain.com

Pine Canyon, Flagstaff, Ariz.

Where upscale meets down to earth

Located in the high country of Flagstaff, Ariz., the rustic feel of this private golf community transports members and guests back to a simpler time when things were built to last and quality was a priority. This well-planned, family-oriented community offers many residential choices. Pine Canyon sits on 600 acres at a noticeably cooler elevation of 7,000 feet. On the five-minute ride from downtown Flagstaff, you will be transported from the normally hot desert floor to a mini mountain paradise.

Golf Course

The Jay Morrish-designed course was ranked by Golf Digest as one of the Top 10 New Courses in 2005 and 4th Best in Arizona. The Pine Canyon Club offers a scenic, player-friendly layout that boasts broad fairways, open-entry greens and an enjoyable year-round climate. Facilities include an all-encompassing practice area with putting greens and a magnificent driving range. Play these meticulously designed rolling fairways to find peaceful ponds and trout-stocked lakes surrounded by heavenly scented pine trees and natural mountain foliage. You can actually take a break and go fishing on the 18th hole, or check out the 19th hole, aptly named Double or Nothing, where you may be able to win back any losses you sustained on the round.

Clubhouse & Facilities

The Pine Canyon Clubhouse won the 2007 Best in the West Gold Nugget Grand Award for Best Public/Private Recreational Use Facility, sponsored by the Pacific Coast Builders Conference. According to Warren Smith, President of Pine Canyon, “You’ll appreciate the hand-scraped hickory floors, six fireplaces made from Telluride Stone, our 1,700-bottle wine room and a complete fitness center with flat screens at all cardio machines.” The club is state-of-the art and the service is Five Star, and there’s a strong commitment to the membership to provide quality services and competitive prices, especially in the spa and in food service.

There are a slew of amenities for members. Camp Pine Canyon was launched in a portable tent five years ago. It has grown into a $6.5 million facility with a kids’ retreat, locker rooms, a poolside cafe, three proven their commitment to members and to the club. Residents can choose from many different styles of ownership in a variety of communities on this expansive property, including custom homes, townhomes, condominiums and the charming Deer Creek Cabins. Custom homes range from $849,000 to $3 million and are exquisite. Other options include Mountain Vista condominiums, which range from 1,556 to 1,852 square feet in four different floor plans. Prices start at $450,000. Elk Pass townhomes range from 1,560 to over 3,300 square feet and start at $495,000, while the Creekside Village homes ranging from 2,300 to over 3,300 square feet sold out in 2009 and are now available for resale.

Deer Creek Cabins is the newest development at Pine Canyon and is located in a private enclave that leads to tranquil hiking trails and a future park. These charming, rustic three- and four-bedroom cabins are approximately 2,300 to 3,000 square feet and are designed to complement today's lifestyle preferences of rustic yet elegant design. Homes feature natural stone, iron detailing, lodge-style interior and exterior wood beams and expanded decks. pinecanyon.net

"The foreclosure crisis will provide buyers with opportunities to get into the market at a discount this year said Sean O'Toole of ForeclosureRadar.com. "Real estate owned" properties, which have been repossessed by banks, often generate aggressive interest from buyers but don't differ a great deal from a typical sale. He also recommends that anyone looking to purchase a foreclosed home find a real estate agent specializing in distressed sales."

BOARD CERTIFIED PROSTHODONTIST

CRAIG CONROW DDS MS FACP
Cosmetic, Restorative & Implant Dentistry

A Specialist in Crowns, Veneers, Dentures, Implants & Full Mouth Restorations

MEET DR. CRAIG CONROW

A Prosthodontist is recognized by the American Dental Association as a "specialist" in restoring and replacing teeth. With three additional years of education and training beyond Dental School, Prosthodontists are uniquely qualified to provide full or partial mouth restorations. The best long term value is getting it done right the first time. Dr. Craig Conrow is eminently qualified through his extensive post-graduate studies, and sixteen years of full time patient care to provide you with exceptional dental care whether your needs are simple or complex.

