Publisher's Notes

February/March 2026

February and March in the desert deliver the Coachella Valley at its absolute best. This is the season when our region truly comes alive, offering an unmatched lifestyle defined by sunshine, world-class recreation, and a calendar filled with premier events. From some of the finest golf courses on the planet to tennis that rivals any destination in the world, the valley shines brightest during these months.

With arguably the best winter weather in the United States, the Coachella Valley becomes a playground for every interest and every passion. Tennis takes center stage with one of the largest tournaments on the global stage, the BNP Paribas Open in Indian Wells, CA, joined by headline-grabbing events such as Desert Smash at the La Quinta Resort, Taste of Tennis at the Hyatt Grand Champions, Fashion Week El Paseo, and the Food & Wine Festival at The Gardens on El Paseo in Palm Desert, CA. Few destinations can match this concentration of sport, style, and culinary excellence in such a short span of time.

We are proud once again to provide exclusive distribution of this publication throughout the BNP Paribas Open. This year's cover features Jannik Sinner, the current world number two and former world number one in 2024. Since turning professional in 2018, Sinner has established himself as one of the most compelling and accomplished players in the game today. The BNP Paribas Open continues to be a powerful economic engine for the region, generating more than $852 million in economic impact for the Coachella Valley in 2025 alone. Please turn to page 12 to explore our in-depth coverage of the tournament.

Feeding and entertaining more than 500,000 ticket holders over three weeks is no small feat, and the BNP Paribas Open has set a new standard for food and beverage at a global sporting event. In this issue, we highlight the diverse and elevated dining options available throughout the tournament on pages 40 and 45, showcasing why Indian Wells has become as much a culinary destination during the tournament as a tennis destination.

Also featured in this issue is our coverage of the 2026 Desert Smash at the La Quinta Resort, one of the most anticipated charity tennis events of the year. Hosted in recent years by global entertainment icons such as Pink and Charlize Theron, Desert Smash blends celebrity, philanthropy, and world-class tennis into a relaxed and entertaining day under the desert sun. Many of today's top tennis stars join the festivities both on and off the court. Please see our feature on page 18.

We are also proud to continue our partnership with Palm Springs Life to help promote two signature events that define the valley's cultural scene. Fashion Week El Paseo brings the latest runway looks from New York and Paris to the desert, spotlighting top designers in a sophisticated outdoor setting. Immediately following, the Food & Wine Festival offers two days of exceptional culinary experiences featuring acclaimed local chefs, visiting restaurants, and premier wineries. Both events are cornerstones of the Coachella Valley social calendar and truly not to be missed.

As always, we hope you enjoy this issue as much as we enjoyed creating it. Welcome to the season, and welcome to the very best of desert living.

The BNP Paribas Open – Tennis Paradise!

Carlos Alcaraz, the world number one and a fan favorite in the desert, arrives in 2026 looking to reclaim the title

Jannik Sinner, whose clinical ball-striking and unflappable temperament have made him the most consistent force on the tour

As the global tennis circuit shifts its focus toward the sun-drenched landscape of the Coachella Valley, the anticipation for the 2026 BNP Paribas Open has reached a fever pitch. Scheduled to take place from March 1 to March 15 at the iconic Indian Wells Tennis Garden, this tournament remains the crown jewel of the early-season hard-court swing. Often referred to by players and fans alike as the Fifth Grand Slam, the event has earned a reputation for combining the competitive intensity of a major championship with the relaxed, luxurious atmosphere of a desert oasis. The 2026 edition arrives at a fascinating juncture for professional tennis, characterized by a generational transition on the men's side and a era of sustained dominance on the women's tour.

The Prestige of Tennis Paradise — The Indian Wells Tennis Garden is more than just a sports venue; it is a sprawling complex designed to cater to every whim of the tennis enthusiast. With its stunning backdrop of the Santa Rosa Mountains and its perfectly manicured grounds, the facility provides an aesthetic experience that few other tournaments can match. The sheer scale of the operation is immense, featuring the second-largest permanent tennis stadium in the world, Stadium 1, which holds more than 16,000 spectators. However, the magic of the BNP Paribas Open is often found in the smaller details, such as the practice courts where fans can stand just feet away from their idols or the high-end dining options that elevate the experience far beyond typical stadium fare.

The 2026 tournament enters the calendar year with immense momentum following the historic success of the previous season. In 2025, the BNP Paribas Open shattered its own attendance records, welcoming a staggering total of 504,268 fans through the gates over the course of the fortnight. This marked the first time in the history of the event that the half-million milestone was surpassed, a feat that underscores the growing popularity of tennis in North America and the unique draw of the Indian Wells experience. The surge in ticket sales has been attributed to a combination of factors, including the emergence of charismatic young champions and the continued modernization of the venue. Organizers are optimistic that the 2026 edition will see even greater numbers as fans flock to see the next chapter of the sport's evolving rivalries.

The men's draw is headlined by a quartet of stars who have effectively separated themselves from the rest of the pack. Carlos Alcaraz, the world number one and a fan favorite in the desert, arrives in 2026 looking to reclaim the title he has previously held with such flair. His explosive movement and creative shot-making are perfectly suited to the gritty hard courts of Stadium 1, and he remains the man to beat whenever he steps onto the court. Just behind him is Jannik Sinner, whose clinical ball-striking and unflappable temperament have made him the most consistent force on the tour over the last eighteen months. The rivalry between Alcaraz and Sinner, often dubbed “Sincaraz,” has become the defining narrative of modern tennis, and a potential final between the two would be the dream scenario for tournament organizers.

Alexander Zverev

Occupying the third and fourth spots in the ATP rankings are Alexander Zverev and the legendary Novak Djokovic. Zverev continues to be a formidable obstacle for anyone in the draw, utilizing his massive serve and backhand to dominate opponents on fast-moving surfaces. Meanwhile, Djokovic remains the ultimate enigma and the benchmark for greatness. Even as he manages a more selective schedule in the later stages of his career, the Serbian maestro’s return to Indian Wells is always a monumental occasion. His tactical brilliance and unmatched defensive skills ensure that he is always a threat to add another Masters 1000 trophy to his record-breaking collection. These four titans represent a blend of youth, prime-age athleticism, and veteran wisdom that makes the ATP draw incredibly unpredictable.

