On Cover: Bob and Dolores Hope

What a great start to the season! The weather has been exceptional and the courses are in pristine condition and ready for play. Our holiday issue is always fun, and once again this year we give you our annual gift guide and a holiday event listing to help make your holiday shopping and celebrating the best it can be.

Of course, the excitement that surrounds the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and FBR Open also makes for great events as well as great golf. We are proud to once again feature Bob Hope on our cover, for the first time with his leading lady, Dolores Hope. This past year, Mrs. Hope made the single largest donation in the history of the LPGA—$1 million dollars! The Hopes have always supported golf and this donation should not come as any surprise. Mrs. Hope played quite a bit of golf herself over the years with great friends such as Andy Williams and Dinah Shore, to name a few.

This year's Bob Hope gala will feature crooner and heartthrob Michael Bolton, and tournament organizers continue to work on parties and gallery-friendly functions to set the event apart from any other.

Over the years there have been many great courses in the tournament rotation. This year, SilverRock Resort in La Quinta finally gets its chance to shine as part of the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic. There have been ups and downs preparing the course for PGA approval, but it's now primed and ready to welcome the Tour. Many of us who have played SilverRock know that Tour players are in for a treat.

As always, we are excited to bring you this edition of Desert Golf Magazine, and we hope you enjoy it.

The staff and I wish you all a safe and happy holiday season.

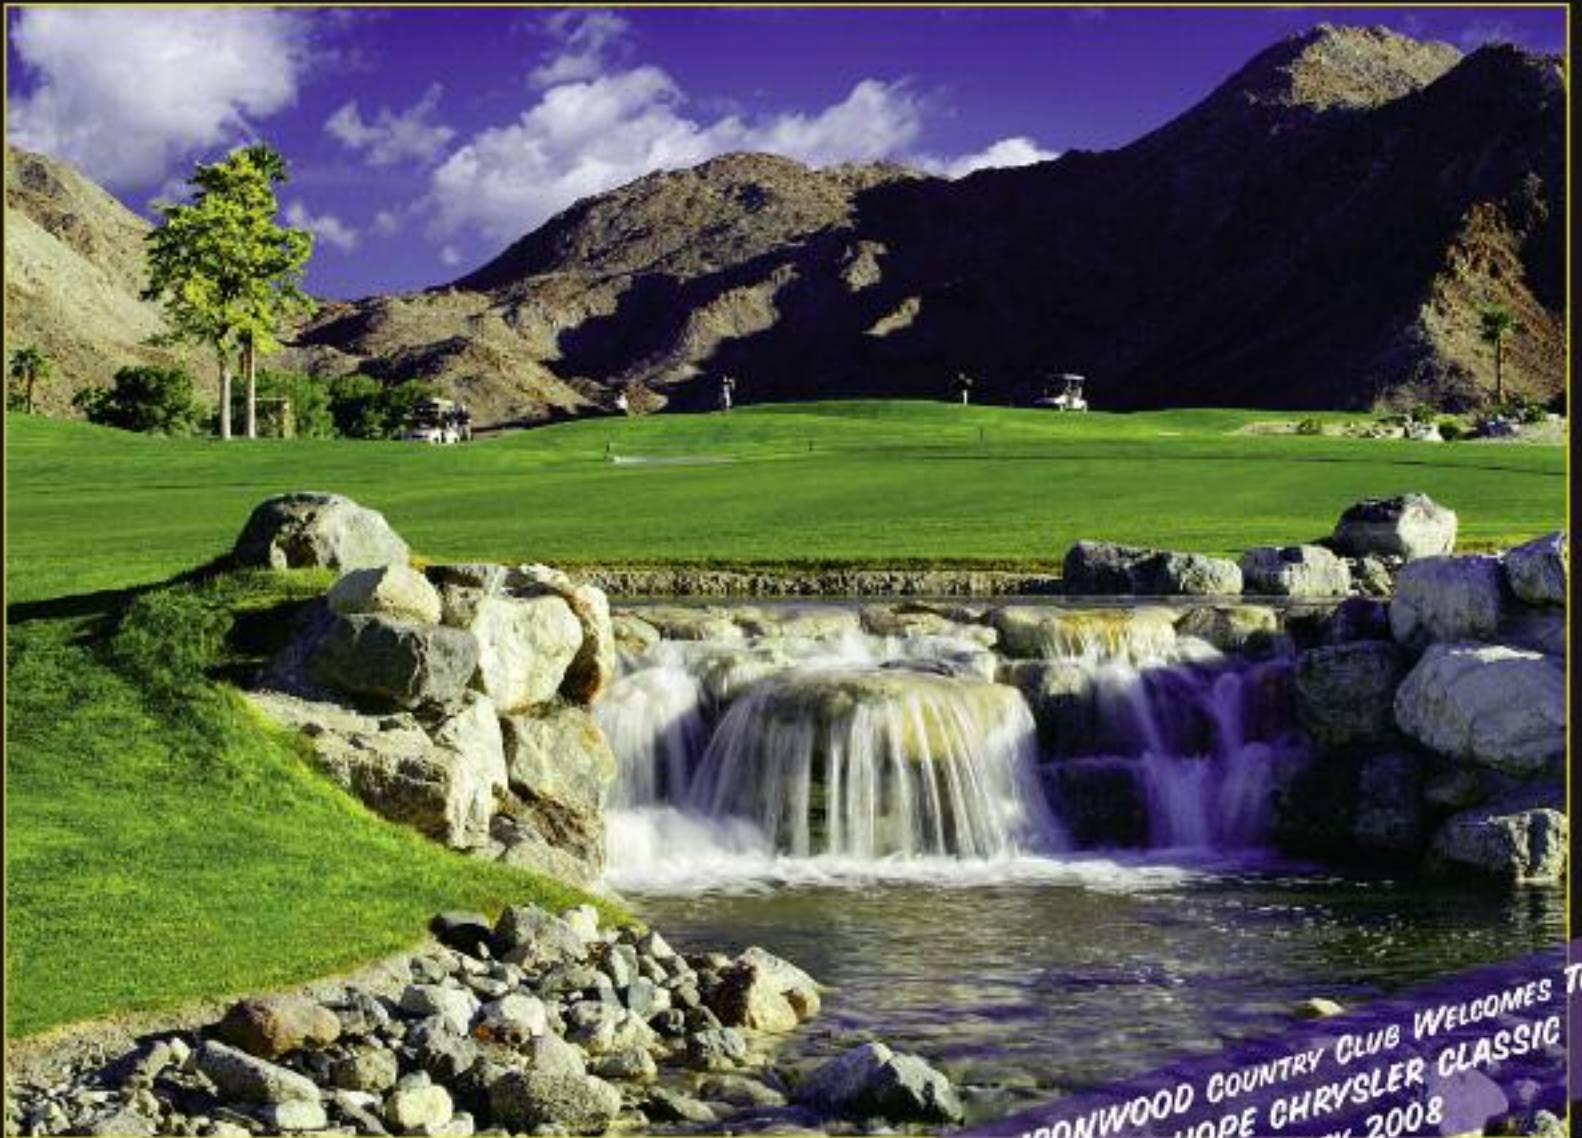

Sincerely,

Timothy J. Pade

Bob Hope Chrysler Classic

THE MEMORIES JUST KEEP ON COMING

BY STEVE TRIVETT

IF YOU LISTEN CAREFULLY, YOU CAN HEAR THE HUMMING OF
THE FAMILIAR TUNE DRIFTING ON THE WIND THROUGH THE CANYONS, ACROSS THE LAKES AND OVER THE CACTUS
“THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES”

There is no mistaking that the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic has changed in its more than 40-year history, but just like in everything else, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

The Palm Springs Golf Classic was first played in 1960. The winner that year was a young, occasionally wild-hitting player from Pennsylvania with the forearms of a blacksmith and more charisma than he could load into the trailer he and his wife pulled from tournament stop to tournament stop.

That player was a 30-year-old Arnold Palmer. He wowed the golf world with his hard-charging finishes and never believed he was out of a tournament until the last chance had been taken and the last putt holed.

Flash forward to the final round of the 2007 edition of the tournament. Charlie Hoffman stood on the 17th tee of the Classic Course—a layout fittingly designed by Palmer—not in the lead, his shoulder-length hair whipping in the wind that had raked the course for the entire final round. Doing his best Arnold Palmer impression, Hoffman simply birdied the 17th and eagled the 18th to get into a playoff with John Rollins, who had finished with a birdie of his own on the final hole.

In sudden death, it was Hoffman who found sudden victory when he birdied the 18th the second time around while Rollins, who had found a fairway bunker off the tee and couldn't go for the green on the over-the-water par-5 on his second shot, missed his birdie attempt from 30 feet. The win was the first for Hoffman on the PGA Tour.

“I was definitely the survivor out there today,” Hoffman said. “Those were the hardest conditions I've played in for sure.”

Hoffman's 90-hole total (the tournament is played over five days) was a 17-under-par 343—just 11 shots higher than the tournament record set by Joe Durant in 2001 and the highest winning total since Steve Jones won the event at 17-under in 1989.

Just how hard was it out there? Consider this: Three-time major winner Phil Mickelson carded two double bogeys and five bogeys in his final round of 78, and that included three shots finding the water in a span of three holes. Mickelson even lost his hat to wind at one point and the elusive headgear had to be run down by a photographer who was following the left-handed superstar.

"You are standing over a putt and you are worrying about the ball moving," Rollins said of the conditions. "And you doubt your yardage on every shot."

Englishman Justin Rose finished third, one shot behind Hoffman and Rollins, just missing a birdie putt on the 18th and a spot in the playoff. "When [the wind] blows 40 mph, it's a whole different kettle of fish," Rose said. "It does become survival."

But golf, even combat golf, is just part of the scene of the tournament that changed overnight when Bob Hope attached his name to the event in 1965. Hope, an avid and more talented player than he would let on over the years, not only threw his support behind the event, he invited a few of his friends from the world of entertainment to come to the party.

And party they did...and still do. George Lopez has taken over as the event host. Samuel L. Jackson plays every year. So does

Clint Eastwood. If you watch carefully you might catch sight of Kevin Costner, Yogi Berra or Justin Timberlake. The tourney not only draws the best players in the world, it attracts golf nuts from every walk of life.

And once again this year, the event will have a new look as Silver Rock Resort, another Palmer design, joins the course rotation. SilverRock plays to a lengthy 7,578 yards—look out for the wind again—and includes three par-5s that stretch more than 600 yards and four par-4s that surpass 470 yards.

Given all those factors it's not surprising that the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic draws some of the highest television ratings of the year, especially when much of the rest of the country is still buried under winter snow. But golf—at all talent levels—and beautiful scenery aside, the real winner over the long and storied history of the event is charity.