Patient Testimonials

Dr. Conrow, it is rare to find a doctor with such care and dedication to his patients. I am both grateful and appreciative. I am always pleased to refer patients to you, as I truly believe that you are the most qualified, conscientious and overall best dentist in Southern California. — Paul C. Watson

Dr. Conrow, we want to thank you for all the exquisite work and caring you have given us over the years. You have helped correct years of problems and given us a higher quality of life. We are ever grateful for your dedication to quality and your devotion to care for your patients. You have made our lives better because of your exceptional talent and your genuine interest in the well-being of your patient. — Carol & Welton Whann

Dr. Conrow, imagine a dentist referring a dentist to another dentist. Well, that's exactly how I became a patient of Dr. Craig Conrow. I practiced dentistry for over twenty years before I moved to the desert. When I needed emergency dental service a dentist friend of mine referred me to another dental specialist, Dr. Craig Conrow. That's a lot of dentist referring dentist. The care and service I received in Dr. Conrow's office was extraordinary. We dentist know when we experience quality dentistry, competent and professional care from the dental staff. That's exactly what I found in Dr. Conrow's practice. Sometimes I think that only a dentist can fully appreciate the work of another dentist, but my mouth feels and looks great and you don't have to be a dentist to appreciate that. — Carol L. The fabulous things they most likely do not already have

For the aviation lover

The ICON A5 sport aircraft

For the thrill seeker who likes aviation with a novelty twist, ICON's A5 sport aircraft is the ideal gift. The ICON A5 was designed to deliver an amazing and safe flying experience, but also to inspire in the way great sports cars do. After years of development with some of the world's best aerospace engineers and industrial designers, ICON Aircraft has released the first of its sport planes, the sleek ICON A5. Sport planes are designed for amateur pilots who have a minimum of a Sport Pilot license—a certification requiring only 20 in-flight training hours. This two-seater amphibious airplane is trailerable, has retractable wings and can run on automobile fuel. The A5 is a bold yet elegant design that communicates beauty, performance, safety and, most importantly, fun. Because it's so new and production is limited (starting in 2012) purchasing an A5 may require some time on a waitlist; however, reviews say this plane is worth it. $139,000. iconaircraft.com

Limited Edition Whiskey

The Dalmore, a fine malt whiskey, is a gift perfectly suited for the discerning whiskey connoisseur. The Dalmore Astrum was set to cask on the final day of the year 1966. This spirit spent most of the following four decades in American white oak casks from Kentucky before being transferred to oak Matusalem casks. Limited to 500 bottles, each is presented in its own black lacquer box with the signature Dalmore stag. The Dalmore collection includes a variety of whiskeys that match every personality and price point. Master Distiller Richard Paterson is known the world over for his blending talents and for the characteristics he teases from the whisky as it ages in barrels. $3,750 per bottle. thedalmore.com

Vega Stewart X7 Lithium Golf Trolley

The new X7 Lithium Remote Controlled Golf Trolley by Vega Golf is definitely a luxury most golfers have not experienced, thus it would make a phenomenal gift. Featuring a state-of-the-art lithium battery, light and powerful, it ensures the trolley can run up to 30 percent more efficiently during a round of golf. Sleek and stylish in design, the aerodynamic trolley collapses for easy storage in your car and garage. It comes with a protective neoprene case for the battery, and a custom-developed battery charger to help keep the battery in top condition. One thing's for sure: when on the golf course, this will be a conversation starter. Look even sharper with a Vega Golf bag and custom clubs aboard the trolley. $1,987. vega-golf.com

SensoGlove

Golf is tough at the beginning, and even after years of practice, mastering the game remains a challenge for many of us. How about a glove to help? SensoGlove claims to do just that—improve the golf game with built-in digital sensors that continuously read the user's grip pressure to ensure a consistently accurate, smooth and powerful golf swing for greater distance and lower scores. Made of supple leather, SensoGlove has a small, sweat-proof 1.2-inch LED digital monitor that analyzes the pressure of the swing through highly responsive sensors placed throughout the glove. Just swing the golf club to receive real-time audio and visual feedback at 80 times per second. The small sensors warn you if you exceed your target level of grip pressure, and even show you which fingers are gripping too tightly so you can adjust accordingly. It assists with how to hold the club so you can avoid the instinctive "death grip" and achieve a faster learning curve for the game. Available in men and women's sizes for left- and right-handed golfers. $89. sensoglove.com

Dining in the Valley

Desert Golf Magazine serves up the latest restaurant news

The heart of the desert's high season is upon us, and with the throngs of new and returning residents, the Coachella Valley beats with full fervor. Ready to serve and aiming to please, the region's vibrant dining scene reacts in kind.