Aryna Sabalenka, known for her raw power and aggressive baseline play, has found a new level of mental fortitude that has made her nearly unbeatable

Iga Swiatek

On the women’s side, the competition is defined by a compelling duality at the top of the rankings. World number one Aryna Sabalenka and world number second-ranked Iga Swiatek have established a level of dominance that harkens back to the era of the great rivalries of the past. Sabalenka, known for her raw power and aggressive baseline play, has found a new level of mental fortitude that has made her nearly unbeatable on hard courts. Her ability to dictate play from the first serve makes her a daunting opponent in the thin desert air, where the ball tends to fly.

Standing in her way is Iga Swiatek, the tactical genius of the WTA. Swiatek’s heavy topspin and exceptional court coverage allow her to neutralize power hitters and find angles that other players simply cannot see. She has a deep affinity for the Indian Wells conditions, having won the title here twice before. The contrast in styles between Sabalenka’s brute force and Swiatek’s rhythmic precision provides a fascinating chess match every time they meet. While the field is deep with talent, including young phenoms and resurgent veterans, the tennis world is largely focused on whether anyone can disrupt the duopoly held by these two champions.

The 2026 tournament will also be a major test for the defending champions, Jack Draper

Defending champion,
Mirra Andreeva

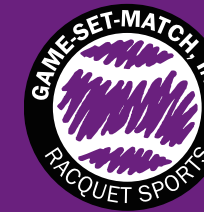

The 2026 tournament will also be a major test for the defending champions, Jack Draper and Mirra Andreeva, who both enjoyed career-defining breakthroughs in the desert last year. Draper's run to the title in 2025 was a masterclass in aggressive left-handed tennis, proving that he belongs among the elite. For Andreeva, her triumph at such a young age signaled the arrival of a generational talent who possesses a tennis IQ far beyond her years. Both will face the immense pressure of defending 1,000 ranking points, a task that often reveals the true character of a champion.

Beyond the established stars, the 2026 BNP Paribas Open will serve as a launchpad for the next wave of talent. The expanded draw and the two-week format allow for deep runs from unseeded players, often resulting in the kind of underdog stories that capture the public's imagination. With the qualifying rounds beginning on March 1, the grounds will be buzzing with activity long before the main draw stars take to the stadium courts.

As the sun sets over the Coachella Valley on finals Sunday, the 2026 BNP Paribas Open will undoubtedly have added several new chapters to the storied history of this tournament. Whether it is a veteran cementing their legacy or a teenager announcing their arrival on the world stage, the Indian Wells Tennis Garden remains the perfect theater for the drama of professional tennis. With a record-setting crowd expected and the world's best players in peak form, the 2026 edition is set to be an unforgettable celebration of the sport.

22 years of bringing Hollywood and pro tennis together for charity

“When Desert Smash calls, Hollywood Listens,” according to “The Hollywood Reporter.”

Not so arguably one of the Coachella Valley's and the country's most popular celebrity tennis events, the 22nd Annual Desert Smash promises to ignite the sports and culture scenes in a way that's bigger, bolder, and hotter than ever. Produced by Epic Sports and Entertainment and founded by Ryan Macaulay, this year's sizzling action - on-court and off - will again showcase two days of court sports, high octane experiences, mega brand sponsors, and as always, celebrity movers and shakers on March 2-3, 2026 at the glamorous La Quinta Resort and Club.

With two nearly full days of curated excitement, food and drink, sports, and laughter, the extravaganza artfully combines tennis, music and Hollywood for charity. Since its inception in 2004, this spirited party raises funds for charitable causes, combining competitive matches with entertainment and VIP experiences. This year, the event will benefit the USTA Foundation, the charitable arm of the USTA which is the governing body of Tennis in the United States.

The USTA Foundation, founded in 1994, is guided by the intrinsic belief that every child deserves the chance to author their best life story—but the reality is, not everyone gets a chance to do so. The USTA Foundation is on a mission to change that throughout the U.S. through the incredible combination of tennis and education.

The marquee event, held Tuesday, March 3, is a celebrity and pro tennis exhibition at the La Quinta Resort's scenic Stadium Court, featuring epic top-10 WTA and ATP singles matches and two captivating doubles matches, pairing celebrities with tennis pros. With all the players mic'd up, the matches are dynamic thrill rides. Fan options range from VIP on-court seating to live ball playing experiences with current and past pros. Renowned for their incredible talent line-up, past tennis pros have included Novak Djokovic, Serena Williams, Casper Ruud, Nick Kyrgios, Naomi Osaka, Victoria Azarenka, Alycia Parks, Frances Tiafoe, Ons Jabeur, Victoria Azarenka, Alexander “Sascha” Zverev, Donna Vekić, Barbora Krejčíková (who won her first Wimbledon title in 2024), Stan Wawrinka and other tennis royalty.

Desert Smash purposely dovetails with the start of the BNP Paribas Open, the “fifth Grand Slam,” in adjacent Indian Wells. Charlize Theron and Pink! served as celebrity hosts in 2024 and 2025 respectively, and this year fans eagerly anticipate the announcement of the 2026 host.

Last year's roster of glitterati saw plenty of other stars on site including “Saturday Night Live” alumni Jon Lovitz and Cheri Oteri. Previous year's VIP guests have included Justin Bieber, Kevin Hart, Gavin Rossdale, Wanda Sykes, Donna Mills, Randy Jackson, Nicole Ari Parker, Boris Kodjoe, Joel McHale, Kevin Spacey, Rebel Wilson, Jon Hamm, Joe Pesci, Lance Bass and an awe-inspiring cast of others.

After such a huge inaugural success last year, Macaulay plans to bring back the Hexclad “Cuisine Court” to Desert Smash on Tuesday, representing a tasteful and high-profile partnership with the luxury kitchen company Hexclad which brought in some of their impressive list of chef brand ambassadors from all over the country. Like last year, there will be multiple food stations from talented top chefs offering superlative cuisine to accompany the mixologist-based, super premium open bars serving top shelf spirits, margaritas and featured drinks such as the Ace Paloma presented by tequila sponsor Maestro Dobel.