Since 1960 the tournament has generated more than $44 million for non-profit organizations in the Coachella Valley, including the Eisenhower Medical Center (the former president played in the event), Shelter from the Storm and the Boys and Girls Club.

And should the wind blow once again, another purpose will be served: It will carry the humming of that unforgettable song and the memories of that unforgettable man even farther across the desert.

Make a Statement with Your Golf Cart

BY SCOTT MARTIN

THERE ARE MANY GOOD REASONS FOR THE SERIOUS GOLFER TO OWN A CART. PUT YOUR PERSONAL STYLE ON WHEELS AND TAKE IT ON AND OFF THE COURSE

When it comes to golf carts, everything is possible to Kim Larsen, president of Larsen Golf Cars, Inc.

"Nothing is outrageous," says Larsen, whose La Quinta, Calif. company specializes in custom golf carts for a clientele that includes professional athletes, movie stars and captains of industry. When a Kenworth Truck executive wanted a cart that looked like, well, a Kenworth truck, Larsen was only too happy to oblige. The extravagant is merely normal and too much of everything is just enough.

While many of Larsen's clients are famous and/or wealthy, many are simply keen golfers who want something a little different from the usual golf cart. A look at Larsen's website, larsengolfcars.com, shows that the company offers four base models; it's up to the buyer to go from there, and many opt for something totally unique.

It doesn't take a mathematical genius to work out that a golfer who plays several days a week can quickly recoup the cost of a golf cart. This tactic may annoy a golf club that generates a useful $10 to $25 cart fee from each round, but for the golfer who prefers riding over walking, a personal golf cart is not only a wise investment but a lot of fun. In many golf communities, a golf cart is a great way to get from the sauna to the bar and all points in between. And for the golfer who is part of a regular group, it's fun to show off a customized cart.

The most inexpensive way to own a golf cart is to purchase a used model from a dealer. In the Palm Springs/Palm Desert area, try All Custom Golf Carts (760.325.0070) or Martin Mobile Golf Carts (760.346.4197). In the Valley of the Sun, try Amek Custom Golf Cars (623.434.0238) or Southwest Golf Cars (623.536.5625).

Buying a used golf cart is like buying a used car. Ask friends at the club who have bought used golf carts about the reputation of the dealer from whom they bought theirs, and note that there is always room to negotiate over price, service, warranty and options. Gas or electric? This usually depends on terrain. If your course is hilly, some electric models may struggle. Gas carts can be more efficient and easier to use, but some clubs mandate electric carts because they are quieter and don't produce exhaust.

If a stock new golf cart is the preferred route, there are plenty of options and plenty of price points from major manufacturers. Club

Car has three primary golf models: the DS, Precedent Professional and Precedent Champion, which the company's website claims is a "brush with greatness." Go to clubcar.com for a dealer locator.

Yamaha offers a cart it calls The Drive, which can be configured in a variety of ways from the rudimentary to the fully loaded. To discover The Drive, visit, whatelse.discoverthedriver.com

E-Z-GO of Augusta, Georgia has been manufacturing golf carts since 1954. Today, their two primary models are the TXT and the Freedom SE. The former is a basic fleet-oriented model while the latter is more customizable. For the full lineup visit ezgo.com, which also has a useful locator for used carts.

The real fun in the golf-cart business, however, comes from custom builders and designers. When it comes to custom, the Cole Porter song Anything Goes certainly applies. How about a Hummer golf cart? Luxury Golf Carts offers a licensed Hummer body kit that can be bolted onto most golf carts, and it has numerous other interesting designs including a Cadillac Escalade for those who want to bring a touch of bling to their game. Check out luxurygolfcarts.com Electric Car Distributors, in both Rancho Mirage and Palm Desert, Calif., has a full range of Yamaha and Club Car models that start at around $6,000 plus tax. You can see them at electriccar.com.

ELECTRIC CAR DISTRIBUTORS

The company also offers one of the most requested recent innovations in golf carts, the A/C drive motor/controller upgrade that costs around $3,200 but gives the golf cart 18 horsepower.

"It makes it fly," says Bob Thomas, owner of Electric Car Distributors.

In the Californian desert, according to Thomas, most golfers want something that looks sharp, goes at least 18 miles per hour, and has an ice chest (for what?) plus other popular accessories. Personalization is key.

"They want a style that sets them apart," adds Thomas.

One golfer who wanted to set himself apart and also be a magnet for attention asked Larsen for a functioning beer tap at the back of the cart. Other interesting accessories that Larsen has installed include humidors, 10-disk CD players and flip-down televisions. The company also builds its own chassis and can install the same differential one would find in a Ferrari.

"We're the Harley-Davidson of golf carts," says Larsen. "Anything is possible."

Customization sometimes comes with a "if you have to ask you can't afford it" price tag that can easily go north of $20,000. Yet to the serious golfer who wants to make a serious statement, nothing exceeds like a customized golf cart.

Greg Norman

A SHARK WITH A TASTE FOR SUCCESS

BY FRANÇOISE RHODES

GREG NORMAN'S CONSIDERABLE ACHIEVEMENTS AS A PROFESSIONAL GOLFER INCLUDE HOLDING THE NUMBER ONE WORLD RANKING FOR 331 WEEKS, 86 CAREER VICTORIES, INDUCTION INTO THE WORLD GOLF HALL OF FAME, TWO BRITISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS AND PGA PLAYER OF THE YEAR. THESE ACCOMPLISHMENTS ARE AMAZING, BUT FOR THE AUSTRALIAN-BORN NORMAN THEY WERE JUST THE BEGINNING

At 51 years old, Norman has an estimated net worth of over $280 million and a conglomerate that continues to flourish. On the personal side, he has two grown children and now an exciting new romance with tennis superstar Chris Everett. Certainly golf provided Norman with many of his successes, but the Shark is quick to point out that there was no silver spoon for him to cling to; it was hard work and a burning desire to become a professional golfer that started it all.

tournaments throughout Australia before turning professional in 1976, just six years after caddying for his mother.

"I remember one of my first jobs working for Charlie Earp as a trainee professional at Royal Queensland and earning $28 a week," recalls Norman. "You can safely say I had to work my way up the ranks! A few years later, I won the fourth professional tournament I ever played in and thought I was the richest man in the world. I think I won $7000 professional tour, which was the catalyst for his successful career as a multifaceted businessman.

Today Norman serves as chairman and CEO of Great White Shark Enterprises, a multinational corporation made up of

Norman serves as chairman and CEO of Great White Shark Enterprises

Norman's interest in golf began when his mother asked him to caddy for her during a regular mid-week game. Following the round, he borrowed her clubs and set out on his own. Within two years he was a scratch golfer, averaging par or better each time he played. For the next few years he worked as an Australian PGA trainee, playing amateur and open Australian dollars, enough money to book a ticket to Japan. From there I booked a ticket to Europe, basically starting my career."

Norman says that first win is still his greatest moment in professional golf. "It gave me the confidence I needed to go on to win other events." And win he did—over $10 million dollars on the

With so much going on, Norman could be stretched to the limits, but he understands how to keep his life in order. "One of the most important words in my vocabulary is 'balance,'" he says. "Finding the right balance between my personal life, golf and my business interests is something I work very hard at.”

Almost from the beginning Norman arranged his career so that he would have avenues to pursue when he stopped playing golf fulltime.

“I’ve seen too many athletes wind down their careers and then have nowhere to go. They gravitate to happy. Sure, I’ve had some three-putts in the business world, but if you’re going to be in the game and have that entrepreneurial philosophy, you have to accept those and move on.”

One of those “three-putts” came when Norman initially created his Shark golf apparel as soon as he figured he had widespread name recognition. “We went into licensing too quickly,” he said. “What I should have done first was establish brand credibility.” The tenacious Norman went back to the drawing board, analyzed his mistakes and tried again, ultimately racking up 15 consecutive quarters of double-digit growth.

The “balance” that Norman refers to also means taking time to enjoy fishing and diving. “A typical vacation day for me consists of a 5 a.m. wake-up call, light breakfast, reef dive, some fishing, quick lunch, more fishing, afternoon dive, trolling for sailfish, a big dinner with a nice glass of wine or a cold beer.” With a chuckle he adds, “and a deep sleep.”

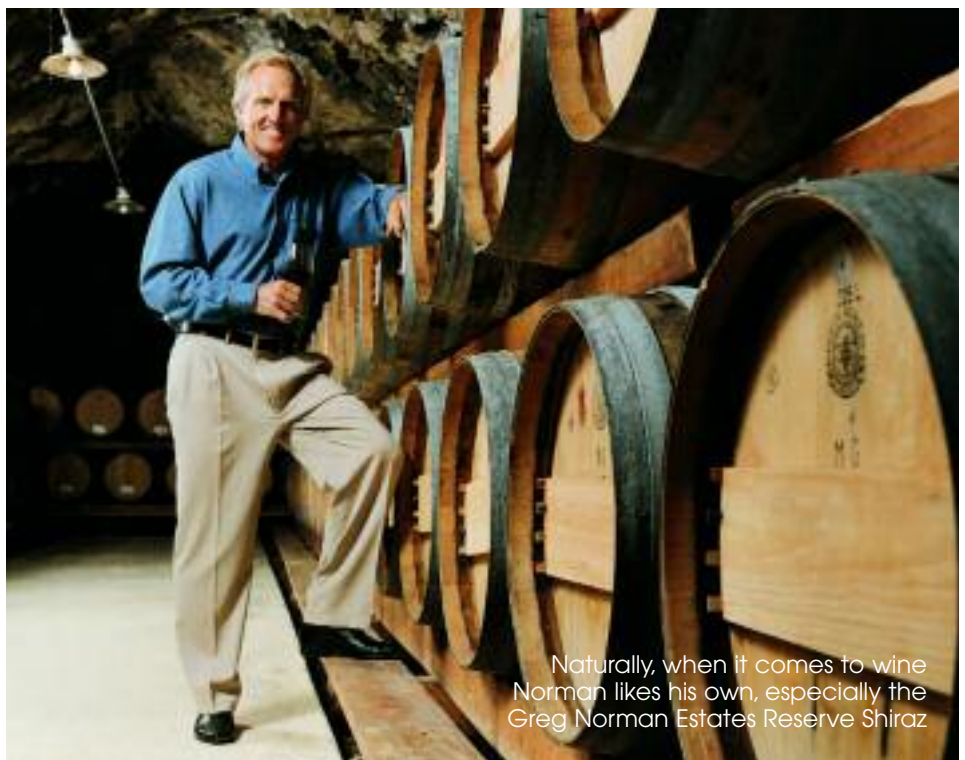

Naturally, when it comes to wine Norman likes his own, especially the Greg Norman Estates Reserve Shiraz. With a deep, intense flavor filled with tannins that are pronounced but not overbearing and a hint of blueberry, Norman’s 1999 Reserve Shiraz was rated No. 8 out of 12,500 wines sampled by Wine Spectator.