Leon's Bar & Grill couldn't be kept down for long; just weeks after the popular eatery parted ways with its dual locations at the Indian Canyons Golf Resort, the restaurant re-opened under the same name at the Desert Princess Country Club in Cathedral City. Capri Restaurant experienced similar fortitude. Briefly closed after more than three decades of operation, the venerable, family-run Italian establishment found new life with an October opening at the Miracle Springs Resort & Spa in Desert Hot Springs.

Cafe des-Beaux-arts

Dining debuts complement the relocations. In Palm Springs, The Lobster House opened in October, taking over the space once inhabited by the original desert Tony Roma's on South Palm Canyon Drive. Downtown also welcomed the arrival of Woody's Burger and Beer on North Indian Canyon Drive. The retro diner serves up gourmet burgers along with live music in its back room. On the other side of the Coachella Valley, casual fare can now be enjoyed at Bobby's Detroit Coney Island in La Quinta—the moniker gives a hint as to the restaurant's specialty. As noted in the previous issue of Desert Golf Magazine, work has been underway at Piero's Pizza Vino. The new El Paseo creation from Ristorante Mamma Gina owner Piero Pierattoni is scheduled to open in December.

Dressing up was also the order of autumn as three popular Valley restaurants enjoyed fall makeovers: The Kaiser Grill in the heart of downtown Palm Springs underwent an entire redesign to awe diners with an updated, open look coupled with an overhauled, sustainable menu. In Palm Desert, Tommy Bahama's Restaurant and Grill took on a fresh look with oak flooring, a new patio setting and an expanded bar that promises to enhance the already celebrated rum selection. On the east end, The Adobe Grill at La Quinta Resort & Club went further south (in a good way) with an enhanced menu and fresh interiors that pay homage to Mexican culture.

Ready for the desert's high season? Don't miss out on these valley favorites.

Cafe des-Beaux-arts

Meaning "Fine Arts Café," this melding of French-Mediterranean dining and choice artwork from local galleries offers the perfect canvas on which to paint your palate. The climate-controlled patio is an ideal El Paseo perch. Enjoy live music in the bar on Wednesday and Friday nights and be sure to try the Bouillabaisse, among the best in the desert. (73-640 El Paseo, Palm Desert; 760.346.0669)

Castelli's Ristorante

The Coachella Valley has no shortage of excellent Italian cuisine, and Castelli's is a top contender on the list. With entertainment nightly and environs perfect for either an intimate evening or party gathering, the venerable restaurant has been welcoming diners for over 23 years. Fettuccine Alfredo lovers know why they should dine out here. (73-098 Highway 111, Palm Desert; 760.773.3365)

Castelli's Ristorante

Firecliff Restaurant

Few places in the desert do a versatile, contemporary California menu like Firecliff. Nightly piano greets diners for both indoor and patio seating, and the menu is replete with can't-miss selections. Among the favorites: Colorado Rack of Lamb, Tea Smoked Duck Breast and the Sandabs. (73-725 El Paseo, Palm Desert; 760.773.6565)

IW Club

Whether you arrive for dining or golf (or both), know that The Indian Wells Golf Resort spares no expense when it comes to the power of presentation. With a modern design of steel and glass meshed with the cozy vibe of leather and wood, this is one of the Valley's most inspired clubhouses. "The panoramic vistas from both our south and north terraces are one-of-a-kind," says Chad Johnson, director of food and beverage at Indian Wells. "Whether you want to look at the mountains or two of the finest golf courses in the Valley, those are available from lunch, Happy Hour and dinner."

The menu reveals equal character, combining seasonal offerings with a dynamite desert selection.