The team is excited to also partner with early supporters including apparel sponsor Boast, pickleball partner JOOLA, Yonex, Marker Broadcasting, Gulf Broadcasting and KESQ-3, and renowned global tennis supporter, IBM. Desert Smash unites the worlds of Hollywood and pro tennis and annually attracts media coverage from “Entertainment Tonight,” “Access Hollywood,” “Hollywood Reporter,” “Vogue,” “Vanity Fair,” “Forbes,” “Fortune,” “Rolling Stone” and dozens of others from around the world, including “Desert Golf and Tennis.”

The convergence of camaraderie and corporate alignment becomes part of the “Desert Smash Sponsor Village” of brands showcasing their products while celebrities work the red carpet, guests sip from multiple premium hosted bars, and high profile DJs spin tunes elevating the energy.

Insiders and VIPs can look forward to the invite-only Desert Smash Bash—the “glam slam after party”—held at Zenyara, the private 80 acre, ultra luxury private estate in nearby Coachella owned by billionaire philanthropist Michael Scott.

Macaulay acknowledges that the scenic La Quinta Resort and Club has been integral to the success of Desert Smash, joining forces early on and now serving as the world-class hospitality venue partner. This year, guests will get to enjoy the spoils of the resort’s recent $90 million renovations and face lift, with all rooms being completely refurbished along with updated event areas, lobby and spectacular new adult pool area and bar.

By creating the ultimate luxury tennis spectator event, Desert Smash is now a command performance for stars, tennis fans, community supporters and media outlets alike, lobbying the standards even higher for fun and philanthropy in 2026!

Mission Hills Country Club

Compelling blend of historical sporting significance and upscale desert club living

The storied legacy and contemporary lifestyle of Mission Hills Country Club, located in Rancho Mirage, California, is a compelling blend of historical sporting significance and upscale desert club living. Since its establishment in the early 1970s as a premier private club within approximately 1,760 acres of desert landscape, Mission Hills Country Club has garnered international recognition for its championship golf courses, social prominence, and resort-quality amenities.

Mission Hills Country Club in Rancho Mirage, California, remains one of the Coachella Valley’s most distinguished private clubs, defined by its championship golf heritage, expansive athletic offerings, and a lifestyle centered on community and refinement. Set against the dramatic backdrop of the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto Mountains, the club has evolved over decades into a destination where historic sporting moments intersect seamlessly with modern amenities and an active desert lifestyle.

The club’s reputation was built largely on golf, and its three championship courses continue to be central to the Mission Hills identity. The Dinah Shore Tournament Course is internationally recognized for hosting one of women’s golf’s most celebrated events for more than four decades. Formerly home to the Nabisco Dinah Shore, Kraft Nabisco Championship, and later the ANA Inspiration, the course witnessed defining moments in LPGA history and produced enduring traditions, including the iconic leap into Poppie’s Pond by tournament champions. The course combines strategic shot-making with classic design elements and remains a favorite among members who appreciate its blend of challenge and legacy. The Arnold Palmer Course reflects Palmer’s design philosophy of fairness and playability, offering wide fairways, thoughtful bunkering, and subtle greens that reward smart decisions over brute power. Complementing it is the Pete Dye Challenge Course, the most demanding of the three, known for its visually intimidating layouts, water hazards, and elevated greens that test even accomplished golfers. Together, the three courses provide 54 holes of varied golf supported by a comprehensive practice facility, allowing members to enjoy both competitive play and relaxed rounds throughout the year.

Beyond golf, Mission Hills Country Club offers one of the most extensive racquet sports programs in the region. Its tennis complex features dozens of courts across hard, grass, and clay surfaces, accommodating players of all levels. Instructional programs, inter-club leagues, exhibitions, and social mixers foster an active and inclusive tennis community. In recent years, pickleball has emerged as a major focal point of the club's racquet offerings, reflecting the sport's rapid growth and popularity among members. Dedicated pickleball courts host daily open play, instructional clinics, and a robust calendar of competitive events. Mission Hills regularly stages organized pickleball tournaments that draw participants from within the membership as well as invited guests, creating a spirited atmosphere that blends competition with social engagement. These tournaments range from friendly round-robin formats to more structured bracketed competitions, often paired with social gatherings, post-match dining, and awards presentations that reinforce the club's emphasis on camaraderie as much as athletic excellence.

The club's croquet program adds another distinctive dimension to life at Mission Hills. Recognized nationally and named USA Croquet Club of the Year, the croquet courts are meticulously maintained and host lessons, leagues, and tournaments throughout the season. Croquet events are known for their social character, frequently combining competition with themed gatherings that appeal to both seasoned players and newcomers curious about the sport.

Aquatic and fitness amenities further enhance the everyday lifestyle. The pool complex includes a junior Olympic-size swimming pool ideal for lap swimming and aquatic fitness classes, along with a separate pool designed for families and casual recreation. These spaces become social hubs during warmer months, offering shaded lounging areas and a relaxed resort-style atmosphere. The Sports and Wellness Center anchors the club's health and fitness offerings, featuring a large, fully equipped gym with modern strength and cardio equipment, group exercise studios, and personalized training programs. Yoga, Pilates, and wellness classes are integrated into weekly schedules, while spa and recovery services provide opportunities for relaxation and rejuvenation.

At the center of the community stands the remodeled clubhouse, which serves as both a social gathering place and a symbol of the club's evolution. Redesigned to emphasize open spaces, natural light, and sweeping mountain views, the clubhouse blends contemporary design with a warm, inviting atmosphere. Multiple dining venues cater to varied tastes, from casual lunches after a morning round of golf to more refined evening dining experiences. Terraces and outdoor seating areas encourage members to linger, socialize, and take in the surrounding desert landscape, reinforcing the sense of place that defines Mission Hills.

Social programming ties these amenities together into a cohesive lifestyle. Seasonal events, themed dinners, holiday celebrations, and sporting tournaments create a dynamic calendar that keeps members engaged year-round. Whether gathering after a pickleball tournament, attending a wine dinner at the clubhouse, or enjoying a sunset swim, members experience Mission Hills not simply as a country club, but as a vibrant community built around shared interests and an appreciation for quality living.