Among his other ventures is an endorsement deal with Land Rover. Not surprising, Norman currently has two Supercharged Range Rover Sport models in his multi-car garage. But even more than the roads, it’s the skies that have been an integral part of his professional life. He’s had a pilot license since 1987 and says that without his jet and helicopter he couldn’t do all that he does.

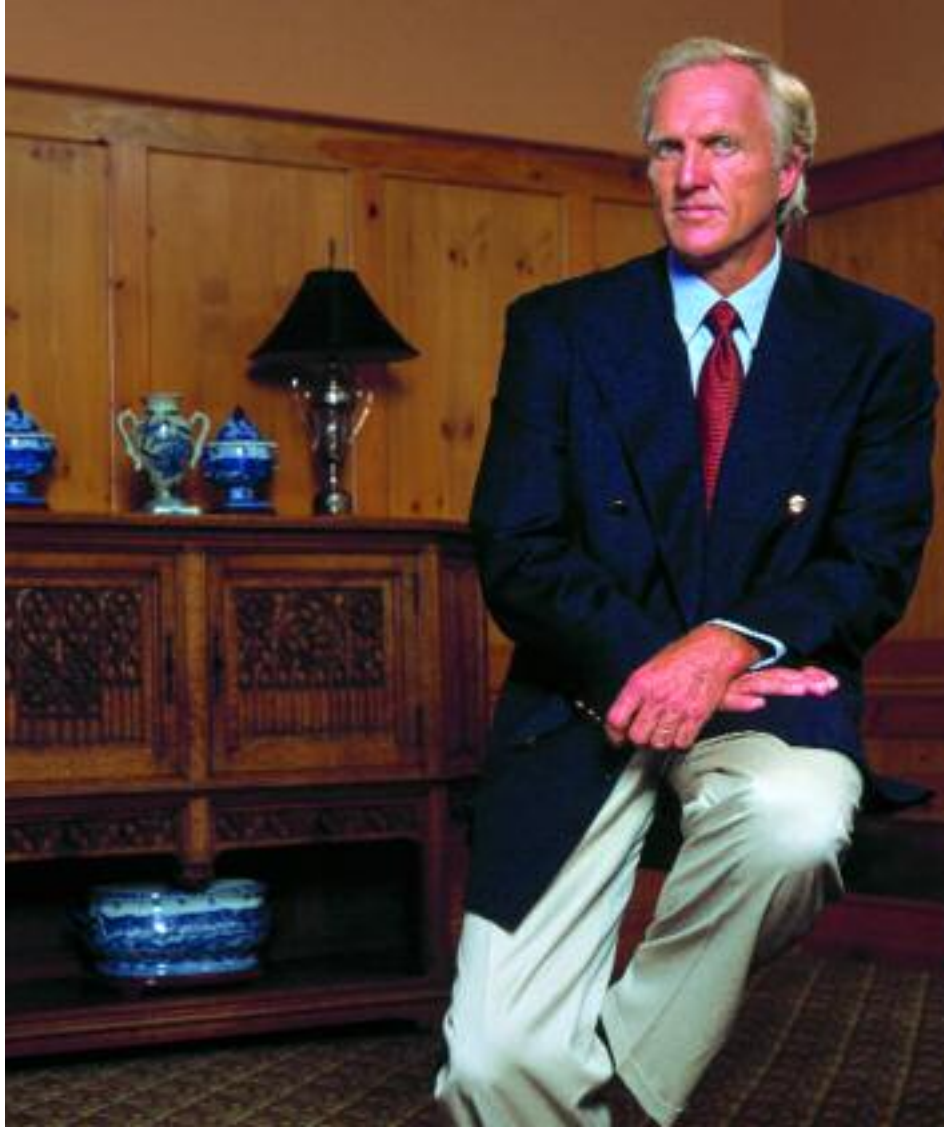

Norman began leasing planes in the mid-80s to fly from tournament to tournament. Then in 1990 an engine blew and they were forced to make an television or something else that is a stopgap. I never wanted that. I wanted to get in a position where I had enough going on so I could make the transition from the golf course to the boardroom and still be all of my childhood friends. In fact, I chose Florida because it reminded me so much of home, with the ocean on both sides, warm weather in the winter and proximity to great fishing and diving."

When asked to describe his life in one sentence an incredulous look crosses his face. "That's kind of difficult to do in one sentence," he says, but he's not at a loss for words for very long.

"There are two phrases I use frequently that I think sum up a little bit of who I am: 'dreams are the blueprints of reality' and 'begin with the end in mind.' People say I'm very resilient, and I am. I pride myself on the fact that no matter what happens I have the ability to put it behind me. As a golfer, and more importantly as a person, you have to be able to turn a negative into a positive."

For Norman, life is about accepting what happens, figuring out why it happened, fixing it and then moving forward.

"I've always had an entrepreneurial spirit and I think my aggressive nature, coupled with my human-resource and decision-making skills are what make Great White Shark Enterprises so successful. I don't consider myself different from an industrialist whose fame came from Wall Street. I just happened to emergency landing in Latrobe, Pennsylvania. He decided right then and there to buy his first jet.

"My customized Gulfstream is the sixth jet I've owned in the last 17 years. Being comfortable when I fly is a really big thing for me, so my plane is specifically designed for my needs. I have two pilots, an engineer and two other pilots on standby at all times because I travel so much. I do pilot the helicopter, chiefly because those are shorter, quick-hop trips, whereas the jet is more for continental travel."

Born in Queensland, Australia, Norman considers Australia and the United States to have a lot in common. "I've lived in Florida for nearly 20 years. I first chose to live in the United States because of the golf, and although I still live here, Australia will always be my home. My parents and my sister are there, as are

Pete Carlson's Golf Expo

COACHELLA VALLEY'S ANNUAL OUTDOOR, TRY-AND-BUY EXTRAVAGANZA FEATURES GOLF'S NEWEST PRODUCTS

BY LISA PERRY

When Pete Carlson describes his own golf expo, there are so many details that he has to read off a cheat sheet. But when asked to give a Cliff's Notes version of the event, spontaneity kicks in.

"It's kind of like a candy store for golfers to try everybody's products," he says.

50,000 visitors and part-time residents. Last year, around 10,000 attended the expo.

"The show serves to jumpstart the golf season. People are excited about golf and anxious to see all the new products and test them."

equipment," says Carlson. "It eliminates our usual method of taking one or two clubs from the store and returning them until the customer is satisfied. If you're undecided before the expo, chances are you will be decided after you attend."

The show enters its fourth year and second time at Desert Willow. "They do a great job of hosting," says Carlson. "We're thrilled and excited to be there—it stands out head and shoulders above other city-owned courses. The layout, facility and amenities are all first class."

Owner and operator of Pete Carlson's Golf & Tennis store for 27 years in the same Coachella Valley location, he knows what his customers want. "It's comprehensive...a chance for us...to showcase the latest from golf manufacturers in 2008. Reps who are well trained and golf savvy give guidance, recommend shafts and can watch ball flights. The public has the opportunity to try out merchandise on a green-grass environment and purchase at special pricing."

Pete Carlson's Golf Expo will be held Friday and Saturday, Feb. 1-2, at Desert Willow Golf Resort in Palm Desert. Carlson notes that the expo takes place on an expansive driving range with full-on hitting and fitting capabilities, plus practice and instructional areas. It's scheduled after the Bob Hope Classic and Orlando PGA show because February heralds the beginning of primetime desert golf when 120 area courses are hit with more than

Last year's favorites appeared to be TaylorMade, Callaway, Titleist/Cobra and Adams Golf. Carlson says 2007 highlights included company owner Barney Adams fitting golfers and Jesse Ortiz, COO/chief designer of Bobby Jones Golf Company, interacting with attendees. Ping had a sophisticated fitting truck onsite with computerized laser equipment. Celebrities have made appearances, too, from pro golfer Al Geiberger to MLB great Willie Mays.

In 2008, 14 major manufacturers are expected to participate with merchandise and club fittings. Look for free golf clinics and instruction presented by top PGA teaching pros. Golfers can also trade in old clubs to Palm Desert Golf Academy or the Junior Golf Foundation of the Desert as a charitable donation.

"It's the only event of its kind in the Coachella Valley and the largest opportunity for golfers to see all the new

Carlson knows that the busiest booths need more hitting bays—the lines can be long—but he and the staff are always experimenting with the format and modify it each year to make it better. A few lines don't seem to bother the expo's many fans. More than a few arrive early in the morning and make a day of it.

Desert Falls Country Club

"The friendliest Club in the desert"

When looking for a country club in the Coachella Valley, you would be well advised to look at Desert Falls Country Club in Palm Desert. When it comes to a true golfing experience you'll discover one of the finest courses available anywhere. Desert Falls Country Club has been rated one of the Top-Ten courses in the desert by the SCPGA. In Golf Digest's annual "Best Places to Play", Desert Falls was awarded 4 Stars based on course, rate of play, professional staff and over all value! And what a value, with an initiation fee under $15,000, and monthly dues starting under $500.00 (no food & beverage minimums or assessments) it is truly one of the last great values in the desert.

Members find pride in the history of Desert Falls Country Club. Opened in 1984, Desert Falls is the only Ron Fream link-style designed course in the entire desert. The celebrated Frank Sinatra Celebrity Invitational's inaugural tournament was played at Desert Falls. In fact, he held his tournament there for the next five years. Don Drysdale Charity Hall of Fame Golf Tournament was played at Desert Falls, and Desert Falls remains one of the top PGA qualifying courses in the desert.

Fair and challenging. Desert Falls is one of the five highest slope rated courses in the desert, earning a 145 slope rating from the tips. With five tees at each hole, this links-style course of rolling hills, wide fairways, and panoramic views of the surrounding mountains can be as challenging or fair to virtually every level of golfer. With three signature holes, including number 14 with the largest green west of the Rockies (over 18,000 sq. ft.), Desert Falls is designed to be played every day without becoming boring or frustrating.

Known throughout the valley as one of the friendliest clubs in the desert, the Club's Members enjoy year round activities. With ten clubs-within-the-club, and several more forming this year, Desert Falls offers something for everyone. From Art Club to Wine Club, to both ladies and men's 9-hole, to Bridge and Mahjong, to two days a week play for their MGA and WGA.