"Our menu offers tremendous value for the guest in terms of the portioning, the pricing and the diversity," Johnson adds. "And one of the things we're most excited about is pastry chef Juan Morales; he brings an amazing array of new and fresh deserts to the IW Club." (44-500 Indian Wells Lane, Indian Wells; 760.834.3800)

Lavender Bistro

The newly renovated lounge meshes with the most pleasing patio on the east end of the Valley to make Lavender's presentation one of the most inviting in the region. Organic ingredients abound on a creative menu that should be first enjoyed with an order of the Chef's risotto of the day. Wine lovers take note: Tuesday is half-priced night. (78-073 Calle Barcelona, La Quinta; 760.564.5353)

Oceans

Sporting waves of international options, an excellent wine list and consistently applauded service, Oceans is known as a secret gem to many locals. Specials are offered nightly and pricing doesn't put a hook in the wallet. "We are famous for our abalone and lobster," says Oceans' owner Pete Bakir. "And there's always something great from the meat specials, from veal chops to duck, lamb and chicken dishes. We are eclectic, with our menu reaching all over the world." Pacifica Seafood Restaurant

Pacifica Seafood Restaurant

Pacifica's boast of providing diners "The freshest seafood in the desert" is more than a tagline. The smart, upscale eatery takes in fresh catch daily and then transforms it into one of the Valley's most innovative menus. A superb wine list pairs with your surf or turf selection, while Pacifica's Vodka Bar offers bottles from around the globe. "We have the first, and the only, international vodka bar in the Coachella Valley," says Pacifica managing partner Mitch Epstein. "We feature 142 different vodkas, with 20 countries represented. The cool thing about our Vodka Bar is that every vodka we serve—no matter how you want it—is $6. And Happy Hour runs nightly in the Vodka Bar, going all night on both Wednesday and Sunday."

The imbibing draw at Pacifica doesn't end there. "Every wine on our Wine Spectator-awarded list is half-priced every Tuesday," Epstein notes. "So if you come in and want a bottle of Opus One, it's half-priced. I've got close to 200 wines on the list, and the half-priced night is for every bottle we carry." Come for the Happy Hour and stay for the dinner. Mamma Gina's Enoteca Bar runs food and drink specials from 4:30 p.m. to close, every night of the week. Let the beloved staff segue your visit from aperitif to main course, and enjoy a thorough choice of pasta, meat and fish options. A fantastic wine list offers more than 200 selections to complement your meal. (73-705 El Paseo, Palm Desert; 760.568.9898)

Vicky's of Santa Fe

Premier architecture, local artwork and live jazz set the scene for one of the Valley's most impressive dining spaces—and that's before you even sit down. The succinct, reasonably priced menu at Vicky's has been engaging desert guests for more than two decades. Give a thorough review of the "house favorites" before pairing your meal with a selection from the celebrated wine list. (45-100 Club Drive, Indian Wells; 760.345.9770)

Be certain to reserve a table for these popular restaurants to ensure that a welcome chair is waiting for you after a day of absorbing all the pleasures the desert has to offer.

The Nest

Over the course of nearly five decades, the fun has never stopped at The Nest. Among the desert's most popular gathering spots since 1965, the eatery's Piano Bar Lounge is open nightly to entertain the eclectic range of guests with music from across the decades. Be sure to inquire about menu favorites, though one can never lose with the 8 oz. petit filet. (75-188 Highway 111, Indian Wells; 760.346.2314)

The Best of Boca Raton

Florida's premier resort destination offers much on and off the golf course

Photography by Tom Shelby

Boca Raton promotes itself as a “city for all seasons,” and if its beaches are any indication, who can argue? The pristine beaches draw visitors in every month of the year. But Boca Raton also has enviable weather, polo and, of course, phenomenal golf.

Boca, as its referred to by locals and fans, is a charming city in Palm Beach County, Fla., perfectly located along the Atlantic coastline between Palm Beach to the north and Fort Lauderdale to the south. In addition to its golf courses, Boca also has incredible cultural facilities, including the Norton Art Museum, Boca Raton Museum of Art, Centre for the Arts at Mizner Park, the Caldwell Theatre and the Boca Ballet Theatre.

It’s not only North American visitors who find their way to this upscale, sophisticated resort town. Tourists flock from all over the world to enjoy the incredible lifestyle in Boca, and there’s no question that the crown jewel is the Boca Raton Resort & Club.

This property is a Waldorf Astoria Resort designed by legendary architect Addison Mizner in 1926. Known worldwide for its pink buildings and luxurious accommodations, The Boca Raton Resort & Club offers every amenity imaginable, from its indulgent Moroccan spa with fitness center to private beach, marina, golf, tennis and virtually every resort activity imaginable.