Mission Hills Country Club's enduring appeal lies in its ability to honor its storied past while continuously adapting to contemporary lifestyles. With championship golf, nationally recognized racquet and croquet programs, a growing pickleball tournament scene, and comprehensive wellness amenities, the club offers an environment where tradition, activity, and social connection coexist. It remains a benchmark for private club living in the Coachella Valley, defined by excellence, history, and an unmistakable sense of community.

Michael Hurdzan Golf

Design excellence, military discipline, and environmental leadership

By Alison Elsner

From Green Beret to green design

The jungle was alive with whispers—venomous coils sliding through the underbrush and the metallic click of a trap waiting to spring. Intrepid Green Beret Captain Mike Hurdzan moved like a stealthy shadow, every step calculated, every breath measured. As head of a U.S. Army's Special Forces 12-man A-team, he had dismantled a booby-trapped aircraft at midnight, led soldiers through snake-infested hellscape, and stared death in the eye more times than he could count. It was training at the most intense level, a high stakes poker game which meant life or death.

To the world, though, he was something else entirely—a celebrated and brilliant golf course architect, crafting serene landscapes where the real hazards are carefully choreographed sand traps, chemically balanced water features, and environmental integrity.

Firecliff Course, Desert willow Resort
Palm Desert, CA

Firecliff Course, Desert Willow Resort
Palm Desert, CA

This could be the script of a new hit movie, but it's reality for Dr. Michael Hurdzan, one of the most recognized and accomplished golf course design architects today.

Dr. Hurdzan represents a prolific mentality of high standards and a focus on excellence, built on a foundation of gratitude. His academic background includes a BS in turfgrass management from Ohio State University, a master's degree in plant and soil science, and a PhD in environmental plant physiology.

After completing his undergraduate degree at OSU in 1966, he joined the U.S. Army Reserve. He served 30 years in the U.S. Army Reserve and U.S. Army Special Forces (Green Berets), retiring as a Colonel in 1996. His service earned him numerous honors, including the Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Army Commendation Medal, and Army Achievement Medal.

Hurdzan said, "I was always patriotic growing up. I loved the Special Forces and being with other highly driven people who were committed to each other. It still amazes me what a person can accomplish."

He adds, "My personal philosophy is if you're going to be a bear, be a grizzly."

His military career included leadership roles and specialized training, which he often credits for shaping his discipline and strategic thinking in golf course design.

He has earned three of the most prestigious honors in golf course architecture, completing the rare "non-playing Grand Slam" in his field with the Don A. Rossi Award from the Golf Course Builders Association of America in 2002; the Donald Ross Award from the American Society of Golf Course Architects in 2007; and the Old Tom Morris Award from the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America in 2013. In receiving all three, Hurdzan became part of an elite group of only seven individuals, alongside legends like Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

A powerful source of fulfillment for him has been and remains the privilege of partnering with his son Dr. Christopher Hurdzan in their firm, Hurdzan Golf.

Coachella Valley residents may recognize the name as the architectural force behind the Firecliff and the Mountain View courses at Desert Willow Golf Resort in Palm Desert. Firecliff was originally designed and built in 1997 by Hurdzan along with Dana Fry and John Cook, by what was at the time the firm of Hurdzan and Fry. Hurdzan attributes his hire by the City of Palm Desert to his strong grasp of the scientific and environmental design elements of the process.

Hurdzan said, "My company was, and still is, the leader in environmental design. At the time, we included our friend John Cook, the PGA Tour player who lived in the area. The City knew they had an environmental design team and a local superstar golfer, so they gave us lots of freedom to do things right."

Hurdzan explained that in the early stages of design, they had high hopes for the Firecliff golf course becoming the final day venue for The Bob Hope Desert Classic Golf Tournament. That meant leaving lots of room for guest corridors between holes and building up mounding along the fairways and greens so spectators could look down and see the golfers and the action as well as creating demanding golf holes.

He said, "The tournament never came to Desert Willow for a variety of external reasons, but the resulting golf course became a superior pay-for-play facility and an environmental model because of our design philosophy which emphasizes environmental sustainability and natural harmony in course design."

In 2024, Hurdzan returned to oversee a significant renovation of Firecliff—resurfacing greens, reshaping tee boxes, reducing turf and ensuring preservation of precious water resources. This culminated in a grand reopening on December 20, 2024.

He said, "Desert Willow's companion course, Mountain View, was designed to be more forgiving and friendly to less advanced golfers with many of the same qualities as its bigger brother. But it is more integrated with desert living development."

He added, “The point is that there is a lot of variety as far as challenges and experiences between the two courses, but both are maintained to the highest practical standards.”

Something that has always baffled Hurdzan in his decades of golf course design, especially in the desert, was the tendency to conceal the indigenous assets and natural beauty of the desert landscape. His overriding ethos has been to celebrate the desert individuality and showcase the local flora and fauna.

He said, “The inspiration for the landscaping at Desert Willow comes from studying the vegetation naturally growing at the Indian oases along the San Andreas fault not far from the golf course.”

Hurdzan said that his golf course design breakthrough came when he partnered with the founders of the board game Trivial Pursuit, Chris Haney and Scott Abbott, in 1991 in Caledon Village, Ontario, Canada. The collaboration resulted in Devil's Pulpit, named after the rock formation of legend within First Nation's territory, and Devil's Paintbrush, in honor of the vibrant wildflower otherwise known as orange hawkweed. Situated on the southern slope of the Niagara Escarpment, the land spans 315 acres of rolling terrain. Both courses were lauded as “Best New Courses in Canada” by “Golf Digest”—Pulpit in 1992 and Paintbrush in 1993.

They are among his proudest designs, and he describes them as akin to “a first love.”

Other acclaimed courses designed by Hurdzan's firm include Erin Hills Golf Course in Hartford, Wisconsin (home of the 2017 U.S. Open and 2025 U.S. Women's Open); Naples National Golf Club in Naples, Florida; and Calusa Pines Golf Club, also in Naples.

He said, “Of course, there were way over 400 other projects along the way.”

As for current endeavors, Hurdzan said, “The market has changed. The soup du jour designers are often younger, so it's a time for my son and me to work on courses that are within six hours drive time of our home base in Columbus, Ohio.”