If you're looking for a country club that's inviting, vibrant, active, and offer all the first class amenities private clubs strive to achieve, then you owe it to yourself to look at Desert Falls Country Club. The club reaches full compliment at just 375 golf memberships. With just a few positions still available, contact the Membership office at (760) 340-5646, extension 225 to see how you can become a part of "the friendliest club in the desert". Come play for a day, stay for a lifetime!

To the players on the PGA Tour, it's one of the most popular and historic stops for the best golfers in the world.

And for many of the more than 500,000 fans who flock to the TPC Scottsdale during tournament week each year to watch the world's best golfers, it means Fun, Booze and Rowdy.

Part rock concert and part celebration of the start of a new golf season (it's played on Super Bowl Sunday), the FBR Open is first and foremost a golf tournament, but unlike any other golf tournament in the world.

While the list of past champions—Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Phil Mickelson among them—reads like a golf history book, there is also enough high-energy and high-octane scoring to power a small city.

There is a par-4 that can be driven with the new equipment. There is a par-3 where players are booed if they miss the green. And once upon a time a young kid named Tiger Woods rocked the house when he made a hole-in-one that not only shook down thunder from the desert sky, it caused the cactus to vibrate.

Last year's FBR turned into a neighborhood brawl between Scottsdale residents Aaron Baddeley and Jeff Quinney. With four holes remaining in the 72nd edition of the tournament (the original Arizona Open was played in 1932, two years before the first Masters), Quinney, who was in his rookie season on the PGA Tour, held a three-shot lead. Baddeley, the American-born Australian, was seeking his second career victory.

What Baddeley did was birdie the 15th, 16th and 17th while Quinney was making bogey on the 17th and 18th.

"When I was three back, I was just thinking if I could cut it to one going to the 18th that I've got a chance," Baddeley said.

As it turned out, he was one ahead facing the dangerous par-4 finishing hole. While Baddeley made a clutch 10-foot putt on the 17th, Quinney splashed his tee shot on the way to bogey. In fact, Quinney's breakdown over the closing holes, in spite of leading the tournament since late in Friday's second round, dropped him all the way to third place, two behind Baddeley and one back of John Rollins who posted a fourth-round 63 to jump up the leaderboard.

When the final numbers were run, Baddeley finished with a 72-hole score of 263, Rollins got to the house at 264 and Quinney finished at 265. Bart Bryant was fourth with 266 and Billy Mayfair, another local boy, finished fifth. And that was just the golf.

This tournament, however, is more than golf. The event is run by a group of local businessmen who call themselves the Thunderbirds. They are committed to raising money for various local charities, and they not only honor that commitment, they set monetary goals and then blow them out of the water.

By their best estimate the Thunderbirds will donate more than $7.8 million to charity after this year's tournament, pushing the total generated since 2003 to more than $25 million. And the pot is only going to get bigger.

FBR (the investment bank, not the other two possibilities) and the Thunderbirds announced they have signed an extension of the company's sponsorship through 2012.

"We are thrilled to have FBR on board for another four years as our title sponsor," said Thunderbird Pat McGinley. "From a tournament perspective, FBR has been an outstanding partner. More importantly, FBR has had a huge impact on this community through the tournament. In 2007 alone, the FBR Open pumped over $180 million into Arizona's economy."

And the happy feeling between the tournament committee and the sponsor runs both ways.

"The FBR Open has been a very important component of growing our brand and building important customer relationships," said Eric Billings, chairman and CEO of Friedman, Billings, Ramsey Group, which is what FBR really stands for. "When you can top it all off by giving significant monies to charity, it makes the return from our involvement an even better one. We thank the Thunderbirds and the greater Phoenix area for making the FBR Open the great success that it has been."

And the love between the area and the tournament hasn't gone unnoticed by the membership and officials of the PGA Tour.

"The tour is absolutely delighted that FBR has extended its title sponsorship through 2012," said PGA Tour commissioner Tim Finchem. "FBR has had a tremendous impact on the tournament and the Thunderbirds' charities."

So when 2008 dawns on the PGA Tour season, that roar you hear will be coming from the desert. It's no wonder it's called the Greatest Show on Grass.

Residence Club AT PGA WEST

“PERFECTION” IS NOT AN OVERSTATEMENT
WHEN IT COMES TO THESE ULTRA-LUXURY VACATION HOMES

BY JOANNA DEHN BERESFORD

TO MANY HOMEOWNERS THE SEARCH FOR A PERFECT VACATION HOME IN A PERFECT LOCATION OFFERING THE PERFECT BENEFITS AND AMENITIES CONSTITUTES A LIFETIME ENDEAVOR. RECENTLY, HOWEVER, FOR SOME DISCERNING VACATION-HOME SEEKERS, THE SEARCH HAS COME TO AN END—NOT SURPRISINGLY, RIGHT HERE IN THE COACHELLA VALLEY, NESTLED BENEATH THE RUGGED SILHOUETTE OF THE SANTA ROSA MOUNTAINS IN ONE OF THE WORLD’S MOST RENOWNED GOLF-CLUB COMMUNITIES

The Residence Club at PGA West, situated at the entryway to the famed golf community and its world-class golf courses, offers the first private residence club in the Palm Springs resort area. The Club features 32 three-bedroom luxury villas sold in 1/9 undivided, deeded interests. This includes ownership in the members-only clubhouse and common areas—three 6,000-square-foot private putting greens and pathways meandering through picturesque desert landscaping. With privileged access to five PGA West and La Quinta Resort golf courses and to luxury spa services, the Residence Club provides homeowners with an ideal synthesis: all the comforts of home and all the convenience of a first-rate, resort hotel and concierge service with unmatched amenities.

"This is our way of owning a vacation home without having to deal with the responsibilities," says owner Mark Trumper, of Seattle, Washington.

A secluded, sunlit community of Spanish Colonial-style homes, the Residence Club offers charming 3,300-square-foot villas that feature dual master suites and a guest casita suite, a fully equipped gourmet kitchen, state-of-the-art internet service and audio-video equipment, a two-car garage and a covered open-air living room and patio for relaxing or entertaining. And of course, dramatic desert and mountain views command attention from nearly every room.

Stepping into the cool entryway of a villa with its porcelain-tile floor, dark wood shutters and signature sense of space and light is an almost therapeutic experience. The home is created for superlative entertaining, from layout to specific design and décor choices. The Great Room, with pocket doors offering easy access to the outdoor living area, features a plasma TV, fireplace, built-in wine cooler and bar area and surround sound. In the gourmet kitchen, a sweeping granite center island with breakfast bar is warmly lit by custom pendant lights. Thermador appliances highlight a gracious, functional space fully outfitted with cutlery, dishes, cookware and, upon request, pre-arrival groceries provided by full concierge and bell services.

The master suite, with media center, desk, sitting area and sumptuous furnishings, includes a lavish master bath with a double shower, separate tub and walk-in closets. Towels, bathrobes and L'Occitane toiletries are provided for owners' arrival. A second master suite has a luxurious bath, reading niche and private entry to the entertainment area. The guest casita, with its own separate entrance, overlooks a lush side courtyard and offers a media center, built-in desk and shelving, morning bar, choice of a king bed or twin activities at the Citrus Clubhouse, special pricing at many golf clubhouses, resort shops and restaurants and a reciprocal relationship with a select number of exclusive, international residence clubs are also included with membership.

The first Residence Club at PGA West model opened on Memorial Day of 2005 and the first sales closed in spring of 2006. Since then, after more than a full year of operation and through the enthusiastic response of members and potential homeowners, the Residence Club experience has come full circle.

"The first year we were selling on a dream," says project manager, Karen Gaabucayan. "Now we see the dream realized and it's so exciting."

The club is just thirty minutes from Palm Springs, located in the destination resort community of La Quinta, a.k.a "Gem of the Desert." Moments from some of the beds and a beautiful bath with spacious closet, double sinks and tiled shower.

The magic of outdoor desert living resonates throughout the private entertainment patio and across the central amenity area beyond. The villa patio includes a sparkling thermal plunge pool, barbecue and glowing fire pit. Owners and guests can sunbathe, dine or count the stars from the tasteful outdoor furniture, and many members enjoy an early morning session on one of the three putting greens, or a leisurely stroll under pepper trees and blue skies, savoring the scent of wildflowers and the embrace of nearby mountains.

Additional first-class amenities at the Residence Club include: use of the members-only clubhouse with outdoor pool, housekeeping and shuttle services, preferential pricing and tee times at five golf courses and access to Spa la Quinta and La Quinta Resort and Club. Social finest shopping, dining, cultural and recreational activities in the world, and favored with stunning weather and a landscape that has drawn visitors and residents for more than a century, the desert resort region radiates an irresistible charm from the western to the eastern end of this dazzling valley.

Monster Sale! Inventory Prices Slashed! Biggest Sale in History! Over $100,000 in amenities FREE! The billboards are everywhere enticing you to buy a home, so what's holding you back? Market analysts say that with foreclosures at a record high, qualified buyers are spooked. Lawrence Yun from the National Association of Realtors agrees.

“The lack of buyer confidence to enter the market has been the principal reason home sales have been held back,” Yun says. “Many would-be buyers are spooked by a possible home price decline, and the media is fueling that fear. It's important to point out that times of crisis often turn out to have been times of opportunity in hindsight. With over four million net new jobs in the past two years—the time frame during which home sales have steadily fallen—a significant pent-up demand has developed. Home prices will be higher in 2008, and as with any investment, look longer term.”

CALIFORNIA

The Coachella Valley saw a decline in the sales of new homes for the first time since 2001, with 500-plus fewer homes sold in 2006 compared to 2005. However, the 4,913 homes sold in 2006 were still seven times as many as sold in 1993. Doesn't that make you feel a bit better?

Regardless of the numbers and a softening housing market, the Coachella Valley still scored a B- for its overall economy and quality of life in a recently released economic report card.

In Palm Springs, 88 homes sold in August with the highest price at $2,200,000. The main topic of conversation, however, is the controversy still raging over the mayor's need for a park where the historic O'Donnell Golf Course sits.

Perhaps the focus should be on what went wrong at now defunct Escena, where all building has stopped. Lennar, national developer of Escena, refuses to answer questions regarding the 355-acre, 1,440-home community that boasted a Jack Nicklaus-designed public golf course, now closed. Lennar has refunded buyers' deposits.

In Desert Hot Springs there were 42 homes sold in August, with the highest priced at $400,000. But Desert Hot Springs is having its own problems. Several developers with planned golf-course communities have put the brakes on projects until the market picks up. One such project is the 505-acre, $1-billion Tuscan Hills development that, according to developer Mayer Luce Companies, is on hold until there are signs that the market is rebounding. Another problem in DHS is that some developers ignored environmental requirements even as they touted their undeveloped mega resorts. Said resorts are now on hold for the sake of lizards, natural vegetation and a frog or two. Are we thinking Palmwood here?