Boca Raton Resort is actually five separate resorts within one property. There are private condominiums at One Thousand Ocean Beach with its 52 beach villas, residences and penthouse options. Also on property are the Boca Bungalows offering residential-style accommodations, and the Cloister guestrooms with luxurious guestrooms and suites. The 27-story Tower features sweeping views of the estate grounds and championship golf courses, while the Boca Beach Club offers 203 deluxe guest rooms and nine suites on a half-mile stretch of private beach. Finally, there’s the Yacht Club, the resort’s newest wing, with 112 luxury guestrooms including seven suites with an exclusive concierge. Each resort property features amazing accommodations and distinctive amenities.

Dining options abound. With more than 10 restaurants to choose from, guests can enjoy every dining experience from casual to elegant. Choices range from the freshest sushi to catch of the day, fine wines, burgers and beer and an ice cream parlor with choices available for the youngsters and the young at heart. Simply put, the Boca Raton Resort features an array of superb restaurants directed by some of the world's most talented chefs.

While the resort has facilities and activities to appeal to sports lovers of all kinds, special to the property are two championship golf courses: the Country Club Course and the Resort Course. The Country Club Course is a par 72 at 6,585 yards, and the Resort Course is a par 71 at 6,253 yards. Both are extremely challenging to amateurs and seasoned players alike. And for those of you looking to improve your game at any level, the resort also offers the Dave Pelz Scoring Game School on property.

Home to approximately 200,000 residents, Boca Raton is one of Florida's hottest destinations. With historic buildings, universities, upscale shopping centers and numerous parks, residents and tourists alike enjoy Boca's small city atmosphere. And if you haven't been in a few years, there's much new to discover and enjoy.

Coupe, sedan or sport utility vehicle? You decide

The Acura ZDX is a shape shifter. You want the power of a sports car? Buckle into a 300-horsepower V-6 and enjoy. You want the spaciousness and comfort of an SUV? Take a run up to the mountains and put the all-wheel drive to the test.

Acura's first-ever female designer, Michelle Christensen, brought the ZDX to life in 2009. Christensen balanced the masculine and feminine design elements well in the aggressive front end and rounded rear fenders. The six-speed automatic has so many options to choose from, you'll wonder if you're driving something that came straight out of a James Bond movie.

In its new design studio in Torrance, Calif., Acura went to work using a new team approach. The interior and exterior teams worked together. It seems like common sense, but this doesn't happen often in the auto industry. The result is a car that drives like a roadster when you want it and like an ocean liner when you're in the mood for sailing.

Quiet, responsive and sporty are thoughts that might come to you as you drive the ZDX around town. The Integrated Dynamics System (IDS) system engages shock absorbers in order to customize the drive to your demands. In comfort mode, the ZDX requires less effort to steer and rides like a magic carpet. In sport mode, you're ready to race Le Mans.

Three hundred horsepower doesn't have to accompany a car with a perpetual appetite for fuel. The ZDX is getting 23 mpg on the highway with approximately the same wheelbase and curb weight of a Porsche Cayenne. The ZDX has a 21-gallon gas tank that allows for a mega trip without having to refuel. All-wheel drive comes standard and makes the ride exceptionally sticky in the corners and snow.

Don't let the coupe fool you. You can easily fit a set of skis and snowboards the ZDX. This four-door has rear folding seats and enough cargo room to make a trip to the slopes or the golf course easy. The leather-stitched dash along with the glass roof gives the ZDX an unprecedented style factor that isn't typical Acura branding.

"The ZDX is like nothing you have ever seen before from Acura," Jeff Conrad, vice president of Acura sales, said in a statement. "It combines the best attributes of a coupe, a sedan and a sport utility—all wrapped in a beautifully sculpted package—that will attract an entirely new luxury customer to the Acura brand."