That said, he's currently immersed in several remodeling initiatives, including Cincinnati Country Club (self-ranked as one of his top five courses); St. Clair Country Club in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Sunset Country Club in St. Louis, Missouri; and Huntington Crescent Country Club in Long Island, New York.

He said, “I largely gravitate towards renovations now. I find them challenging yet stimulating. It's a lot different than starting from scratch, because we need to work around existing landscaping, tree and environmental structures, layout, and residential concerns. There's less freedom but that's what makes it exciting to make it all align.”

The best part? Working with his son, Christopher, who lives 50 yards away from his parents Mike and Linda in a fully refurbished “barnominium” with his own wife and young son. Hurdzan considers himself highly family-oriented, savoring time spent with his wife, Linda, of 47 years, whom he also cherishes as his best friend.

His perspective is encapsulated with his view that “Every single employee and client has become a partner. My design work has involved building so much trust, with the City of Palm Desert and Desert Willow being examples of that team effort. I feel fortunate that every single client has made my journey so enjoyable.”

He continues, “I have the same approach to the golf business as I did with the military. Being team oriented is the most important thing. You can teach skills but teaching people to be sociable and trustworthy is a lot more difficult. Personality first is key for me.”

He reflects, “Whenever it's a good fit, it works out the way it should. In the end, I feel so blessed. And I have learned never to leave a good party.” ■ Written by Alison Elsner

Diamond Wish Fashion Week El Paseo

marks a new era in runway radiance

By Alison Elsner

In the world of high fashion, where luxury is woven through every stitch and style is infinitely more enduring than ephemeral trends, icons remind us that elegance is eternal and quality combined with confidence defines true glamour. As Coco Chanel famously said, “Fashion fades, only style remains the same.” Giorgio Armani reinforced the notion with, “Elegance is not standing out, but being remembered.”

The West Coast’s largest fashion week, Diamond Wish Fashion Week El Paseo presented by California Bank and Trust, will return on March 13–18 to The Gardens on El Paseo in Palm Desert. A showcase of sartorial superlatives, this world-class event provides an inspiring, immersive fashion experience and features cocktail receptions, pop-up shops, celebrity meet-and-greets, and much more.

Produced by “Palm Springs Life” magazine and highlighting a who’s-who of the country’s top design talents (including some stars of tomorrow), Diamond Wish Fashion Week El Paseo takes one of the world’s most relatable art forms that celebrates the newest collections of the industry’s most prominent influencers and innovators.

Diamond Wish luxury jeweler proudly assumes title sponsorship prominence this year, having recently celebrated their grand opening at the Shops on El Paseo in November with champagne, cocktails, and entertainment. Welcoming sponsor the City of Palm Desert is joined once again by couture sponsor, The Gardens on El Paseo.

Past Fashion Week runway designers have featured Pierre Cardin, Rodrigo Basilicati-Cardin, Ralph Rucci, Carolina Herrera, Roberto Cavalli, Etro, Leon Klaassen Bos, Josie Natori, Houghton, Edwin Oudshoorn, Trina Turk, Monique Lhuillier, NARCES, Adam Lippes, Lela Rose, Alice + Olivia, Kevan Hall, Zang Toi, Simon Ungless, Scooter LaForge, Ace Harper, LaQuan Smith, and many more.

This year’s series of soirées promises to be just as electric. Upon arrival at the upper level of the Gardens where the festivities begin, guests can plan to pose for photos before entering the big white tents for cocktails and socializing. While rubbing elbows at the reception, attendees can also experience music, sponsor displays and activations in addition to appetizer samplings and silent auctions.

There are often after-parties following each fashion show at chic locations and boutique hotels all around the desert. All functions begin with cocktails at 7 p.m. followed by fashion shows at 8 p.m. Reserved seating nightly in the first row is $150 and the second row goes for $200 with general seating available for $95.

Following is the rundown of shows:

Friday, March 13
Sergio Hudson Spring/Summer 2026

Power, polish, and precision come to the runway as celebrated American designer Sergio Hudson debuts his spring/summer 2026 collection. The benefiting charity for this show is Shay’s Warriors Life After Cancer.

Hudson has dressed celebrities and business women including Michelle Obama, Kamala Harris, Beyonce, Rihanna, Jennifer Lopez, Tiffany Haddish, Keke Palmer, Hilary Swank, Brooke Shields, Stevie Wonder, and numerous others.

Fashion show designers to be announced

On March 14, the benefiting charity will be Mama's House.

Monday, March 16
The Magic of El Paseo

One of the hallmarks of Fashion Week El Paseo is the spotlight on El Paseo itself as an illustrious shopping district. This show brings together collections from 10 retailers on the up-scale street, moving from athleisure and everyday ensembles to polished evening attire and a dose of glam. Featuring womenswear, menswear, and looks for kids, the runway will spotlight the way people really dress in the desert and captures the magic of the locale that many call home.

For two decades, this collection reveal has remained an essential moment of Fashion Week, celebrating the individuality and creative range that paint the fashion picture in Greater Palm Springs. The benefiting charity is Girlfriend Factor, and the restaurant partner for this show is Porta Via Palm Desert.

Tuesday, March 17
#We Say, Moda!

Presented by education sponsor Jordan Schnitzer, this fashion showcase offers an exciting glimpse into fashion's future. Istituto Marangoni Miami presents the collections of more than 14 outstanding couture design students poised to become creative leaders shaping the future of fashion.

Inspired by today's fast-paced, hyperconnected world, these designers unveil modern collections that challenge convention and supersede the boundaries of craftsmanship, technology, and aesthetic expression. Expect bold silhouettes, innovative textiles, and concepts that hint at the next evolution of fashion, where sustainability meets digital intelligence and couture intersects with reality.

The benefiting charity is Think Together, and the restaurant partner is Sottovoce Café.

Wednesday, March 18
Finale Night Fashion Show

The finale is sure to end with a bang, with the designer to be announced soon. The benefiting charity for the final gathering is BIGHORN BAM (Behind a Miracle) and the restaurant partner is Wilma and Frieda.