La Quinta can boast a 4.9% increase in sales. Eighty-six homes sold in August with prices topping out at $1,650,000. LQ continues to be a hot area because of communities such as the Hideaway, Madison Club, Andalusia and the major SilverRock project. La Solana at SilverRock represents the first phase of Cathedral City: 35 sales, highest price $816,000; Coachella: 11 sales, highest price $426,000; Indian Wells: 17 sales, highest price $1,500,00; Indio: 32 sales, highest price $750,000; Palm Desert: 137 sales, highest price $2,200,000; Rancho Mirage: 48 sales, highest price $3,800,000; Thermal: One sale at $328,000.

The Greater Phoenix area recorded 4,240 home sales in August, bringing the year-to-date total sales to 37,750, which is well below the 47,515 reported in the same period in 2006. The combination of large inventory and low interest rates has enabled people to purchase more expensive homes, which is one reason the housing market is showing signs of weakness that could drive it below previously optimistic projections.

The Arizona Republic reported a record high real estate sale of $149 million in April. The property is a 269-acre state land parcel near Loop 101 and Tatum Blvd. The sale is not only the highest price a developer has paid for a piece of Arizona land, it is also an indicator of where the Valley's housing market may be headed.

The development is expected to include 3,700 homes, condos and apartments.

Located in Flagstaff, Pine Canyon offers mountainside living at its finest with a variety of residential offerings. Here rustic luxury meets natural beauty with cabin-inspired custom homes, townhomes and condominiums all artfully placed to capture scenic views of the high-country setting. Custom-home sites are available overlooking the tall pines lining the Jay Morrish-designed golf course. If

NEVADA

The one and only Las Vegas had sales of 1,316 homes in August and is still reputed to be the fastest growing city in America. Ranked in the top-ten relocation destinations, Las Vegas is a city where luxury homes are hot market items. Why?

Because homeowners who have enjoyed a 50% increase in home equity are now upgrading to new homes with luxuries they've only dreamed of. With over $40 billion being invested on the Strip, employment is strong and analysts say that pricing will go higher as demand from the working class grows.

Towering high-rise communities are everywhere along the Strip. Donald Trump is on board the high-rise craze with his towers sporting gold-coated windows that can be seen from miles away. Claims by Trump himself say the Towers are almost sold out. The two-million-square-foot, 64-story, gold-glass-encased Trump Tower offers luxury condominiums from $700,000 to $7 million. trumptower.com

Las Vegas is also fast becoming one of the golf capitals of the world. New courses are springing up all over, with at least six scheduled to be completed within two years. Over the past ten years private golf-course communities have also been constructed to accommodate the demand for a country-club lifestyle in the area. And as baby boomers reach retirement age and migrate to Nevada, the need for additional courses and retirement communities has increased. There are currently four Del Webb Sun City developments as well as several other retirement communities, each with multiple courses surrounded by attractive age-restricted areas.

Speaking of master-planned communities, Spanish Bay in Mesquite is drawing favorable attention from homebuyers. Developed by Matthews Homes, Spanish Bay is part of the elegant golf community at Canyon Crest. Set along the exquisite golf course with breathtaking desert and canyon views, Spanish Bay offers homebuyers four innovative floor plans, ranging in size from 1,519 to 2,431 square feet. These one- and two-story homes feature up to four bedrooms and three baths, with low property taxes and no state tax. Prices range from $249,000 to $356,000. matthewshomes.com

▲ KNIPSCHILDT'S LA MADELINE AU TRUFFLE

Nothing says happy holiday's better than a chocolate morsel so divine cost is irrelevant. Knipschildt's La Madeline au Truffle is such a morsel, recognized by Forbes magazine as the most expensive chocolate in the world. Each starts with a decadent 70% Valrhona dark chocolate to create a velvety rich ganache surrounding a rare Perigord truffle. The extravagant chocolate delight comes packaged on a bed of sugar pearls in a silver box tied with a ribbon. The truffle is available only by pre-order and has just a seven-day shelf life. Be serious, these truffles are too good to be on a shelf—enjoy. $250 for 1.9 ounces. chocopologie.com

KOPI LUWAK COFFEE

Experience a true coffee thrill with Kopi Luwak coffee. At $50 a cup, there must be a special ingredient, right? Not exactly, but there is a special animal. The palm civet, a mongoose-type creature, actually “processes” the raw coffee by eating the beans and passing them through its system still “in the shell.” The beans are then collected, sterilized and processed again (this time by humans) for your full-bodied cup of joe. $300 per pound. animalcoffee.com

GOLFLOGIX GPS

Introducing the first handheld golf GPS system by GolfLogix, Inc. that is compatible with Mac and Windows operating systems.

Yes, you read it correctly, compatible with Mac and Windows operating systems. Now that the USGA allows the use of rangefinders during competition under the local tournament rules, this portable tool is a must. Waterproof and shock resistant, it offers satellite-based accuracy augmentation, providing golfers with precise distance to hazards, as well as the front, center and back of all greens. Weighing just 5.3 ounces, this handheld beauty is about the size of a cell phone and can hold ten golf course maps, with access to 13,000 more mapped courses. $349.95. golflogix.com

THE NAVIGATOR

Tiger Woods wants golfers to walk, the Bag Boy Company is making this feat a little easier with its recent unveiling of a remarkable remote-control electric cart. The Navigator is currently the most advanced three-wheel electric walking cart ever developed. Its "On Board" compass means players don't have to constantly steer it, providing the ultimate hands-free walking experience in golf. Operating up to 200-yards away via point and click remote control, Navigator's direction and speed can be controlled over any type of terrain, and it's the only cart to feature twin motors calibrated throughout the speed range. $1,495.00. bagboycompany.com

ALMAS IRANIAN CAVIAR

The word 'almas' is Russian for diamond, a fitting name for the world's most expensive caviar. This beluga caviar is white in appearance and comes from a fish that is over 100 years old. As a general rule, the whiter the caviar the older the fish, and the more elegant and exquisite the flavor. Almas Iranian Caviar is hard to come by, extremely expensive and is beautifully packed in a 24K-gold tin. $23,308 per 32 ounce. caviar-deluxe.com

HONMA GOLF CLUBS

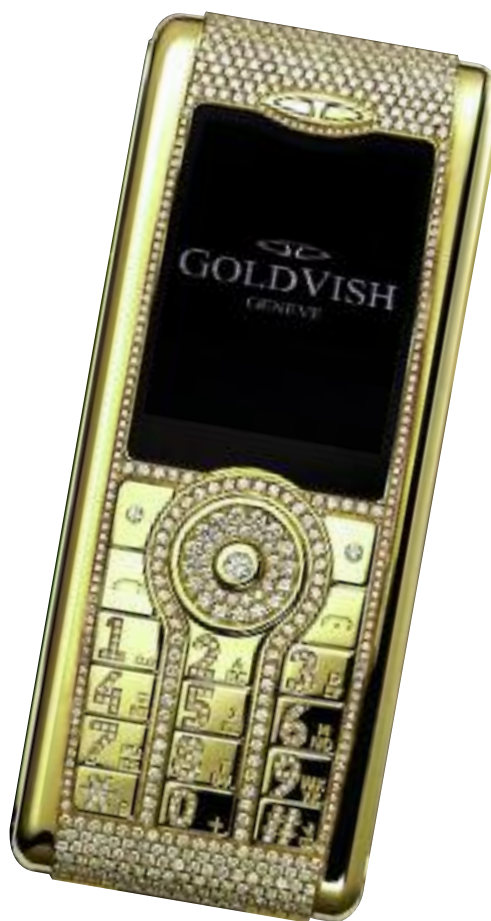

If there is such a thing as a golfer who has everything, then these golf clubs might be the answer to the annual holiday gift dilemma. Created in Japan to the exact length and weight that you desire, the Honma set is considered to be the most expensive in the world. You choose the head shape, shaft and grip. You also choose how much 24K gold plating and how much Pt 1000 platinum detailing you want for each club. Why stop there? Have your initials engraved on each club, then dazzle the gang with your equipment if not your golf game. $53,938.50 for a set of 14 clubs. honmagolf.com

MACDADDY'S FISHING LURES

It seems that golfers love to fish (but not the other way around), so here is the ultimate in fishing lures, not lore. MacDaddy's 12-inch, three-pound platinum and gold lure is encrusted with 4,753 stones totaling over 100 carats of diamonds and rubies—and that's no fisherman's tale! $1,000,000. LE MILLION "DE LA NUIT" ▲

Finally, if Daddy gets a million-dollar fishing lure then Mama is entitled to some bling of her own. Le Million "De La Nuit" ("The Million of the Night") cell phone by Goldvish is certainly the way to a woman's heart. This handcrafted head-turner is made of 18-carat white gold mounted with 120-carat WS-1 graded diamonds. Crafted for Goldvish by Swedish designer Emmanuel Gueit, this is a limited edition piece with only 100 to be distributed worldwide. It's available only upon special request. $1,000,000,000. goldvish.com

Wally's Desert Turtle-

A Legend in Its Own Time

EMBRACING TRADITION AND A CONTEMPORARY SENSIBILITY, THE BELOVED RANCHO MIRAGE RESTAURANT CELEBRATES 30 YEARS

BY JOANNA DEHN BERESFORD

To fully experience the enchantment of Wally's Desert Turtle in Rancho Mirage, approach after sundown. Round the corner of that legendary building and stroll along the path to a courtyard twinkling with lights and embraced by lush foliage. Step into the foyer, where lamplight reflects in beveled-mirror ceilings and frosted glass. Enter the main dining room, which extends like a glowing, multi-tiered mirage — adorned with Peruvian crystal chandeliers, exotic artifacts, and hand-painted murals.

"Between 1957 and 1971 my father opened about 15 or 18 restaurants in northern and southern California," says Michael. "Even today, I still have people come in here and tell me how much they enjoyed The Velvet Turtle."

While the principles and reputation upon which Wally's was founded have remained intact over the years, the Rancho Mirage restaurant continues to evolve, offering guests fresh elements of elegant décor, as well as fresh dishes.

This magnificent restaurant was built by Wally Botello, the founder of the famed Velvet Turtle chain, and is now owned and operated by his son, Michael. This 2007-2008 season represents Wally's 30th year in the desert, three decades during which the restaurant has welcomed celebrities, dignitaries, heads of state and loyal members of the community into its Steven Chase-designed interiors. Wally's has earned countless awards and developed a reputation as the desert resort region's premier fine-dining establishment.