The style element is enhanced by the fact that it isn't a boxy machine devoid of frills like so many other crossovers that have died a painful death. Rather than load the car with auxiliary power jacks and faux camping accessories, Acura took time to deliver features that actually get used. The navigation system with real-time traffic and Zagat reviews is a cornerstone of the operating system. A sound system with a 15GB hard drive and iPod connection makes it practical and user-friendly. An optional Active Sound Control system reduces road noise by as much as 10dB using opposing sound frequencies through the audio-system speakers. These features put the price tag around $56,000

The safety of the ZDX is the piece of this performance pie that makes it even sweeter. The Collision Mitigation Braking System could save lives. Powered by a radar transmitter mounted in the ZDX grille, a signal is constantly transmitted and the return signal is evaluated, determining the distance and closing speed to vehicles that lie directly ahead. If the distance between you and the vehicle ahead reduces, a warning signal is given to alert you to slow down. If the ZDX predicts that a collision is imminent, the seat belts are tightened and brakes applied immediately.

The ZDX is also loaded with Acura's blind-spot information system. The feature monitors the back half of the ZDX where it is difficult for drivers to see other vehicles. When another car is traveling in that area, an indicator illuminates on that side of the ZDX on the windshield pillar. Nothing annoying, but enough to keep you from having a very bad day.

The ZDX has the power and grace to keep you comfortable and enjoying your daily commute. Do you want power or grace? I choose BOTH.

Put the Shorts Away,

Winter is Here

Be stylish and warm this winter in bold golf apparel that makes a statement

For golfers who live in the southwest, winter is all about freshly seeded golf courses, 70-degree temperatures and wonderful winter fashions. Yet before we go into this season's brightly colorful golf apparel, there's an accessory on the market that is making a big splash: gloves.

No, not your typical leather golf glove but gloves to keep your hands warm. Finally, designers have realized that in the cold desert mornings, we can only use so many hand warmers.

Cart Mitts by Hornungs are the stylish solution for cool weather on and off the course. These one-size-fits-all, red, fully insulated gloves have a comfort elastic wristband for easy on and off. Best of all, they fit over your golf-gloved hands while still allowing free finger movement. $22.95 in most golf stores.

As for gloves designed for the course, consider Footjoy WinterSof Men's Winter Golf Glove. Warm and windproof, these gloves have a lightweight fleece insulation that protects your hands in cool or windy weather, providing maximum warmth without bulk. Footjoy products can be found online at footjoy.com and in most pro shops. About $19.99.

Now that our hands are warm, let's play golf in this season's most stylish winter fashions, which are nothing if not boldly colored. The palette is broad, ranging from multiple hues of green to magenta, grey and basic black. Whichever color attracts your eye, one trend seen across all lines is a tailored, streamlined look as designers appeal to a younger generation of golfer. Even apparel for seniors is looking a bit more streamlined while still providing maximum comfort.

Sligo is a bright star in the golf apparel business, offering consumers a European line of trousers that stands out on the course. According to Chapeau Noir Golf, an online publication solely dedicated to the examination and critique of golf apparel, Sligo Mint Plaid Golf Trousers are the pants to be seen in this season. These straight-legged trousers offer a comfortable, two-way stretch fabric with colorful detail. Mint plaid runs down the outside of each leg and across the top of each rear pocket, while black piping on the legs adds additional eye-catching pizzazz. Priced at $95.

Because it's not all about your pants, Sligo also offers a variety of tailored sweaters with bold stripes, the Digitile pattern and, of course, basic black.

With their avant-garde Scandinavian look, Sligo sweaters are versatile and classic yet with the brilliant touches that will get you noticed. Chapeau Noir top choices: the Brighton, Digitile Hoffland, Matthews and Striped Sweater. Available in most pro shops and at sligowear.com, these sweaters are priced from $75 to $90.

What Sligo is to trendsetters, Chervò to the sophisticated dress-code crowd. Chervò offers garments made of textiles that are ideal for both golfing and everyday active life, a look the company refers to as tech-chic. Colors for the fall collection include dark brown mixed with beige, Cyprus green and plum for men, and for ladies, sour cherry and purple. Chervò offers four distinctive lines: Tuscany Countryside, evoking the Tuscan landscape in the heart of autumn; Modern Sport Design, dedicated to functionality and high-level technical performance; Woods & Iron, the everlasting elegance of the classic golf style; and Batik, geometric fantasies in delicate chromatic scales for sophisticated tastes. For prices and outlets visit chervo.it

This winter is all about a tailored style with splashes of color, stripes, geometric shapes, plaids and, of course, warm hands.