As fashionistas prepare to dress to impress, Fashion Week El Paseo reminds us that the season isn't just about clothes; it's about artistic expression, creativity, and the art of storytelling through style.

A culinary celebration fit for the Gods

By Alison Elsner

Palm Desert Food & Wine Festival 2026

Bacchus and Dionysus, the Roman and Greek Gods of Wine, and Ceres, the Roman God of the harvest, will once again be smiling down on all of us mere yet hungry and thirsty mortals who will be attending the Palm Desert Food and Wine Festival on March 19-22. (Bacchus and Dionysus are also the Gods of revelry, ritual, and sometimes debauchery, but that's probably a different discussion).

Presented by Agua Caliente Casinos, the premier Southern California culinary festival announces its star-studded 2026 celebrity chef lineup along with an all-new, elevated tasting event — the Carte Blanche Grand Tasting Experience — unveiling on both Saturday and Sunday of the festival. Designed for true food and wine connoisseurs, the Carte Blanche is a highly curated experience within the festival, showcasing fine wines, artisanal bites, and upscale exhibits.

This year's gourmet gathering will showcase some of the most recognizable names in the food world, including Curtis Stone, Jet Tila, Alex Guarnaschelli, Nancy Silverton, Zac Young, Afrim Pristine, Juan Morales, Andrew Cooper, Pedro Baroso, José Lopez, Chris Kajani and others. Each chef will bring their signature flair to the Coachella Valley with unforgettable moments of edible creativity.

Once again set to take place under the welcoming white tents on El Paseo in the heart of Palm Desert, the food and drink frenzy brings together food lovers, top chefs, winemakers, distillers, and lifestyle artisans for a weekend filled with great taste, community, and jubilation.

The four-day fête begins with Exploring Italian Wine and Cheese with Afrim Pristine on Thursday, March 19 at 6 p.m. ($125). Cheese lovers will learn all about the art of Italian cheesemaking and wine pairings from the legendary Pristine, Canada's premier maître fromager (cheese master).

On Friday, March 20, beginning at 11:30 a.m., The James Beard Gourmet Four-Course Luncheon ($250) welcomes four acclaimed chefs for an afternoon of cooking and conversation. This year's luncheon will be hosted by Curtis Stone, Michelin-starred chef, restaurateur, and TV host who continues to redefine fine dining.

Fans of Stone are aware that he opened his first solo restaurant, Maude, in Beverly Hills in 2014, which earned a Michelin star in 2019. After a decade-long run as one of the most sought-after reservations in town, Maude closed to make way for The Pie Room, a casual spot born of the pandemic offering a variety of pies, pastries, sandwiches, and cookies. Stone (along with his brother Luke Stone) also oversees Gwen Butcher Shop and Restaurant in Hollywood, which received its own Michelin star in 2022. His restaurant portfolio expanded globally in 2023 with the opening of Woodend by Curtis Stone at Maroma, a Belmond Hotel in Riviera Maya on Mexico's Yucatán Peninsula, which was recognized by the Michelin Guide.

Stone will be joined on stage by Alex Guarnaschelli, Iron Chef and restaurateur, blending French mastery with New York flair; Jet Tila, celebrity chef and Thai cuisine ambassador known for bold global flavors; Nancy Silverton, James Beard Award-winning chef and co-owner of the Mozza Restaurant Group; and Zac Young, pastry innovator and TV personality known for the viral PieCaken.

Later that same evening, there will be a Celebrity Chef Reception ($125) at a private location where guests can mingle and share their epicurean enthusiasm with fellow gourmands.

Saturday, March 21 and Sunday, March 22 will feature the Grand Tastings ($150-$275), with general access admission at 12 p.m. and Carte Blanche admission at 11 a.m. on Saturday. Guests can ease into Sunday starting with a vibrant three-course brunch starting at 9:30 a.m., with each course revealed and served as celebrity chefs present the menu they've carefully curated in advance ($275-$325). Once again, general admission entry for Sunday's Grand Tasting is at noon and Carte Blanche early admission is also available.

The weekend's Grand Tasting sipping options will feature more than 60 premium and sparkling wines, representing a diverse selection of the best wines in the country and the world. Both well-known favorites and hidden gems will be poured where guests can interact with the vintners and winemakers as well as purveyors of fine spirits and craft beer brewers. Merchants of wines, beer and spirits are set to include Wilson Creek Winery, HALL Napa Valley, ZD Wines, Hendrick's Gin, La Quinta Brewing Company, Sonrisa Rum and dozens of others.

Numerous area restaurants comprise the palate-pleasing event, paying homage to the region's thriving food scene. More than 40 local restaurants take part providing delectable bites prepared by talented cooks and chefs. Past years' exhibitors have included Molé, Shorebird, Jackalope Ranch, Agua Caliente Casinos, Morgan's in the Desert, Cowboy Cantina, Heirloom Craft Kitchen, Daniel's Table, Wilma & Frieda's Café, Melissa's Produce, Wall's Desert Turtle, and over two dozen others.

The Grand Tastings will also showcase a variety of foodie-favorite vendors offering top-of-the-line, unique and cutting-edge products such as spices, herbs, olive oils, cutting boards, kitchen appliances, cooking utensils and more from vendors such as Wine Me? and Wölfe Cutlery.

Produced by "Palm Springs Life" magazine, a portion of the proceeds from the event will benefit FIND Food Bank.

Taste of Tennis

The premier tennis, culinary, and lifestyle event series

The 2026 tennis season in the Coachella Valley reaches a glamorous crescendo on the evening of March 2, when the Citi Taste of Tennis returns to the Grand Hyatt Indian Wells Resort and Villas. This signature event serves as the ultimate social prelude to the BNP Paribas Open, blending the competitive energy of world-class athletes with the sophisticated artistry of master chefs. Set against the majestic backdrop of the Santa Rosa Mountains, the evening provides an immersive lifestyle experience that has become a cornerstone of the desert's spring calendar.