Most recently, rich Egyptian carpeting was added to the Mirage Room, lending additional warmth to the ambiance. The private dining room, designed by Randy Patton, features a domed copper roof and strings of lights twinkling overhead like stars in the desert sky. Crystal chandeliers, a large mirror, honed marble and ornate wrought iron complete the setting. Although the Mirage Room comfortably seats up to 80 people, it also is a stellar venue for a parties of 40 to 60 with live entertainment and a dance floor.

The Sable Room, a more intimate private dining room entered through stained cut-glass doors, accommodates parties of 30 to 40. And the semi-private Foyer, above the main dining room, is ideal for parties of up to 26.

For those who plan parties at their own homes or in other venues, Wally's caters with the same degree of excellence diners find in the restaurant.

On a typical Saturday afternoon Wally's kitchen is bustling with activity, filled with the clatter of cutlery, oven doors opening and closing, flames snapping at the cook stove and a dizzying mélange of aromas wafting through the air. Chef de Cuisine Pascal Lallemand, the roguish Frenchman who has enhanced and perfected the Wally's menu for the last three years, grins like a pirate as he loads trays of pastries into the back of a restaurant vehicle.

"Very special event," he says. "Tonight is going to be beautiful."

Formally trained at culinary school in France, Lallemand has developed his craft and seduced palettes from Paris and Tahiti to Texas, Colorado and the renowned Windstar Cruises. He and Michael continually confer over the menu, experimenting with nightly specials and updating the selections of elegant continental cuisine.

The current menu includes hot and cold appetizers: Seared Bluefin Tuna and Tobiko Caviar, Jumbo shrimp cocktail, Burgundy Escargots Chablisienne, Seared Foie Gras, Sautéed Sweetbreads in Puff Pastry and assorted salads. Entrees range from Wild Alaskan Salmon, Fillet of Hawaiian Kampachi, Venison, Veal Scaloppini, New York Sirloin and Rack of Lamb to pastas dishes such as Saffron Fettuccini Pomodoro and Dungeness Crab, Bay Shrimp and Spinach Cannelloni in a light herb lobster sauce.

Highlights from the pastry chef's dessert menu include Chocolate or Grand Marnier soufflé, Warm Chocolate Lava Cake, Key Lime Pie, Macadamia Nut Bread Pudding, Profiteroles and Sorbets with Fresh Berries.

In addition to these mouthwatering selections, Wally's offers a full bar and a formidable wine list comprised of more than 300 entries from the finest vineyards in the world.

Michael describes his father with great admiration and affection, and he refers to his staff in the same way. "It's quality, consistency and service that's the secret to success," claims Michael, who walks the floor of his restaurant nearly every night during the season.

"I like to touch the tables, see if people are enjoying the evening, find out where they're from. That's how you know what you're doing is right."

It's a breathtaking setting rimmed with imported gold, radiant with candlelight and reverberant with piano music every night. And like the desert community itself, Wally's is evolving. While the restaurant's traditional clients are "like family," Michael and staff are also seeing a younger, less formal clientele coming in these days, and Michael is delighted to embrace the valley's growth and change. Like everything else about Wally's, its patrons reflect the very best that our desert communities have to offer.

LAUNCHES "G R8" NEW EXOTIC

187 MPH AND ROOM FOR THE GOLF CLUBS, TOO—SWEET!

BY AARON ATWOOD

LAMBORGHINI NODS. FERRARI SKULKS. IS THAT A WINCE FROM PORSCHE? THE NEW AUDI R8 IS DRAWING LOOKS FROM A CROWD OF SEASONED EXOTICS

What those onlookers are seeing is a combination of styling, sophistication and sheer strength. The R8 is Audi's first mid-engine model ever and its fastest ever (more on that later). After years of racing success in the Le Mans Series, Audi is taking its speed to the street, though getting behind the wheel of this rocket won't be easy. Only a few hundred are set for distribution in the U.S.

"There are only 20 produced a day," Jon Hyman of Desert European Motorcars says. "Those 20 cars supply the whole world. The problem isn't knowing about the car, the problem is finding the car."

The R8 shares similarities with its close relative the Lamborghini Gallardo, and if bloodlines mean anything this horse is built for the winner's circle. The interiors of both are strikingly similar, yet the R8 may have a leg-up in simplicity and function. The functionality of this mean machine makes it a sports car that is also an easy daily driver.

The rambunctious R8 is ready to show all with a clear cover that illuminates after dark to reveal the power plant—a V-8, 420-horsepower engine that lacks nothing. Though it's mounted just behind the driver, engine noise is but a low growl until at 5,000 rpm it begins to sing. Audi knows how to produce performers, and unlike some exotics that have relied on looks to get them through customs, the R8 is no poser.

Conservative numbers from Audi come back with a 0 to 60 time of 4.4 seconds. Others have timed the trip in under four seconds. Blazing! Top speed is 187 mph, yet this cougar is tame in two-lane commuter traffic, too.

Of course, the R8 has looks that kill. Side blades hide air intakes but add a distinct edgy dynamic to the body. The nose rolls slightly, displaying the four-circle logo that is coming to symbolize synergy between design and performance. Headlights squint down the road in a glare that is exciting and intimidating. From every angle, the R8 is sleek.

The low riding, long body slings drivers across the terrain on the patented all-wheel drive Quattro system that distributes 60-percent power to the rear, virtually eliminating slip from the tail. The R8 handles like a sports car. The flat-bottom steering wheel absorbs so much of the road vibration that steering becomes silky even in corners at high speed.

opting instead for the conventional car key—a good move by most accounts. Turn the key and feel eager potential. Honey leather surfaces adorn the interior trimmed with carbon fiber unique to the R8; simple gauges are easy to read and identify. Navigation, 12-speaker audio and blue-tooth options are sure bets to add value and function.

Audi borrows from the Lamborghini line in the R tronic paddle shift, which is optional. The R tronic is an automatic transmission with the option to select

The magnetic ride that was launched in the TT model makes a comeback in the R8, adding stability. The charged particles inside this suspension provide for a customized ride, and logic says that the air-cooled brakes and numerous air intakes should create much more noise than they do. Rather, they harness the air the car knifes through and displace it in dampers and vents ingeniously placed for performance.

At 75 mph a rear spoiler deploys to keep the air working for the car rather than against it. The significant down draft and obvious engineering development devoted to the aerodynamics are no doubt products of Audi's racing experience.

"It is an exceptional start for Audi in the luxury coupe market," Brian McCauley of Audi North Scottsdale says. "It is a competitor with Ferrari, Lamborghini and Porsche at a price $150,000 less."

The R8 is priced around $130,000, making its rival the Porsche Carrera.

Audi did forego the keyless start that it employed in the recent A series models, manual mode. Don't worry, you can still smoke the tires with the R tronic and beat just about anything in town off the line at the red light.

The car isn't the only thing getting out fast for the R8. Waiting lists across the nation are piled up like rush hour traffic.

"We might get six cars this year," McCauley says. "We've had offers from buyers to put a $50,000 deposit down just to be on the waiting list. This just isn't a car you're going to see everyday."

Golfers will be glad to know that the R8 designers thoughtfully included enough room for two sets of golf clubs in the storage area behind the front seats. Perfect! What could be better than careening down the road at 187 mph on your way to a Friday afternoon tee time?

That image alone makes the R8 rate very high in the world of sports cars.

NOW IN HER 10TH YEAR LEADING LAKEWOOD, COLO.-BASED TEHAMA, ONE OF THE MOST PROMINENT GOLF LIFESTYLE BRANDS IN THE COUNTRY, HALEY WILL BE HONORED AT THE PGA OF AMERICA AWARDS, THURSDAY, JAN. 17, 2008

"It's such an amazing feeling to be the first woman to receive this incredible award from the PGA of America," says Haley. "It's even more fantastic coming from an organization and an industry that is predominately male in both the business side and the sport/participation side. I am truly honored."

Inaugurated in 1994, The PGA of America's Ernie Sabayrac Award for Lifetime Contributions to the Golf Industry was first presented to its namesake, the late Ernie Sabayrac, of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. A prominent figure in the origin of the PGA Merchandise Show and a pioneer in the development of the golf shop, Sabayrac revolutionized merchandising among PGA Professionals, introducing golf shoes, soft goods and logo products in golf shops nationwide.

"Nancy Haley's creativity and vision have made for one of the wonderful success stories in our industry," said PGA of America President Brian Whitcomb. "Through Nancy's skill as a designer and her passion for the game, more and more consumers have been attracted to a brand that is held in the highest regard in golf shops nationwide."

Haley's golf-apparel design began in 1985, from a studio in her home. A year later, she launched Sun-Daze by Nancy Haley, the first lifestyle sportswear for women golfers. In 1989, a men's line was added, named Haley Ltd. The two lines soon merged into Sport-Haley, a company that went public in 1992, enabling Haley to retire in 1996 with annual sales of just over $21 million. The retirement didn't last long; in April 1997, Haley and actor-legend

Clint Eastwood formed a partnership for an apparel company called Tehama.

The Tehama brand experienced $75 million in sales the first year, and has grown by double-digit rates since. In 2004, Tehama announced licensing agreements with the IZOD G and Arnold Palmer brands.