Guests at the 2026 edition will be treated to a gastronomic journey featuring high-concept dishes from a curated lineup of local and international culinary talent. Building on the success of past years, the event will showcase bold flavors such as pan-seared seafood, artisanal meats, and creative plant-based offerings. Renowned chefs will lead live cooking demonstrations, often inviting tennis stars to trade their rackets for aprons on stage. This unique dynamic allows attendees to sample gourmet fare while watching their favorite athletes navigate the kitchen. Complementing the food is a premium selection of craft cocktails, fine wines, and local beers, ensuring a festive environment that lasts well into the night.

The true magic of Taste of Tennis lies in its intimacy. The red carpet will buzz with appearances from the ATP and WTA elite, offering fans a rare chance to interact with stars like Alexander Zverev or Qinwen Zheng in a relaxed setting. Unlike the high-pressure atmosphere of the Indian Wells Tennis Garden, this gathering emphasizes personality and fun, featuring live music and interactive photo opportunities. It is a night where the boundaries between the baseline and the banquet table disappear, humanizing the icons of the sport for the fans who follow them.

Beyond the luxury, the 2026 event continues its vital support for Shay's Warriors – Life After Cancer. A portion of the proceeds from the $270 tickets goes directly to this Coachella Valley non-profit, helping cancer survivors reclaim their lives through community and wellness programs. This charitable focus adds a layer of depth to the celebration, making it a meaningful contribution to the local community. As the official kickoff for the desert's premier tournament, the Taste of Tennis remains an essential experience for any fan looking to celebrate the elegance and excitement of the sport under the desert stars. ■ Written by Timothy J. # Desert Dining Scene

*Rallies by day, reservations by night:
dining during tennis season in the desert*

The Coachella Valley hits its sweet spot in February and March, when the BNP Paribas Open, Desert Smash, Taste of Tennis, and a flurry of high-profile professional exhibitions turn the desert into tennis central. When the final point is played each day, the action simply shifts off court—where standout eateries in La Quinta and Indian Wells serve up winning menus that make lunch and dinner reservations just as competitive as a match between Carlos Alcaraz and Novak Djokovic or Aryna Sabalenka and Iga Świątek on Stadium Court.

Here, we showcase some of the Valley's signature dining venues in the heart of tennis territory during the second most wonderful time of the year.

DSRT CLUB

It's all about elevated dining here. Husband and wife restaurateurs Chris and Anita Chmielak have drawn inspiration from Old Hollywood to bring DSRT CLUB, the sister restaurant to RD RNNR, to Old Town La Quinta. Think swanky 1930's social club repackaged for today's gourmet scene.

The "to start and share" menu is tempting, with fire kissed broccolini, Spanish Manchego and truffle fries, and wide open black mussels 'n' wine. Club house salads serve DSRT CLUB caprese and Cali melon, while entrées feature Mr. Robinson's meatloaf, mint and pimento lamb chops, DSRT strozzapreti pasta, and certified Black Angus steak.

Creative cocktails feature bee-sting and lime in the coconut. Wines such as Patz and Hall chardonnay (Sonoma Coast) and Faust cabernet sauvignon (Napa) add finesse to every meal.

DSRT CLUB is a sumptuous stop-off after an immersive day of suspenseful tennis.

Tesla Model S Plaid

Luxury & Technology at its Best!

The 2026 Tesla Model S Plaid continues to stand as one of the most advanced electric performance sedans in the world, but beyond its extraordinary acceleration and refined luxury, it is the vehicle's evolving self-drive and driver-assistance capabilities that increasingly define its identity. Tesla's long-term vision of autonomous mobility is deeply embedded in the Model S Plaid, making it not only a showcase of electric power but also a rolling platform for advanced software, sensor integration, and artificial intelligence designed to reduce driver workload and reshape how long-distance and daily driving are experienced.

At the core of the 2026 Model S Plaid's self-driving capability is Tesla's Autopilot and optional Full Self-Driving (Supervised) system. Standard Autopilot equips the vehicle with adaptive cruise control and lane-centering assistance, allowing the car to maintain speed, adjust to traffic flow, and stay centered in its lane on clearly marked roads. In real-world use, this translates into a calmer and less fatiguing experience during highway commutes and long road trips, particularly in heavy traffic where constant braking and acceleration can be tiresome. The system relies on a suite of exterior cameras, radar-less vision processing, and neural network software that continuously interprets the driving environment in real time.

For owners who opt for Full Self-Driving (Supervised), the 2026 Model S Plaid extends these capabilities significantly. The system is designed to assist with navigating city streets, handling turns, responding to traffic lights and stop signs, and performing lane changes with minimal driver input. While Tesla emphasizes that the system still requires active supervision, the experience can feel remarkably advanced in controlled conditions. On urban roads, the vehicle is capable of smoothly slowing for intersections, proceeding through green lights, and making calculated turns based on surrounding traffic. On highways, it can manage merges, take exits, and perform overtaking maneuvers with a level of confidence that reflects years of iterative software development.

One of the most notable aspects of Tesla's self-drive approach is its reliance on over-the-air software updates. The 2026 Model S Plaid is not a static product; its self-driving behavior can evolve and improve over time without a visit to a dealership. Tesla routinely refines object recognition, path planning, and driving logic through updates that are informed by billions of miles of real-world data collected across its global fleet. This means that the Plaid a driver experiences at delivery may behave more smoothly, confidently, and intelligently months or years later, reinforcing the perception that ownership includes ongoing technological advancement rather than a fixed feature set.

The Plaid's self-driving system is supported by powerful onboard computing hardware designed specifically for autonomous processing. Tesla's custom AI computer processes visual data from multiple high-resolution cameras positioned around the vehicle, creating a 360-degree understanding of the environment. This hardware enables rapid decision-making, allowing the vehicle to respond to dynamic situations such as sudden braking by other drivers, pedestrians approaching crosswalks, or changing traffic patterns. The result is a system that prioritizes smoothness and predictability, traits that are especially noticeable during stop-and-go traffic and extended highway cruising.

Interior design elements of the 2026 Model S Plaid subtly reinforce its autonomous ambitions. The expansive central touchscreen provides clear visualizations of surrounding vehicles, lane markings, and traffic controls as perceived by the car, offering drivers transparency into what the system "sees." This visualization builds confidence and trust, particularly for those new to semi-autonomous driving. The optional yoke steering wheel, while controversial, aligns with Tesla's forward-looking design language and hints at a future where manual steering inputs may become less central to the driving experience.

From a practical standpoint, the self-drive features of the Model S Plaid significantly enhance daily usability. Long freeway drives become less physically demanding, while commuting in congested areas feels more manageable. The system's ability to maintain consistent spacing, smooth acceleration, and gentle braking often results in a more refined ride than many human drivers can achieve, especially in dense traffic. Combined with the Plaid's near-silent electric drivetrain and improved sound insulation for 2026, the self-driving experience contributes to a sense of calm that contrasts sharply with the car's extreme performance potential.

Safety remains a critical dimension of Tesla's self-drive technology. The 2026 Model S Plaid includes a comprehensive suite of active safety features such as automatic emergency braking, forward collision warning, blind-spot monitoring, and lane departure avoidance. These systems operate continuously in the background, regardless of whether Autopilot or Full Self-Driving is engaged, providing an added layer of protection. Tesla positions its autonomous systems not as replacements for driver attention, but as tools designed to reduce human error, which remains the leading cause of road accidents.

In the broader context of the automotive industry, the self-drive capabilities of the 2026 Model S Plaid underscore Tesla's unique software-first philosophy. While many luxury performance sedans emphasize mechanical refinement alone, the Plaid blends extraordinary speed with a vision of increasingly automated mobility. It offers owners a glimpse into a future where vehicles handle more of the cognitive burden of driving, allowing occupants to focus on comfort, awareness, and enjoyment of the journey.

Ultimately, the 2026 Tesla Model S Plaid is as much about autonomy as it is about acceleration. Its self-driving systems reflect Tesla's ambition to redefine what a performance sedan can be, combining supercar-level speed with intelligent assistance that transforms how the car is used every day. For drivers who value both cutting-edge technology and real-world convenience, the Plaid delivers an experience that feels firmly rooted in the future of mobility. ■ Written by Timothy J. Pade

The Diamond Tennis Bracelet

Where elegance meets everyday luxury

The diamond tennis bracelet is perhaps the most versatile and iconic piece of jewelry in the modern era, balancing an understated elegance with a high-octane sparkle that fits just as well on the center court of a stadium as it does at a black-tie gala. Originally known as a diamond line bracelet, it earned its famous moniker in 1987 when professional tennis player Chris Evert lost her diamond bracelet during a match at the US Open. She requested that officials pause the game so she could search for her jewelry, and from that moment forward, the "tennis bracelet" became an essential part of every woman's wardrobe. When entering the price bracket of $10,000 to $100,000, one moves beyond simple fashion accessories and into the realm of fine jewelry and significant investment pieces, where the quality of the stones and the craftsmanship of the setting take precedence above all else.

www.revediamonds.com

In the $10,000 to $30,000 range, consumers typically find bracelets that offer a substantial total carat weight, often ranging from 5 to 10 carats depending on the quality of the diamonds. At this price point, the focus is largely on achieving a brilliant "wall of light" effect on the wrist. A classic choice in this tier would be a 14k or 18k white gold setting featuring round brilliant-cut diamonds. The stones in these pieces are usually graded G-H for color and VS2-SI1 for clarity, ensuring that while the diamonds are not flawless under a microscope, they appear perfectly white and eye-clean to the naked eye. This range is popular for those seeking a daily-wear luxury piece that feels significant without being overly ostentatious. The security of the clasp becomes paramount here, with triple-lock mechanisms becoming standard to prevent the very incident that gave the bracelet its name.

As the price moves into the $30,000 to $60,000 bracket, the scale and technical precision of the jewelry increase dramatically. Here, one begins to see a shift toward platinum settings, which provide a more durable and naturally white backdrop that will never yellow over time. The total carat weight often jumps to 15 or 20 carats, meaning each individual diamond in the line is large enough to be appreciated as a solitary gem. In this mid-tier luxury range, the color and clarity of the stones are heightened, often moving into the F-G color range and VS1 clarity or better. This is also the category where fancy-shaped diamonds start to make a frequent appearance. While the round brilliant remains the traditional choice, emerald-cut or radiant-cut tennis bracelets in this price range offer a more architectural and modern aesthetic, requiring incredibly precise matching to ensure that every rectangular stone has the same depth and table proportions.

The elite tier of tennis bracelets, priced between $60,000 and $100,000, represents the pinnacle of jewelry manufacturing. These are investment-grade pieces that often feature diamonds of 25 to 40 total carats. In a bracelet of this caliber, the stones are virtually colorless—graded D, E, or F—and possess high clarity ratings of VVS1 or VVS2. Matching a line of forty or fifty diamonds of this quality is an immense challenge for a jeweler, as the stones must not only match in their 4C ratings but also in their physical dimensions and fluorescence. A mismatch of even a fraction of a millimeter or a slight difference in how a stone reacts to UV light can ruin the fluid, seamless look of the piece. These bracelets are often custom-made to the wearer's wrist size to ensure that the diamonds wrap perfectly around the skin without twisting or flipping.

The craftsmanship involved in these high-end pieces is as important as the diamonds themselves. In the upper echelons of pricing, the metalwork is designed to be as minimal as possible, allowing the diamonds to take center stage. Hand-carved prongs and articulated links that move with the fluidity of silk are the hallmarks of a $100,000 bracelet. The goal is to create a piece that feels like a ribbon of light rather than a heavy metal chain. Furthermore, the debate between natural and lab-grown diamonds often surfaces in these discussions. While lab-grown diamonds allow for significantly larger stones at lower prices, the $10,000 to $100,000 market remains dominated by natural diamonds due to their inherent rarity and long-term value retention.

Ultimately, choosing a diamond tennis bracelet in this expansive price range is a deeply personal endeavor. Whether one prioritizes the sheer size of the diamonds, the purity of the color, or the historical prestige of a designer brand, the result is a piece of jewelry that transcends seasonal trends. A well-chosen tennis bracelet is more than just a purchase; it is a legacy item that can be passed down through generations, maintaining its brilliance and its symbolic status as the ultimate expression of refined luxury. As the stones catch the light with every movement of the hand, the bracelet serves as a constant reminder of the enduring beauty that only high-quality diamonds and expert craftsmanship can provide.