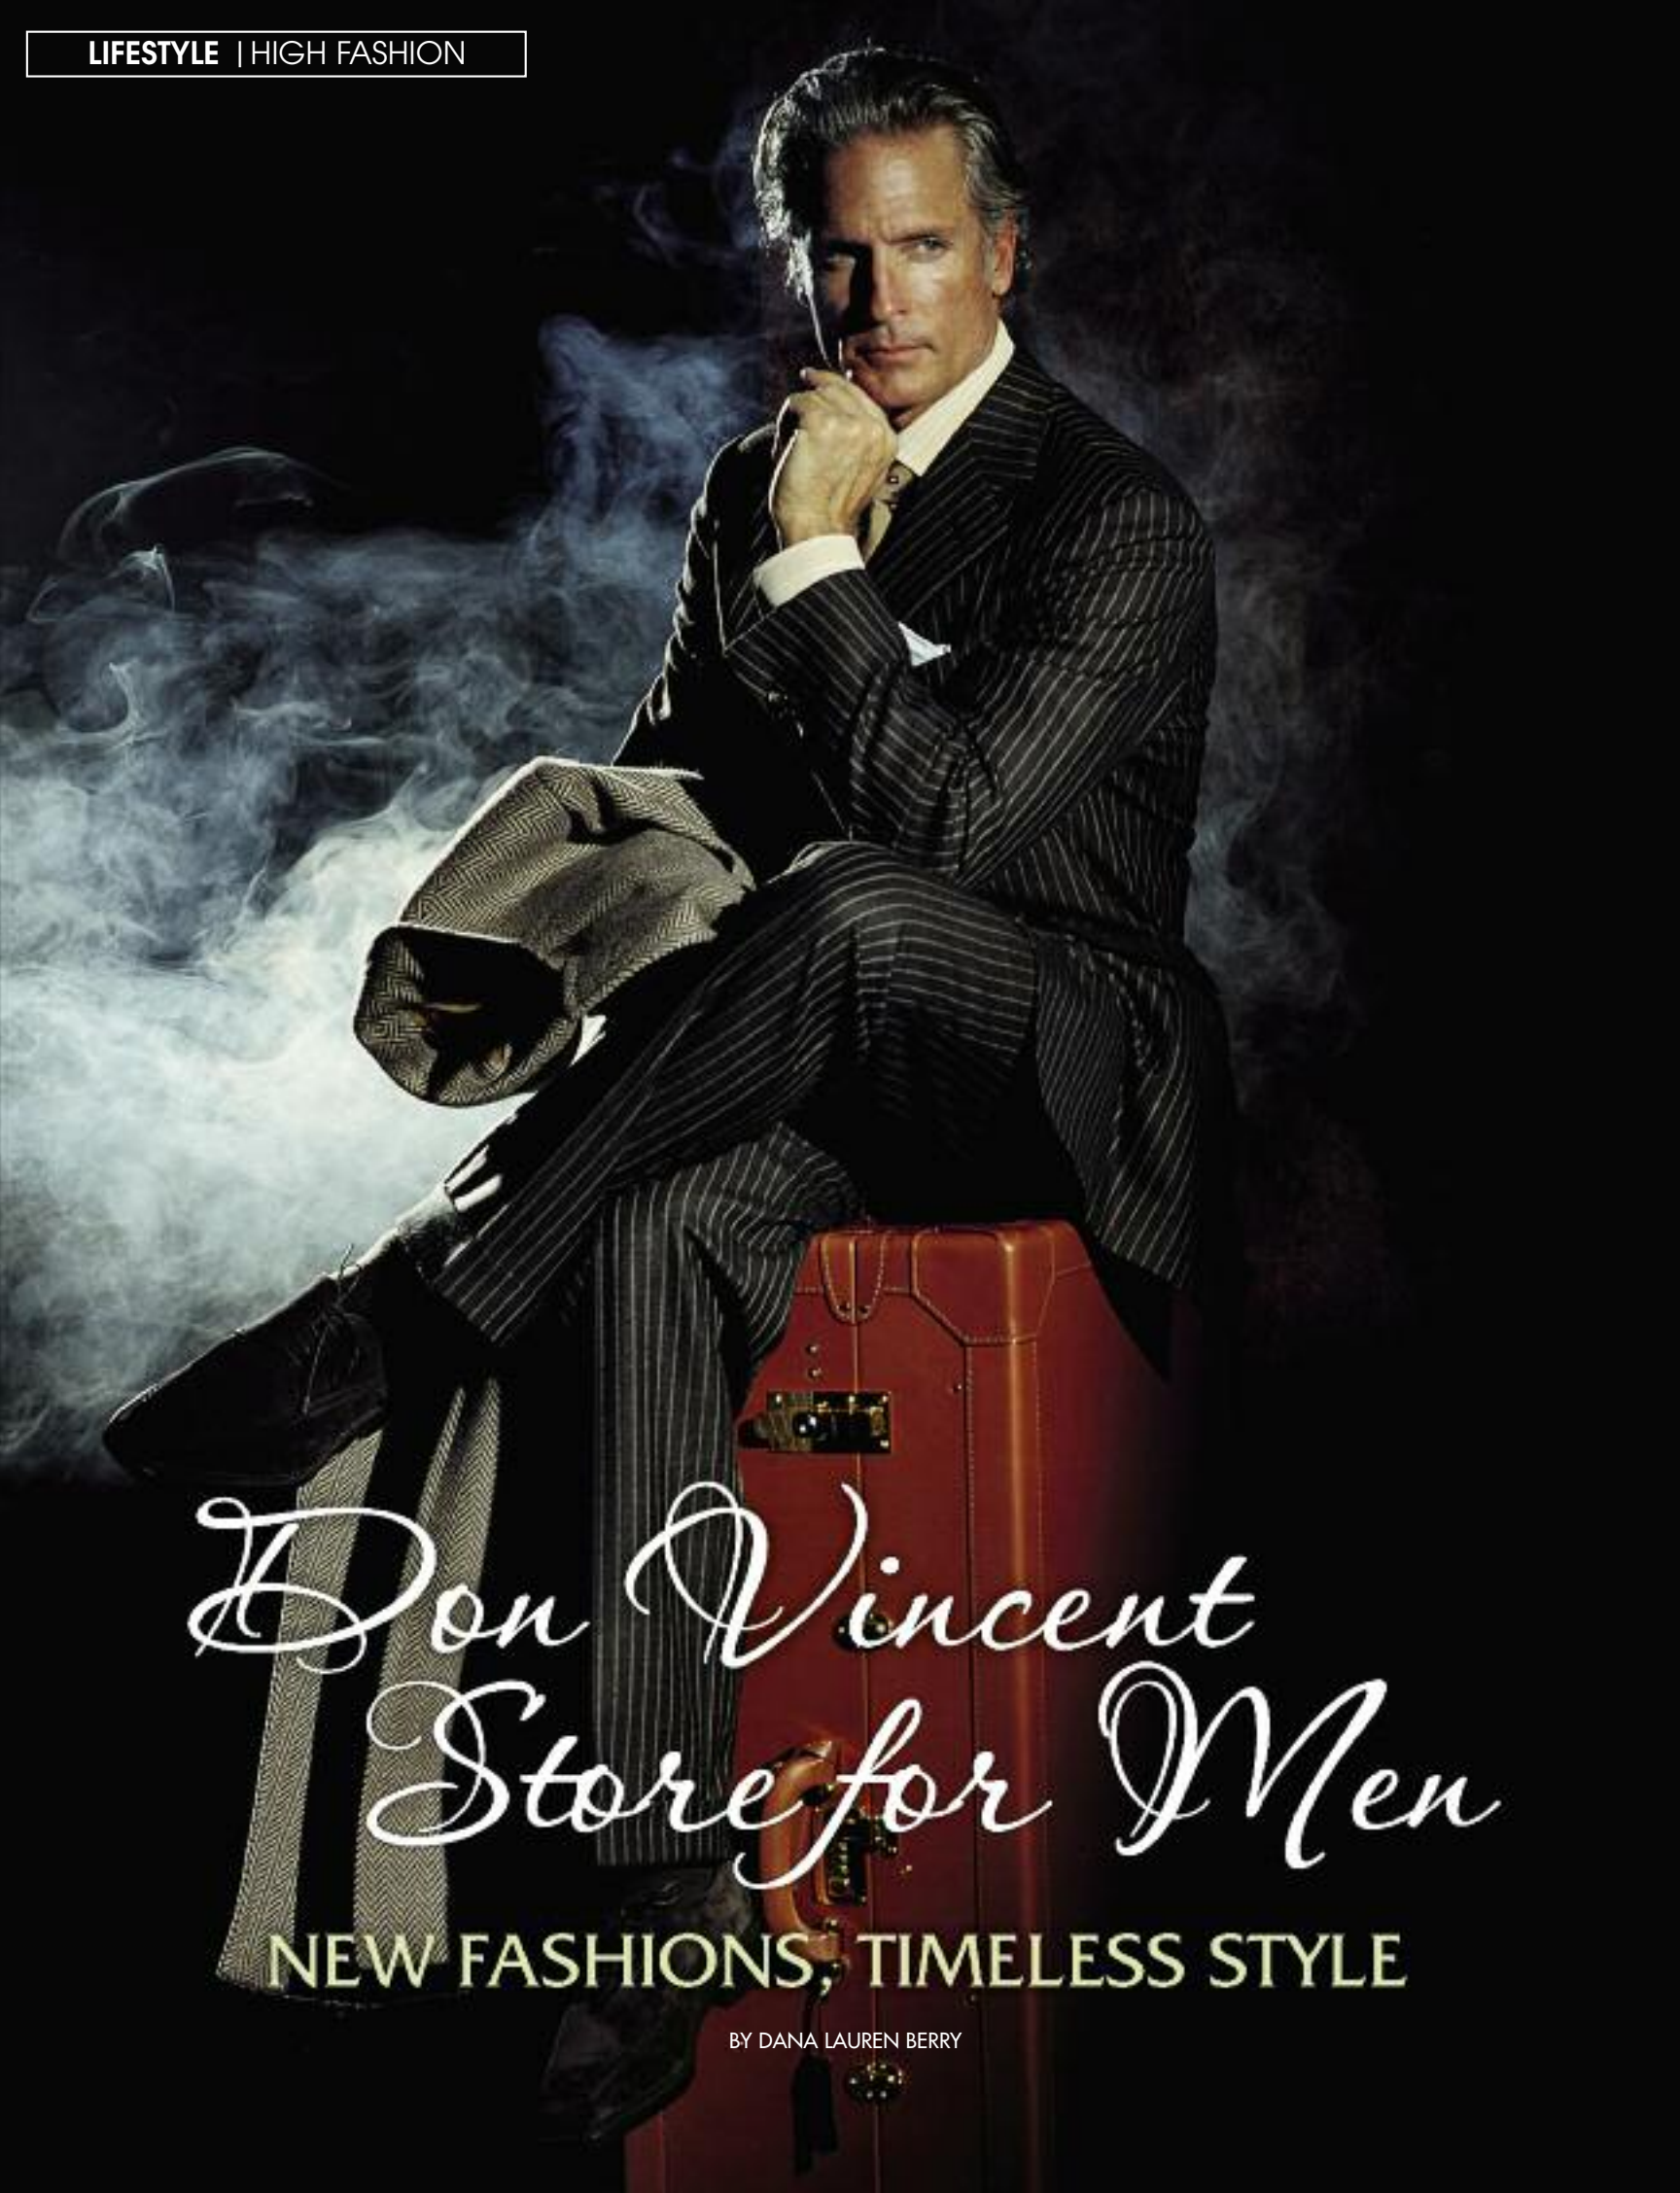

The company will launch its Arnold Palmer product line for men in spring 2008, just in time for Father's Day, and Haley believes that the line has appeal beyond the golf course. "Even the dad who doesn't play golf but enjoys the sport as a spectator will be happy when he can get 'authentic golf sportswear' with Arnold Palmer's name on it."

Haley says her biggest career accomplishment is conceiving and building a team that has taken Tehama from an idea to an over $50-million-dollar company.

"To receive the Ernie Sabayrac award is the confirmation of this successful accomplishment," she says. "It's so rewarding to see the changes in golf sportswear over the past 20 years and to know I helped initiate those changes."

FILA

Returns to the Fairways

THE ELITE SPORTS APPAREL COMPANY OFFERS
TWO COLLECTIONS THAT SET THE BAR
HIGH FOR GOLF WEAR

BY CHRISTINE LOOMIS

SINCE ITS ORIGINS IN BIELLA, ITALY IN 1911, FILA HAS DEFINED ITSELF AS AN ELITE SPORTS BRAND. TODAY, THE COMPANY CONTINUES TO SHAPE THE LOOK OF CONTEMPORARY SPORTS APPAREL, BRINGING ITS RICH PAST TO BEAR ON INNOVATIVE DESIGNS. NOT THAT INNOVATION IS ANYTHING NEW TO FILA. IN THE 1970S, FILA WAS THE FIRST COMPANY OF ITS KIND TO INTRODUCE COLOR TO TENNIS, AN INNOVATION EMBRACED BY TENNIS ICONS BJORN BORG, GUILLERMO VILLAS AND YVONNE GOOLAGONG. TENNIS HAS NEVER LOOKED BACK

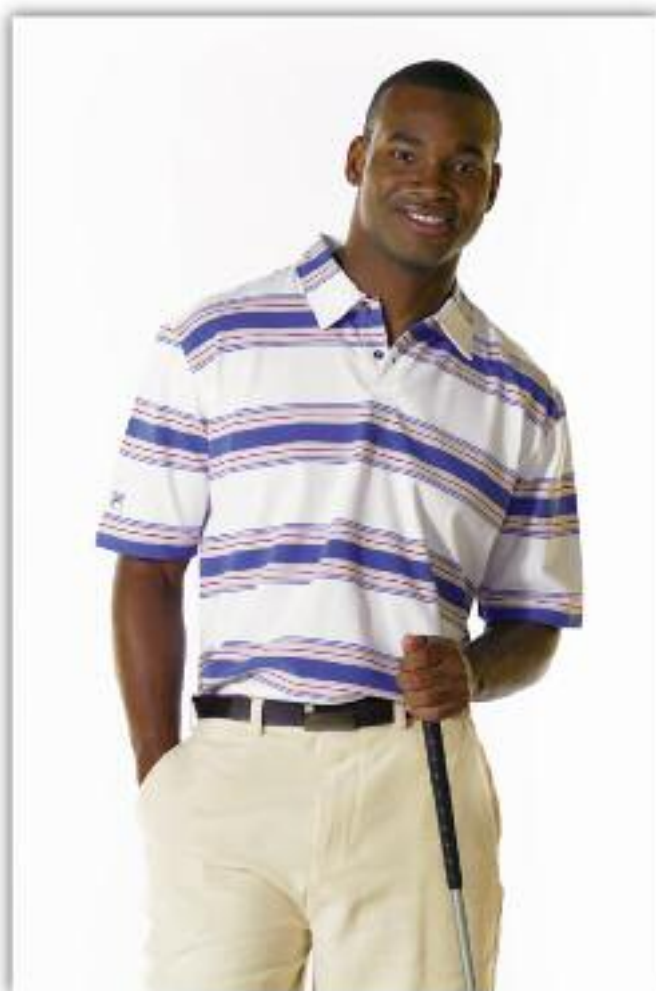

Fila was also there when Reinhold Messner scaled Mt. Everest without oxygen, and with legendary Swedish skier Ingemar Stenmark as he won an extraordinary 86 World Cup titles. Fila has been an iconic force on the greens of the British Open and in training for a Master's title with PGA champion Tom Watson.

Today, Fila builds on its remarkable history and expertise as it returns to the fairways with a new golf collection for men and women. Not surprising, it's a collection defined by elegant styling, impeccable quality and the finest materials.

"Fila is bringing its own influence on style and performance apparel as it returns to the golf apparel market," says Jeff Clark, the company's Director of Golf.

Fila's contemporary golf apparel is bold and elegant, created with state-of-the-art fabrics that meet—and exceed—the performance needs and comfort expectations of today's sophisticated golfers. There are two distinctive collections for golfers to choose from.

Italian fashion and style for him and her

Designed in Italy, the Italia collection is aimed at the fashion-forward consumer, merging fashion and function with a respectful nod at the golf traditionalist.

Understated elegance, craftsmanship and the use of rich hues and patterns speak to Fila's history as a style innovator and to its textile expertise.

The women's Italia collection includes styles such as the Jacquard Snow Mock Neck, which features a finely knitted front and solid jersey back with keyhole detailing and saddle shoulders. Fabric and design allow for comfort and ease in movement from the start of the swing to the finish. The men's Italia collection features a variety of performance polos with distinctive detailing. Layering pieces such as sweater vests and mock neck pullovers and polos provides stylish versatility from the course to the clubhouse to a casually elegant dinner. Prices range from $65 to $150.

Staying green on the course and off

This collection is all about performance and environmentally friendly fabrics that look as good as they feel. The FilaGreen collection features organic textiles, ranging from bamboo to modal to tencel fabrics.

"Going green is a key trend across many industries, and it was natural that Fila assume a lead position in the golf apparel industry," says Clark. "Consumers want the performance fabrication, but also the natural fibers that are environmentally friendly and comfortable."

Among the collection are pieces with bamboo woven throughout the yarn. Bamboo is a highly renewable resource that doesn't require chemicals or pesticides to grow, it's biodegradable and it has natural antibacterial properties. Natural fibers are beneficial not just for the environment but also for consumers with sensitive skin, and though the fibers offer a softer touch and feel than cotton, they are equally as strong as polyester. The FilaGreen collection offers the performance characteristics that golfers today expect, such as moisture wicking and UV protection for long days on the course. Designed in a traditional golf color palette, the collection includes a complete range of polos, shorts, pants and layering pieces. For golfers who like to look and feel good, who demand high performance apparel, who want to be "green" and who like to be in the forefront of fashion, the FilaGreen collection is made to order. Prices range from $60 to $80.

Fila Golf is available at high-end resort shops and other specialty stores. To find a store near you go to shop.fila.com/us/eng and click on store locator.

FILA Green.

True to Fila's rich heritage of innovation in sportswear, Fila has returned to the game of golf with its original Green collection; sophisticated apparel which combines performance characteristics with the comfort of today's natural fibers.

Dazzling Jewelry for the Holiday Season

LESLIE GREENE

OUTSHINE THE MOST EXQUISITELY LIT TREE WITH YOUR OWN BRILLIANT ORNAMENTS

BY DANA LAUREN BERRY

THE HOLIDAYS ARE A GREAT TIME TO PUT ON THE GLITZ, AND JEWELRY DESIGNS IN DAZZLING ARRAYS OF DIAMONDS AND COLORED GEMSTONES ARE BOTH FESTIVE AND GLAMOROUS. PAIRED WITH BLUE JEANS OR A COCKTAIL DRESS, THESE PRECIOUS BAUBLES ARE SURE TO ATTRACT ATTENTION AND BE A CONVERSATION STARTER DURING THE HOLIDAYS AND ALL YEAR ROUND

The Cuff

The cuff bracelet is making waves lately as an elegant piece that can be worn alone or with a matching necklace to make a statement. Leslie Greene's "Grand Monarch" cuff is an intricate, beautiful design that is feminine, delicate and full of sparkle. Retailing for $15,590, the stunning cuff can be found at Nordstrom and select Bailey, Banks and Biddle stores. Celebs such as Teri Hatcher, Kelly Ripa and Hilary Swank are fans of Leslie Greene jewelry.

Addison Taylor of Scottsdale, Ariz. makes a stunning two-inch cuff and matching drop earrings. The cuff bracelet is more than 22 carats, including 8 carats of round brilliant-cut diamonds and 14 carats of trillion-cut diamonds. This custom sparkler retails for $82,750. Matching drop earrings shimmer with more than 14 carats of diamonds in varying cuts—11.4 pear shape, 2.11 briolette cut and .61 rose cut. The earrings retail for $174,500. Addison Taylor designs are custom-made by owner/jewelry designer Scott Berger, and each piece is one-of-a-kind. Berger has been known to create amazing designs for his clients based on the client's sketch of his or her vision, and he also has re-created family heirloom pieces.

For something a little more modern and colorful, French-Mexican designer Colette Steckel of Colette Jewelry makes a cuff bracelet in 18-karat yellow gold featuring a floral pattern, with different gemstones accentuating the gold flowers. Called the "wild cuff," it's available for $10,000 at the Colette boutique, 8455 Melrose Place in Los Angeles, and at Saks Fifth Avenue stores.

Designer Chad Allison has a nearly six-carat intricate diamond cuff set in 18-karat white gold for $15,950. Chad Allison Couture is available at Hyde Park Jewelers in Las Vegas and Phoenix.

The Pendant

The 18-karat white gold and diamond pendant necklace is a must-have, timeless piece that can be dressed up or down. The Isabella pendant by Leslie Greene is reminiscent of Italian styling with its curved design. Priced at $4,225, the matching earrings, $4,070, are the perfect complement to this piece.

Designer Phyllis Bergman's "Life & Love" collection, launched just this October, features a stunning pave set, white gold

"Medallion" diamond pendant with a 16-diamond link chain. The pendant retails for $2,500 and is available at Hamra Jewelers in Scottsdale as well as online at Fortunoff.com

Jason of Beverly Hills offers gorgeous pendants featuring floating diamonds. The company, owned and operated by fine diamond designer Jason Arasheben, offers custom jewelry and is the exclusive retailer for diamond and crystal Stessier jewelry. The Stessier bay crescent moon pendant features full-cut round brilliant white diamonds with floating diamonds encased within hand-cut crystal, $1,875. The cross pendant, also featuring floating diamonds, is $3,500. Other whimsical designs include the baby purse.

The Ring

Bold, oversized cocktail-style rings are still hugely popular. Whether featuring an intricately delicate or strong and simple setting, you can't go wrong with a large, flashy ring. The Addison Taylor ladies' diamond ring features a princess-cut three-carat diamond set in a custom 18-karat white gold handmade diamond solitaire setting of 145 round brilliant "Ideal Cut" diamonds. This amazing ring retails for $68,500.

Jason of Beverly Hills has a flower cocktail ring that is a sure to attract attention. The ring's full-cut round brilliant white pave diamonds are set onto 18-karat white gold, retailing for $6,500. The oversized Bombay cocktail ring, $10,000, has more than four carats of diamonds set in 18-karat white gold.

Designer Philip Stone has several rings in gorgeous colors, including pink sapphire, blue sapphire and emerald, each paired with diamonds and priced between $12,225 and $29,500 at Hyde Park Jewelers.
